Please Mr. Capone.
And Mr. Capone Pleases.
Who Can Follow a Pigeon?
Mr. Gifford's Big Job.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ELKHART, Ind., Aug. 27. CHICAGO. A few miles to the west of this fast Century train, was still interested this morning in the kidnaping of John J. Lynch, described as "a wealthy turfman." His business is supplying race track information to gamblers. The kidnapers demand $250,000 for his return. If the money is not paid, they will kill him with no charge for that.

THE UNUSUAL THING about this kidnaping is Chicago's semi-official appeal to Mr. Al Capone. "Won't you please bring back Mr. Lynch? You could do it; our police cannot."

Out speaks the great heart of Capone, harboring no resentment, although he is under federal indictment and on his way to jail: "A kidnaper is no better than a rat, and I do not approve his racket, because it makes the kidnaped man's wife and kiddies worry so much. I shall be glad to help Chicago in this emergency if I can."

THAT'S AS THOUGH Rockefeller had said: "I shall be glad to lend you $5, if I can raise the money."

Police predict that Mr. Lynch will be returned to wife, and to kiddies, if there are any, within 24 hours, perhaps before you see this, and they thfnk his ransom will be reduced to $50,000 from $250,000. Nothing more touching since the King of Spain released Duguesclin, without any ransom at all.

CHICAGO MIGHT revise the statement of the "I will" lady, changing her motto to read "I will, with the kind permission of Mr. Capone."

On Long Island, far off to the east, a father, obeying orders, found a carrier pigeon at a certain spot, fastened large bills to the bird and released it, hoping for the return of his kidnaped 16-year-old son.

That ingenious plan will interest the heads of our new crime industry. A pigeon cannot talk, cannot walk home, with detectives following, cannot be followed through the air.

Imagine the gratification of some "unemployed" that might shoot the pigeon, and find the $500 bills attached.

The good bishop of olden days that dropped his jewel-studded gold cross overboard, in the middle of the sea, and had it handed to him politely by a large crab as he stepped ashore, could not be more pleasantly surprised.

MUSSOLINI ANNOUNCES a program of winter work for the idle that will cost $45,000,000 and employ 100,000 men.

A talk with Mussolini might interest President Hoover and Walter S. Gifford, in charge of our problem, more than many talks with the Advisory Committee of Sixty.

And this is said with the greatest respect for the ability of the President and Mr. Gifford and the committee. Mussolini has personally handled a nation's problems and its population, sweeping aside all other authority for years, and he possesses unique experience.

IT SHOULD BE understood that Mr. Gifford is chosen by the President to attend alone to the unemployment problem and that full authority, as far as the President can give it, is in Mr. Gifford's hands.

The Committee of Sixty, comprising the ablest executives in America, is purely an advisory committee. There will be no divided authority. This is emphasized, because a paragraph recently published here might give a contrary impression.

THE SERIOUS news is across the ocean in England, where the proud British have come to rely upon the text "I have been young, and now am old, yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread."

THINK OF THE BANK of England, drained of its gold by the Bank of France, and the empire that could borrow endless millions sterling under 2 per cent a year, worried about a trifling deficit of $600,000,000. In the roaring 1929s this country would have lent that amount to Liberia, or Kamschatka.

THE WORLD ADMIRES MacDonald's spirit, giving up power and party for the sake of his country. No one that has seen and heard him is surprised. He is a noble man, in a sense higher than Debrett's definition.

If the Labor Party that he has created now rejects him, it will confirm the opinion of our "best American minds" that "any group of men with enough ability to run an empire would not be in a Labor party, because they would not need to labor."

SENATOR LEWIS, of Illinois, sees a danger. Russia is making non-aggressive pacts with Poland, France and other countries, getting ready to attack us, and take back Alaska.

Why not take New York, which still contains much money, or Washington, with its $5,000,000,000 of real gold?

RUSSIA WILL attack us to make us recognize her, according to Senator Lewis and we ought to be prepared.

We certainly ought to be prepared. We got Alaska from Russia at a bargain, such a bargain as might well make us for-

PEN DOCTOR, 4 CONVICTS DIE IN BOLT

Prisoners End Own Lives When Plot Fails; Guard, One Trusty Shot Down

MARQUETTE, Mich., Aug. 27. — (AP.) — The acting prison physician was slain and a guard and a trusty wounded in an attempted break at the state branch prison here today by four convicts, who then committed suicide when their plot was foiled.

Three of the convicts ended their lives after they had barricaded themselves in the industrial building of the prison, with a score of guards surrounding them. The fourth shot himself a half hour later when he fired at a guard in another wing of the prison and missed.

DOCTOR SLAIN

The slain acting prison doctor was A. W. Hornbogen. He was shot to death in the hospital near the main gate of the prison when three of the convicts attempted to make a break for freedom through the hospital exit.

The convicts were Tony Germano, Toledo, O., sentenced to 25 to 50 years for wounding a Birmingham (Mich.) patrolman; Leo Duver, Charles Rosbury and Frank Hohfer. Germano and Hohfer were at one time charged with alliance with the Laman-Andrews kidnaping gang of Detroit.

Warden James P. Corgan said that a general riot at first was feared, but that his guards were

"I find I can go a little farther each day. It will take a great deal of walking to forget these last two months in that cast."

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Although John J. Lynch has been freed by his kidnapers, "Scarface" Al Capone is still wanted for questioning in the case, Pat Roche, chief investigator for the State's Attorney's office, announced today. Roche also said he wanted to question Lynch as to whether he paid any ransom. The kidnap victim denied Capone was connected with the abduction.

Lynch, wealthy turfman, who was held for a king's ransom, came back home shortly after dawn.

His haggard face revealing the strain he has been under during his week of imprisonment, the sporting man drove up to his spacious mansion on Lake Geneva and quickly denied reports that $50,000 had been paid for his release. Originally, the abductors—who were sought by the star detectives of Chicago and Southern Wisconsin, as well as by Capone henchmen—had set their demands at 250,000. This was one of the largest ransoms ever asked by kidnapers.

CAPONE SOUGHT

Lynch insisted Al Capone had nothing to do with the kidnaping. The gang chief, who had offered his services to aid in locating the gambler's abductors, today was missing from his usual haunts.

Raids, ordered by Roche because of alleged "double crossing" in connection with the search for the kidnapers, revealed that Capone had disappeared from his hotel here. It had been reported the gangster had helped to arrange freeing Lynch for $50,000.

In spite of Lynch's insistence that Capone was not involved,

PIRATE-BRUIN GAME STOPPED

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

FORBES FIELD, Aug. 27.—The Pirates were leading the Cubs, 3 to 1, in the fifth inning today when a heavy downpour caused a halt in the first game of today's double-header.

The Cubs had scored one run in the fifth and had two on base when the rain forced Umpire Rigler to suspend play.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Conquering at last in its 10 months' battle against fire and wave and wind, the gigantic flying boat DO-X arrived by a roundabout course from Germany today with 72 persons aboard.

Its 12 great American engines throbbing above the Narrows—the Atlantic steamers' gateway to New York—the DO-X at 12:15 p. m. (Pittsburgh time) scudded through gray skies past the Statue of Liberty, her arms flung high as though in proud salute.

The engines' roar mingled with screaming sirens of ferryboats and other harbor craft and with the

Quake Fails to Interrupt Lindys at Breakfast

TOKIO, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Given a day pretty much to themselves before being led into an ambitious round of functions in their honor, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh today got some rest, experienced a slight earthquake and visited Japan's two greatest shrines.

It was their second day in Tokio and had been set aside to permit the couple to rest from the long flight from New York, which they completed yesterday.

The earthquake occurred while they were at breakfast in the home of Dr. R. B. Teusler, their residence during their stay here. A slight rattle of dishes on the table and the trembling of flowers in a vase apprised them of the shock, which did not interrupt their meal.

The Ministry of Communications disclosed it was planning to petition Emperor Hirohito to decorate Lindbergh with the Order of the Rising Sun for his "meritorious flight and promoting the friendship of Japan and America."

Lindbergh decided today to have his plane completely overhauled at Kasumigaura naval base. After inspecting the plane, he announced that the motor trouble which caused the delay in the Kurile Islands was due to faulty spark plugs which became fouled with oil.

MRS. WORTHINGTON SCRANTON

HOOVER, BANK HEADS DINE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—The general business situation was the subject of a White House dinner conference last night between President Hoover and the heads of three large New York banking houses and Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board.

Those attending the conference were William C. Potter, president of the Guaranty Trust Company; Charles S. McGain, president, and James J. Lee, vice president of the Chase National Bank, and George W. Davison, president of the Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company.

The meeting, it was said at the White House, was arranged by Gov. Meyer. Beyond saying that it was for the discussion of the general business situation, the White House would make no comment on the conference.

Mrs. Worthington Scranton, of Scranton, Pennsylvania's only representative on the Republican National Committee, also called on Hoover yesterday to discuss relief. She assured the President of her personal support of the administration plan for organizing local relief agencies, and opposed Gov. Pinchot's appeal for a special session of Congress.

Call on Troopers Likely; Mellon Meets Candidates

State Police May Be Asked to Guard Registration

WRIT ON SCHAD

Hearing Scheduled in Move to Open Books

BULLETIN

Chairman George J. Schad, of the Board for Revision and Assessment of Taxes, shortly before 3 p. m. today stopped all additional assessments, following the ordering of a hearing tomorrow on a demand that these lists be certified to the treasurer. Acceptance of extra assessment poll tax payment was also stopped in the County Treasurer's office simultaneously with Schad's action.

The first step of the Allegheny Bar Association's fight to keep the vote lists in the coming election free from "phantom voters" was taken this afternoon when a writ of mandamus was served on Chairman George J. Schad, of the County Board for Revision and Assessment of Taxes.

The writ calls for a hearing at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow, before Judge James H. Gray, of Common Pleas Court, on the Bar Association's petion that names recorded on the board's additional assessment books be certified to the county treasurer.

This, under a new act of Assembly, makes the names available for inspection by "the proper authorities."

THOUSANDS OF NAMES

The petition was filed by Deputy Attorney General Ralph H. Smith, acting for Attorney General William Schnader, who in turn was acting for the Bar Association's Committee on Election Frauds.

The additional assessment books contain thousands of names and persons missed by assessors and have been being compiled for about two weeks. They will be closed to entries September 2.

At that time, Schad said they were needed in his own office and could not be spared.

Today he said:

"We welcome any investigation of our office. Naturally the courts will decide. We have been withholding the books for certification simply for our own protection."

The Tax Board, as an extra precaution and for its own protection, C. J. McBride, a board member, said, has been requiring each person applying for assessment to make an affidavit that he is assessable. This, McBride explained does not mean that he is eligible for registration, a decision that comes under the provinces of the Registration Commission.

Friebertshauser Quits Contest Against Mackrell

Outstanding developments in the welter of Allegheny County's political war today were these:

1—A strong intimation that the Registration Commission will ask Gov. Pinchot for state troopers to guard against the registration of illegally assessed voters.

2—Withdrawal of Edward D. Friebertshauser as a candidate for Register of Wills and his indorsement of the incumbent, Joseph N. Mackrell, following Mayor Charles H. Kline's decision to support the latter.

3—W. L. Mellon, Republican "Organization" leader, held separate conferences with State Senator James J. Coyne and County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, two of the candidates for the majority commissionerships. Coyne went from this conference directly to another with Mayor Kline.

4—Books containing the names of voters in the first six wards of Pittsburgh were withheld by the Registration Commission. Registrars were told that the commission wished to investigate the fitness and legality of applicants for registrations.

5—The Allegheny County Bar Association's first move to bar "phantom voters" from the polls came when Judge Gray ordered a hearing at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow on the petition of the association's election fraud committee for immediate certification of additional assessment books by the Board for Revision and Assessment of Taxes.

By MARK SHIELDS

Gov. Pinchot probably will be asked to send state police to Pittsburgh to patrol registration booths on the three registration days preceding the primary election.

The Pittsburgh registration commission, following a conference yesterday with Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish, is known to be considering such a request. The state troopers would be placed at polling places in districts where the number of assessments far surpasses the actual number of voters believed to reside in the districts.

TERRORISM CHARGED

Through this method, the Commission hopes to prevent the addition to the registry lists of thousands of phantom voters. On behalf of the Commission, it is charged in certain districts registrars in the past have been terrorized by election gangsters. Repeaters traveling from district to district have registered under assessments from residences known to be false or without existence, it is said, and on election day these names have been voted, making a farce of the ballot.

The Commission, through its investigators, intends to check the validity of assessments, furnishing state police with information

M'CLURE PILOT FOR MANSFIELD

Senator William D. Mansfield, Republican candidate for County Commissioner, today named James H. McClure, member of the Legislature from Glassport, as his campaign manager. McClure will take charge of the Mansfield headquarters in the William Penn Hotel tomorrow.

Mrs. E. C. Weaver, Wilkinsburg civic worker, will act as vice chairman in the Mansfield campaign.

In a statement accompanying the appointments, Mansfield said:

"Mr. McClure has been chosen because of his independent thought and action as a member of the General Assembly. Mrs. Weaver has been chosen because of her wide acquaintance and activity among independent voters throughout the county."

Police Called From Beds To Get Voting Orders

Police business was successfully suspended this afternoon while lieutenants, sergeants and patrolmen were called from their beats, their beds and their pleasures and told how to vote.

The administration ticket — containing only one indorsement for county commissioner — State Senator James J. Coyne — were passed out.

The first of the meetings packed Center Avenue Police Station to the doors. Public Safety Director James M. Clark and Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh spoke. No attempt was made at coercion, it was said later, Clark and Walsh speaking "as man-to-man." Meetings at four other police stations followed.

Inspector Albert Beebe, of the First District, denied the meeting was of the "bread and butter" variety. He said:

"We don't go in for such things. Armstrong will give you all of that you want."

Council—R. J. Alderdice, John M. Phillips, William J. Soost and James P. Rooney.

City Controller, James P. Kerr; County Treasurer, Robert J. Cain; District Attorney, Andrew T. Park; Recorder of Deeds, Samuel D. Foster; Clerk of Courts, S. J. Topley; Prothonotary, John Vogt; Register of Wills, Joseph N. Mackrell; County Controller, Robert G. Woodside.

LABOR PARTY REPUDIATES MACDONALD; ATTACKS BANKERS

CABINET CRASH CHARGED TO FINANCIERS

Manifesto Alleges Plot to Lower Workers' Standard Of Living in Britain

LONDON, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Organized labor in Great Britain definitely repudiated Ramsay MacDonald's new national government today in a joint manifesto to the Trades Union Congress and the parliamentary Labor party charging that private banking interests had precipitated England's crisis and seized of government. The manifesto said:

"It is determined to attack the standard of living of the workers to meet the situation caused by policies pursued by private banking interests in control of which the public has no part.

"It seeks to enforce a complete change of national policy not because the nation's resources have suddenly diminished but because the nation can not afford to provide for its unemployed, not because the budget can not be balanced, but primarily because financial interests have decided that this country is setting a bad example to other countries in taxing the rich to provide for the poor."

The policy of the new government, the document asserts, is fundamentally an attempt to reverse the social policies built up largely through the activities of the labor organization. The statement said:

"If there were a will to do so we could overcome the immediate difficulties by mobilizing the country's foreign investments of £4,000,000,000 about $20,000,000,000 by temporary suspension of the sinking fund by taxing fixed-interest bearing securities and other unearned income which benefitted by the fall in prices and by enacting measures to reduce the burden of war debts."

LABOR INDORSES PROSPERITY BOND ISSUE

Universal Service.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 27.—With the backing of the executive council, which insures its adoption, a resolution indorsing the William Randolph Hearst plan for a "prosperity bond issue" of at least $5,000,000,000 to restore prosperity was introduced in the State Federation of Labor convention here today.

The resolution calls upon President Hoover to convene Congress for the purpose of authorizing the bond issue, the proceeds to be expended in job-providing public improvements and loaned to states and municipalities where called for.

Hugh Frayne, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, was the principal speaker at today's session, declaring the present "economic" depression was brought about "deliberately and of greed," and that unnamed individuals responsible for it could have prevented it in the first instance and stopped it in its early stages."

As the fundamental cure for unemployment, Frayne advanced the five-day week in industry, and as supplemental remedial measures he urged that machines which supplant human labor in industry be taxed and the proceeds used to create unemployment funds; that married women with wage-earning husbands be driven out of industry in competition with men, and that the laws against child labor be enforced strictly.

DUCE TO VISIT POPE IN FALL

ROME, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Premier Mussolini's long deferred visit to the Pope is planned for this autumn as a seal of lasting accord between the Vatican and the Italian government, it was said today in well-informed diplomatic circles.

Negotiations for this accord were authoritatively reported to be on the basis of the reopening of the 15,000 Catholic Action clubs and the strengthening of the church's conduct of Italian youth.

The Premier was to have made an official visit to the Pope nearly two years ago as one of the developments in connection with the Lateran treaties and the concordat. The Pope postponed the call as a result of a controversy over the exact scope of the agreements; it was generally supposed and there never was any formal announcement the Premier would go to the Vatican.

Diplomatic procedure, however, implied there should be some gesture of that sort.

HOOVER WARNS NOT TO COODLE CRIMINALS

Approves Probe Into Capital 'Third Degree;' Declares Police Deserve Sympathy

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—While favoring "severe punishment" for policemen who overstep the bounds in giving prisoners the third degree, President Hoover today soundeed a warning against too much public sympathy with criminals.

The President's views were contained in a letter to Solicitor General Thacher approving a Department of Justice investigation of brutal methods reported to have been used by the capital police force in forcing confessions from prisoners.

His letter follows:

"I am glad to approve, in the special circumstances of the federal government's relation to the District of Columbia, that the Department of Justice should accede to the request of the District Commissioners for aid in investigation of recent charges against certain members of the Washington police.

"However, we must not overlook the fact that Washington has an able and devoted police force. The vast majority of its honest men should be protected by determining if there are unworthy men in their midst. It is always possible that occasional individuals may have overstepped the law and humanity in treatment of criminals and those charged with crime, and, if so, they should be severely punished.

"But even in such charge the police should not be prejudged on the allegations of criminals themselves or those accused of crime. There is too much tendency on the part of some people to forget the devoted work of the police, to forget the safety of society, and the victims of criminals out of sympathy with criminals themselves."

able to maintain control of the situation. All of the guns obtained by the prisoners were in his custody, he said, and the prison was quiet.

An armored car, occupied by uniformed men who represented themselves as Detroit police here to return certain convicts to the metropolis for grand jury questioning, was reported outside the prison walls when the shooting started. It disappeared.

Frank Oligschlager, a prison trusty, was wounded by one of the three convicts and physicians said he had little chance to survive. He was an attendant in the prison hospital. Joe Cowling, assistant deputy warden, received a flesh wound during the gunfight in the hospital.

According to the story told by prison guards Germano Rostoni and Dover entered the prison hospital for treatment about 8 a. m. The manner in which the shooting was started was not explained, but Dr. Hornbogen, a former president of the Michigan State Medical Society, who was acting as prison doctor in the absence of Dr. L. I. Youngquist, was shot and killed at the first outburst. The trusty Oligschlager attempted to prevent the escape and was shot in the abdomen and the guard Cowling was wounded.

TRAPPED MEN GASSED

The guards then forced the trio into the industrial building nearby. Tear gas was thrown into the barricade which they erected and when the gas cleared away the men were found to have committed suicide with the guns they used in their attempted escape.

After quiet had been restored in the hospital section, Frank Hohifer, a prisoner in the F wing of the institution, fired at a guard and missed. Hohifer then shot and killed himself. Guards said they had not established the connection between Hohifer's act and the attempted break.

Rosbury and Dover, sentenced from Detroit were serving life terms. Germano from Toledo O. and Hohifer from Detroit were serving sentences of 20 to 50 years.

Fred Burke, notorious bank robber and killer, was committed several months ago for killing a St. Joseph, Mich., policeman when the officer attempted to question him concerning a minor traffic accident.

Last week the three torch slayers who killed and buried two young couples on a lonely country road near Ann Arbor, Mich., were placed in the institution. They are David Blackstone, a Negro; Fred Smith, a former convict, and Frank Oliver, a 19-year-old painter.

LANDS IN CHOPPY WATER

The giant flying boat continued up the Hudson River to the new bridge which joins the Bronx to Jersey and then, swinging widely, returned downstream to effect a graceful descent upon the choppy waters between the Battery and Bedloe's Island. The DO-X which left Norfolk, Va., at 9:16 this morning was first sighted by the crowds that thronged the park at Manhattan's southern extremity at 12:15 and it alighted on the water at 12:35.

Launches immediately set out to bring passengers and crew ashore for the official reception.

The DO-X left Lake Constance in Germany early last November for New York by way of the South Atlantic and South America. At Lisbon fire destroyed one wing and when at last it was repaired and the journey resumed other trouble were encountered.

In the Canaries a giant wave crashed over the ship and seriously damaged it. High waves prevented a take off and adverse winds delayed its flight. Months passed and the winter was gone and summer here before the shores of South America were reached.

FLIERS GIVEN MEDALS

Still further difficulties developed there. An engine was broken and had to be replaced. The great ship was placed in dry dock and the crew grew restive at the delay. The captain and the American first pilot, Clarence Schildhauer, came to the United States ahead of the main fleet. Schildhauer returned to South America, however, and it was he who brought the DO-X down in the harbor today.

At Port 4, the Battery, where customs officials, the DO-X was brought to a pier after customs and immigration formalities were completed with the board an official greeting was tendered by the Mayor's committee for the reception of the distinguished visitors. Medals were presented and brief addresses made.

Then the crew was taken back to the DO-X in the Manhattan to Bowery Bay. There it will ride at anchor on public view while it remains in New York.

STIMSON CALLS ON MACDONALD

LONDON, Aug. 27.—(INS.)—Henry L. Stimson, United States secretary of state, paid an ante-breakfast visit to Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald at 10 Downing street today.

The visit, it was officially stated, was to discuss ways and means of prolonging the "splendid relations" between Great Britain and the United States.

A spokesman at Downing street said it was in the nature of a "farewell" call and that the subject of loans to bolster Britain's credit had not been discussed.

Secretary Stimson, who has enjoyed a close friendship with Premier MacDonald during the series of international conferences held during the last two years, was an interested spectator of the events leading up to the fall of the Premier's Laborite ministry.

Told the great sheik would like to see him, Walker said:

"I'd change places with him any time."

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—John Haynes Holmes, pastor of the Community Church in New York, said today that he and Rabbi Stephen Wise would return to New York about the middle of September and would "immediately renew efforts to have Mayor Walker ousted."

But Russia is not going so far back for a pretext.

If she wants to fight us, which she does not want, being intelligently managed, she will fight and be done with it. For war, you need little excuse.

WHY WAS THE LAST war fought? Because an obscure fanatic killed an Austrian prince of no consequence, and then 20,000,000 were killed and $250,000,000,000 spent.

She was discharged and turned over to welfare workers by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg.

PINCHOT FLEES VOTE ROWS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 27.—(INS.)—By absenting himself from Harrisburg until after the primaries, Gov. Pinchot intends to prevent his becoming further embroiled in the bitter factional wars in almost every county, it was indicated today.

The Governor announced he would leave tonight for his Milford home and hinted he would not be available to favor-seekers.

Administration participation in county fights has caused the Governor considerable trouble, particularly in Allegheny County.

The situation in Dauphin County also reached the breaking point today with publication of a letter from anti-Pinchot forces who charged Capitol Hill employes are being coerced with threats of dismissal and demands for campaign contributions "in the name and behalf" of the Governor.

He had a bad time all the way across the English channel and part of the boat on the way became so he was afraid of seasickness.

He staggered ashore greatly weakened by his ordeal, and the first thing he asked for was a glass of water.

TammanyLaudsRoosevelt; Calls Probe G. O. P. Plot

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 27.—(INS.)—Tammany Hall, through one of its legislative spokesmen, charged today that the real motive behind the Republican investigation of Mayor Jimmie Walker's administration of New York City affairs was to stop the presidential candidacy of Gov. Roosevelt.

Desperate efforts were being resorted to by Tammany at today's special session of the Legislature to prevent the passage of a bill empowering the Hofstadter Committee, which is investigating New York City, to grant immunity to witnesses.

Senator John J. McNaboe, Tammany member of the Hofstadter Committee, declared:

"The real purpose behind this bill is to stop the momentum of the presidential candidacy of the great governor of this state."

POLICE DIG UP YARD IN HUNT FOR BODIES

Family Missing After Mail Romance With W. Va. Man Discovered Stripping Home

PARK RIDGE, Ill., Aug. 27.—(INS.)—A widow and her three children who disappeared from this Chicago suburb two months ago were the objects of a wide search today as police uncovered evidence which led them to believe the four may have been slain by a matrimonial agency swindler.

Mrs. Ada Eicher and her children have not been seen here since the last of June.

William A. McKee, village mayor, became suspicious Saturday of a man coming to take possession of the Eicher home. The man used the name of Cornelius Pierson, of Clarksburg, W. Va., in letters to Mrs. Eicher. He has not been seen since he was questioned by H. W. Johnson, chief of police. A second man, believed a confederate of Pierson's, was seen at the Eicher home by a neighbor two weeks ago, and also is being sought.

FOUND STRIPPING HOME

Chief Johnson found the Eicher home being stripped and the belongings being stored in the garage by Pierson who showed a letter, supposedly from Mrs. Eicher, authorizing him to dispose of her property. He said:

"Mrs. Eicher has gone to Colorado for a vacation. I'm going to marry her. The children have been sent to Europe."

Officers found 50 letters written by Pierson to Mrs. Eicher. They revealed he obtained her name from a matrimonial bureau of Fairmont, W. Va. Pierson in them described himself as a wealthy engineer and after corresponding from January 19 to June 17 arrived here on June 22 apparently with Mrs. Eicher's consent to marry her.

SEEK BODIES IN YARD

Neighbors said he appeared June 22 and lived at the Eicher home a week. Mrs. Eicher left a day after he did with a few pieces of luggage without telling her friends her plans. The children remained until Pierson returned for them.

Fairmont police informed Park Ridge officials they could not find the Eichers there, although a playmate of Greta Eicher received a letter postmarked there.

Park Ridge authorities believe Pierson corresponded with the widow with the intention of obtaining her property, valued at about $20,000. Police began digging in the Eicher yard today to see if any bodies were buried.

Clarksburg Mail Call Clue to Plot Suspect

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 27.—(INS.)—Detectives struck a hot trail today in their search for "Cornelius Pierson," wanted in connection with the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Ada Eicher and her three children from their suburban Chicago home, when they learned that Pierson had called at the postoffice last night for mail.

Chief of Police C. A. Duckworth revealed this information to International News Service today. Pierson, whose identity is shrouded in mystery locally, has maintained a box at the postoffice for three months, Duckworth said.

Duckworth and Prosecuting Attorney Will E. Morris said they had no inkling of the man's identity. Duckworth said he had learned, however, that the license plates used on Pierson's machine, a small coupe, had been stolen recently from another Clarksburg resident.

The shell exploded while John, 7, brother of the victim, was playing with the gun.

STABBING JAILS FOLLIES GIRL

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(INS.)—While "Tough Willie McCabe, a pal of the slain gaming king, Arnold Rothstein, was recovering from wounds received in a night club brawl, Hilda Ferguson, former Follies girl, was held today in $5,000 bail as a witness in general sessions.

Miss Ferguson, a friend of Dot King, the show girl and model murdered in 1923, told Judge Frieschi:

"My dear, I was in the women's room when the stabbing occurred and I really don't know anything about it."

The judge smiled at the "My Dear" and Miss Ferguson went immediately to Harlem prison.

Sam Thorpe, owner of the 61 Club, said two men had walked past a table where McCabe, Miss Ferguson and another couple were sitting and that McCabe threw a drink in the face of one of the men. The fight followed.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney meanwhile continued the police drive against gangsters and gunmen.

It was reported he would be joined in his fight against lawbreakers by Samuel Seabury, New York's crime crusader.

Police checking upon the girl's movements said she never reached the store.

WILKINS BEGINS RESEARCH IN ARCTIC SEA

Scientist Associate Takes Age-old Polar Deposit From Bottom of Ocean

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS
(By radio, via American Radio News Corporation and Radiomarine Corporation.)

ABOARD SUBMARINE NAUTILIUS IN ARCTIC OCEAN, Aug. 27.—(Via radio through Tuckerton Station.)—A column of Arctic mud 17 inches long and one inch thick, brown from the surface for 15 inches and then pale blue, representing the deposits in Polar waters of hundreds or thousands or perhaps hundreds of thousands of years. This is the first result of the operation with the new type of deep sea bottom sampler designed and operated by Prof. Sverdrup.

Yesterday we pushed into ice which was still heaving with the swell of a northeast wind, but the rise and fall was too great for us to shove our steel nose under it.

We turned again to the open water and, taking chances in the heaving sea, we filled the diving chamber with air and then dropped the bottom door, revealing beneath our hull the opalescent sea.

Its temperature at the surface was three degrees below freezing. The depth was 5,220 feet.

A glass tube four feet long encased in steel and topped by weights of 100 pounds, and with a sliding messenger of brass to cap the tube after it was drawn from the bottom, constitutes the bottom sampler.

It was lowered on the end of a special one-eighth inch wire.

Nothing of its kind has been used before in Arctic waters. The samples brought up for our collection are unique, but we hope to add many others as we proceed.

The diving compartment under the control of Capt. Danenhower, Frank Crilley, our chief diver, and Ralph Shaw, chief engineer, worked splendidly.

RED TESTIFIES IN RIOT TRIAL

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 27.—Leo Thompson, 23, organizer for the National Miners Union, declared himself a Communist when placed on the witness stand by the defense in the trial of two women and nine men before Judge Erwin Cummins on charges of conspiracy, unlawful assembly and riot during the disturbance at Canonsburg July 19.

Thompson denied that the National Miners Union, whose members precipitated the attack on United Mine Workers at Canonsburg, was composed of Communists.

Adam Getto and Mike Tarras, of Bentleyville, indicted and waiting trial for a riot in Ellsworth last summer, were ejected from the court during the trial today and arrested on a disorderly conduct charge. As a result of disorder in the court yesterday all but witnesses and persons having business in the court were barred. Getto and Tarras were found in the room and were ejected by Sheriff Seaman. A fight started in the corridor and the men were lodged in the city jail.

HOOVER LEADER LINKED TO CANNON

Frelinghuysen Contributed $10,000 to Anti-Smith Campaign, Senate Told

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The anti-Smith campaign conducted in the South in 1928 by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, was partly financed by former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen (Rep.), of New Jersey, a Hoover leader in the last presidential race, the Nye Campaign Funds Committee revealed today.

The committee learned from Frank C. Ferguson, president of the Hudson County National Bank of Jersey City, that Frelinghuysen bought $10,000 worth of cashier's checks from his bank on October 24, 1928, for Cannon's credit. The transaction consisted of two checks, each for $5,000.

Ferguson produced the canceled checks, the indorsements showing Bishop Cannon had deposited the $10,000 to his account as "chairman" of the anti-Smith Democrats in the Continental Trust Company here.

It was subsequently testified by Basil Manly, attorney for the committee, that the Frelinghuysen contribution to Cannon had not been reported either by the former senator or the bishop.

The evidence of these checks was the first directly linking the Hoover organization in 1928 with the anti-Smith campaign conducted by Bishop Cannon in the South. A few days ago it was shown, however, that C. Bascom Slemp, former secretary to President Coolidge, a Hoover leader in 1928, had introduced Cannon to E. C. Jameson, the New York capitalist, who gave the anti-Smith organization $65,300 in the course of the campaign.

MRS. THADEN FOURTH IN DERBY

Pittsburgher's Motor Giving Her Some Trouble; Gladys O'Donnell Holding Lead

By LOUISE THADEN,
Winner of the 1929 National Air Derby for Women, and Pittsburgh's Representative in the 1931 Cross-Country Derby.

AMARILLO, Tex., Aug. 27.—I am wondering if today will be as exciting as yesterday was.

The 54 planes in the great derby from Santa Monica to Cleveland were ready to take off from here, stopping at Enid at noon, and making Bartlesville, Okla., for tonight's stopover.

Gladys O'Donnell retained her lead into Amarillo last night, her time from Roswell, a distance of 200 miles, being 1 hour 8 minutes 32 seconds. Ruth Stewart, of St. Louis, made second, and Mrs. C. E. Shankle, of Fort Hill, Okla., third. I felt rather elated when I made fourth, jumping from tenth.

RUTH STEWART DOWN

The first woman to meet with mishap was Ruth Stewart, whose motor cut cold on her two miles from Roswell. Mae Haizp, who took off after Ruth, saw her down and went back to the airport to get help to her.

It was an extremely sporting thing to do, as Mae lost 10 or 15 minutes, which means a lot in this race. My mechanic went out and aided Ruth.

I fear my own motor is going haywire.

We are all looking forward to being in Bartlesville where there is a swim and a buffalo barbecue waiting. My mother, father and sister will meet me there.

Mrs. Thaden is writing exclusively for the Sun-Telegraph of her air experiences in this year's races.)

WOMEN IN LEAD

ENID, Okla., Aug. 27.—(AP.)—The women pilots continued to blaze the way for the men entrants in the Santa Monica-Cleveland handicap air derby today.

Gladys O'Donnell, of Long Beach, Cal., led the racers as usual on the hop this morning from Amarillo, Tex., and was followed closely by Phoebe Omlie of Memphis, who was announced as the leader in point standings up to Amarillo. The racers were to continue to Bartlesville, Okla., this afternoon.

Derby officials said the average score for the women is considerably better than for the men.

TAKE OFF FOR ENID

AMARILLO, Tex., Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Led by Gladys O'Donnell, of Long Beach, Cal., the entrants in the Santa Monica-Cleveland Air Derby took off here this morning for Enid, Okla. Mrs. O'Donnell left at 8:04 a. m. The other planes got away at one minute intervals. After a luncheon stop at Enid the fliers will continue to Bartlesville, Okla., night control point.

Leonard Wood, Jr., Dies Of Pneumonia at 39

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Leonard Wood, Jr., son of the late major general of the United States Army, died today in Bellevue Hospital of pneumonia. He was 39.

Wood, who had been a magazine writer, Army officer and student at Cornell University, had been in ill health since an attack of influenza suffered in the Pacific Northwest some years ago.

A few days ago he complained to Edward F. Miller, a friend, that he had a severe pain in his side. He was rushed to Bellevue, where his illness was diagnosed as pneumonia.

He was a student at Cornell when the war came. Before the United States entered the conflict he enlisted in the British Army, switching later to the American forces, inwhich he served with the ambulance unit. When the war ended he was a lieutenant.

Leaving the Army, he contributed several articles to magazines. He also wrote plays. When his father was sent to the Northwest he went along, and while there contracted the illness which shortened his life.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Louis Wood, who is ill in Germany; a sister, Miss Louisita Wood, who is with her mother, and a brother, Lieut. Osborne Wood, adjutant general of the State of New Mexico. Lieut. Wood was notified at Santa Fe and is expected here by plane tomorrow.

Actress-Pilot Killed As Plane Crashes

MARAYES, Argentina, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Sudden death ended the career of Mrs. Myriam Stefford, beautiful Swiss aviatrix, and former motion picture actress yesterday, as the plane in which she was on a flying tour of Argentina crashed near this desolate mountain station.

The crash also cost the life of her mechanic, Luis Fuchs and an unidentified man who, it was thought, might have been a passenger or perhaps a laborer on whom the plane fell.

Mrs. Stefford appeared in the movies in Europe, then visited the United States and later returned to Europe, where she was reported to have married, acquiring an Austrian title of baroness. She came to Argentina afterward and became prominent as a pilot.

Last week she undertook a flight around Argentina's 14 provinces, a flight similar to one which a few years ago cost the life of two other aspirants.

Michael A. McGinley, candidate for [illegible] John F. Haley, [illegible] Coleman, [illegible] Pierce, [illegible] Pierce, County Solicitor Patrick [illegible] District Attorney Park, Thomas Marshall and Gregory F. P. Lavelle spoke.

Coleman, candidate for Common Pleas Court, after paying tribute to Judge Ambrose B. Reid's record, stated that "independent candidates should be given the same advantage as the other six incumbents running for re-election, since they were sitting on the bench through Gov. Fisher's appointment."

RAPS VOTE CHEATERS

Haggerty, an Assistant District Attorney, assailed election cheaters, saying:

"We have two difficulties: one to get the votes and the second to get them counted.

"Prosecutions in the District Attorney's office, however, has scared election cheaters so badly that they came in and gave themselves up."

District Attorney Park took a jab at the speech of his opponent, Ralph H. Smith, after describing the importance of the district attorneyship saying:

POLITICAL RAID TAKES 24 JOBS

Another political raid on the office of Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell has resulted in ousting 24 men and women from their jobs, Mackrell, candidate for re-election, announced today at the noon meeting of "Independent" headquarters, Magee Building.

These employes are under jurisdiction of the state and not veterans, Mackrell said.

"Of course you know the appraisers' side has been raided and you know who did it. We also have received word that the work of investigators in that part of my office which has to do with collection of the inheritance tax has been discontinued.

"It means that 24 men and women who haven't done a thing to a soul are out of a job. These recent actions are going to make my office a political dumping ground."

Political manipulation of city employes particularly police and firemen by the Kline administration was charged by Councilman Charles Anderson, candidate for re-election.

State Troopers May Guard Registration; Plea to Pinchot Considered

[illegible] from Page One

[illegible] which will lead to the arrest of [illegible] as Sheriff Robert Cain for Treasurer, [illegible] person attempting to register [illegible] on a false assessment.

Beaver, after a busy day in Pittsburgh conferring with Commissioner Charles C. McGovern and the Registration Commission, returned to Harrisburg last night.

COMPLAINTS HEARD

He will take up with The Commission complaints about the selection of registrars and the Commission is expected to hear any protests that may be made about [illegible] at a meeting at [illegible] as a precedent in Allegheny County.

McGovern denies that he had any dealings with the sheriff's delegates of the Commission [illegible] to [illegible] he was not [illegible] with some of the registrars or selections made [illegible] James J. Coyne was one of the chief complainants, alleging that he had been handed small wards in the selection of registrars for the Second and Fifth wards.

Former Common Pleas Judge Frank T. Guffey is understood to have protested the appointment of the First Deputy of the 31st Ward, home of Duke Slater, [illegible] Democratic [illegible] Charles Graham, [illegible] was reported to have been appointed to succeed [illegible] to McGuire, chief [illegible] in the office of Register Joseph N. Mackrell.

MACKRELL-COYNE FEUD

Such an appointment would be another manifestation of the [illegible] between Coyne and Mackrell, the Senator having [illegible] almost complete control of personnel in that section of Mackrell's office under [illegible]

Despite the rumors between Coyne and Mackrell, the latter is understood to have been slated for re-election by Martin Kline, who so far has Coyne as his only candidate. For Commissioner Along with Mackrell, Kline is back for every other county office, and will be re-elected, as well.

MEET WITH SCHOOLEY

Kline's preference for Mackrell over Edward D. Porter-Shaner, entered as a Republican candidate by Coyne, it is said, is to have been ironed upon at a conference [illegible] today in the office of City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley, at which the Mayor and Mackrell were present. Schooley and Coyne have been at odds for some time and such records have the Treasurer and Mackrell become friendly.

Porter-Shaner's withdrawal was taken, it must was influenced political circles as the first direct move of the Mayor to unite the factions which have [illegible] into a unit that will be at least [illegible] against [illegible] at [illegible] election.

PROMOTES' HARMONY

Porter-Shaner's formal statement of his withdrawal read:

"In order to promote harmony within the regular Republican Organization of Allegheny County, I am withdrawing my name as a candidate for Register of Wills.

"I want to thank my many friends for their expression of support and request that they vote for the incumbent, Joseph N. Mackrell."

The withdrawal together with the conference W. I. Mellon held this morning with Coyne and Armstrong led followers of the former to revive hope that the two would link their candidacies despite the bitter feeling existing between certain of their followers.

It was stated, however, that while Mellon favors Armstrong and Coyne as the "organization" candidates he did not discuss his conference with Coyne many decision of any alliance. That decision was limited entirely to Coyne's own candidacy.

HARMONY HOPES DIM

Best opinion today sifted through a maze of conflicting reports is that any hope of harmony between Coyne and Armstrong is faint. Coyne is reported to be making attacks on Armstrong in many speeches at small gatherings charging especially that the present head of the county board is wasting money through lavish hire in the reorganization of county workers.

Actions of the Registration Commission on the question of subpoenaing its books from registrars of the first six wards was a result of the repeated charges that phantom voters have been accepted in many of the city wards for registration.

The commission said in holding the books that it wished to investigate the fitness and legality of certain names contained in them for registration and subsequent voting.

ATKINSON, Neb., Aug. 27 (AP)—The charred body of James T. Reiser, 45, rancher and bridegroom of two weeks, was found in a burned barn on his 2,000-acre ranch last night.

County Coroner Julius Cronin said today he was convinced that Reiser set fire to all the farm buildings himself, then entered the burning barn to die. His bride, 20 years his junior, who was away from home, said she saw nothing in her husband's actions to cause apprehension.

POLITICAL AID HELD IN JAIL

Frank Merriman, alias "Slim," 29, of Wolfendale street, when arraigned before the United States commissioner on a forgery charge, said he posted Coyne and Rooney political placards as reimbursement to a political friend who had advanced him $50, which he used in reimbursing a North Side business man on whom a forged $50 government compensation check was passed.

Merriman was arrested by United States Secret Service operatives and charged with forging and passing the check on Andrew Novak, May 4. In default of $3,500 bond he was committed to jail to await action by the federal grand jury.

Veteran Carnegie Squire Aims at 50-Year Record

A. W. McMillen, Carnegie justice of the peace, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination to succeed himself and declared that he had served the residents faithfully in that office for the last 43 years. He stated:

"I am now the oldest Justice of the Peace in point of continuous service and should the electorate of Carnegie re-elect me this time, it would make 50 years of service as counsellor and advisor to my people.

"I, therefore, appeal to you to renominate and re-elect me that I may be able to round out 50 years of honorable service as Justice of the Peace. My record for the last 43 years is my platform."

PARK STUDYING POOR BOARD

District Attorney Andrew T. Park is considering evidence regarding the business methods used by the Allegheny County Poor Board submitted by K. W. Schuchman, candidate for Poor Director, who conferred with him yesterday.

Park is studying the law in regard to points brought up by Schuchman and will have a reply for him tomorrow. Schuchman presented photostatic copies of documents dealing with a real estate deal made by the poor directors at Woodville and with the placing of insurance business.

Poor Board Office Seeker States Aims

Robert A. Foley, of 247 Dell avenue, Mt. Lebanon Township, candidate for Director of the Poor, said today he would devote all his time to the management of the county home and would favor legislation making mandatory an annual audit of the books of the office by the County Controller.

FREE SPENDING BOASTED BY ARMSTRONG

Cites $100,000,000 Record, Doubts Rivals Can Beat It, Speaking at Homestead

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, candidate for re-election, reviewed his achievements during the last seven and a half years at a meeting, in Homestead Park Borough Hall, attended by about 200 residents of surrounding communities. Burgess Kenneth McLean, of Munhall borough, presided.

Horace Creider, president of Munhall Council, asked for an indorsement of Armstrong's candidacy, and the audience responded with a rising vote.

ERK, WOODSIDE SPEAK

Other speakers were Congressman Edmund F. Erk, of the Thirtieth District; County Controller Robert G. Woodside, seeking re-election; George J. Schad, chairman of the county Tax Board, and a number of candidates for borough offices.

James E. Lose, superintendent of the Carnegie Steel Company, urged support for the local candidates, but made no reference to the candidates for major county offices. Controller Woodside asked for votes for himself and Armstrong only.

Armstrong declared that as Director of Public Works in Mayor Magee's first term he had cut down the "hump," built the City-County Building, reconstructed the Allegheny River bridges, raised downtown streets above flood level and opened the door to the South Side hilltops by paving South Eighteenth street extension.

HALTED BY WAR

After that, he explained, he was elected Mayor in 1913, but the construction program was halted "because the government needed the steel from the mills for war material."

He said he was elected County Commissioner in 1923 and later promoted a $29,000,000 bond issue. He was again elected in 1927, with a 75,000 majority and soon after he put over another $43,000,000 bond issue. In all, he said he has spent $100,000,000 of the people's money.

"No one before in that office had the nerve or the confidence of the people to raise and spend that amount of money and I tell you it takes a lot of nerve to spend $100,000,000."

Armstrong recalled that the county, under his regime, had built the county airport, established two county parks, erected 99 bridges and constructed enough miles of road to provide a highway from Pittsburgh to New York City.

JOBS IN DANGER, BROWN WARNS

The county Department of Public Works is in danger of being eliminated entirely, unless Joseph G. Armstrong is re-elected as a member of the Board of County Commissioners, Director of Public Works Norman F. Brown told more than 200 employes of the department at a meeting in Armstrong's headquarters in the Hotel Henry.

Director Brown pleaded with the employes to realize their position and return Armstrong to office. He declared that party opponents and newspapers would eliminate the department unless Armstrong were re-elected.

John A. Fugassi, superintendent of maintenance, county Bureau of Roads, presided.

Among other speakers were Controller Robert G. Woodside, V. R. Covell, chief engineer in the county Bureau of Bridges, and Stanley Roush, county architect.

Negro Club to Hold Rally, Indorse Coyne

Robert L. Vann, Negro attorney, will speak for the Eighteenth Ward Colored Republican Club at its open air meeting at 8 p. m. tomorrow in McKinley Park, Gearing avenue. Chairman Ralph Mellix will preside.

The club is represented as being strongly in favor of Senator James J. Coyne for County Commissioner and an indorsement of his candidacy is expected. Invitations have been accepted by city and county officials and candidates.

Muirhead Backed By Family 'Gang'

John H. Muirhead, of 1647 Fallowfield street, today announced his candidacy for Alderman of the Nineteenth Ward in the Republican primary. He has lived in Beechview for 17 years and said he believed his five years' experience in one of the largest squires' offices in the city qualified him for the job. He declared:

"I am not allied with any political faction or group; the only 'gang' interested in my election is the 'Muirhead gang,' my wife and four children."

Building Owners To Urge Tax Cut

All tenants and members of the operating forces of downtown office buildings are to receive letters from the Building Owners and Managers Association in which they urge that only such candidates be supported at the polls as are definitely pledged to tax reduction.

The letter names no candidates, but urges that every citizen vote.

COYNE, KLINE FORCES INVADE M'KEESPORT

'I'm Going to Be Elected,' Senator Declares; Clark Speaks in Mayor's Place

A crowd of 2,000 persons packed the Penn-McKee Hotel, McKeesport, and the sidewalks outside it last night to hear State Senator James J. Coyne and the "heavy artillery" of the Kline organization advocate his candidacy for County Commissioner.

Coyne spoke briefly, declaring that he is satisfied that he is going to be nominated.

VOICES CONFIDENCE

He said:

"I'm satisfied that I am going to be elected. In no job I have ever held have I played second-fiddle to any man. I have no ties with anybody and I am not trying to beat anybody in particular in this fight.

"If I am elected, I will use my own judgment in office and at the end of four years nobody will have any cause to regret that they voted for me.

"I will put $6,000,000 of the county's money into work that will give five days a week work to workingmen at $5 a day and supervise the men so that they take the money home to their families. This is going to be a hard winter. All of my opponents are good men, but not one of them has gone before the public and promised to provide work for the needy. If I did not know that I could do it I would not be making this promise."

Coyne's plan for providing work is to build sidewalks along county roads with prepared concrete slabs which can be made during the winter when other outside work is impossible.

CLARK SPEAKS FOR KLINE

Director of Public Safety James M. Clark, who announced that he was speaking in Mayor Kline's place, said:

"Mayor Kline expected to be here. He is suffering from a malady called boils, and he asked me to speak in his place.

"Jim Coyne, with his smiling Irish eyes, is a ward leader, a city leader and a state leader, and your next County Commissioner. E. V. Babcock is not a candidate. There is a vacancy on the Board of County Commissioners. Jim Coyne is after that vacancy, not to beat anybody. And he is going to get it."

Other speakers were Superintendent of Police P. P. Walsh, Councilman Michael J. Muldowney, Assistant City Solicitor Harry Diamond, D. Lee Pryde, Attorney L. Pat McGrath and Assistant District Attorney Russell Adams, who tendered District Attorney Andrew T. Park's regrets that he was unable to be at the meeting.

Machine Records Independent Oratory

A mechanical news reporter in the form of a mouthpiece fitted to a microphone and connected to a dictaphone has been installed for recording the speeches made by independent Republican candidates at daily noon meetings in Magee Building headquarters, 334 Fourth avenue.

The device is particularly valuable in recording extemporaneous oratory that is "caught" on the dictaphone and transcribed in stenographers' offices for newspapers and the speakers. A similar scheme is used in broadcasting studios.

Enraged Elephant Shot to Halt 'War'

PERU, Ind., Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Snyder's belligerent days are over. The 4½-ton, 30-year-old elephant, largest of any owned by three circuses with winter headquarters here, was shot to death yesterday because he could no longer be handled with safety.

SEVEN JUDGES' RECORDS CITED BY DITHRICH

Rival Candidates in Error On Court Delay Charges, Dormont Meeting Told

Records of the seven sitting judges, seeking to succeed themselves, in speeding cases and eliminating needless delays that had existed in the courts for years were reviewed at a citizens' meeting in Dormont last night by W. Heber Dithrich, one of the candidates.

CHARGE CALLED ERROR

Dithrich declared:

"Rival candidates who seek to supplant us on the bench either are in unintentional error when they claim the courts are now three years behind in the disposition of cases or else they have not been in court for so long that they are not aware of present conditions.

"It is a matter of record since the infusion of new blood on the bench, together with the active work of the judges previously there, that disposition of cases is 40 per cent further advanced than for years.

"About the only cases now more than two years in arrears are those where the opposing attorneys have deliberately sought and obtained continuances while they try to get together on a settlement out of court."

BACKED BY HADDOCK

The seven sitting judges were indorsed by William S. Haddock, former Burgess of Dormont, in a speech at the Dormont meeting. He said:

"Each lawyer opposing these judges initiated his own candidacy. No one is demanding a change in judges except attorneys who have inspired others and, with themselves, are asking you to put good men off the bench and give their places to others who cannot do better work. They are not better fitted than any of the seven present judges."

LINDSAY ADDRESSES TEA

Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, and Judge Sara M. Soffel, running to succeed herself on the County Court bench, addressed guests at a political tea yesterday in Mrs. Lindsay's home on Briar Cliff road. Lindsay said:

"I believe that a proper candidate, if elected by the people, will do more to establish the confidence of the people in their courts than any candidate chosen by a political boss, no matter how good that candidate may be. If this demonstrates my unfitness for the bench, then let my opponents make the most of it."

3 CANDIDATES SPEAK

Attorney Frank A. Piekarski, former all-America football star and candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, carried his campaign last night to meetings in Dickson School, Swissvale; Coraopolis High School and Sharpsburg Borough Hall.

A challenge to the seven sitting judges was issued by Attorney Joseph H. Reich, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, at a meeting last night in Coraopolis High School. He said:

"I shall now welcome the seven sitting judges to accept my suggestions to relieve the congestion of the courts and for the application of modern business methods in the routine work of the Court."

Addressing a Swissvale citizens' meeting last night in the Dickson School, Attorney William H. Coleman, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, reviewed his experiences in the mills and mines before he began the practice of law.

Campaigns Continued For County Court

Representative M. A. Musmanno, candidate for Judge of County Court, has been indorsed in an editorial in the thirty-eighth annual convention souvenir book, of the Western Pennsylvania Firemen's Association. The editorial stated:

"Mr. Musmanno is a friend of the volunteer firemen. He has manifested it many times over. He has not only taken an active part in the Legislature, where he has so ably represented his constituency, but he has proclaimed the virtues, the sacrifices and the courage of the firemen from the public platform."

Attorney W. L. "Skip" Wymard, candidate for Judge of County Court, carried his campaign to a meeting in Pitcairn last night where he addressed a large number of former co-workers in the shops of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. He said the County Court was the poor man's court and that its importance should not be dimmed by the various political fights for major county and city offices.

John J. McGrath, candidate for Judge of County Court, who was active in labor unions for 13 years prior to being admitted to the bar and still is a member of the American Train Dispatchers Association, was indorsed last night by the International Association of Bridge and Structural Workers, Local No. 3.

The Scott Township Republican Club has added its indorsement to the candidacy of Clarence B. Nixon for Judge of County Court.

JOSEPH HORNE CO

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

WHEN Algernon Smith came into this world his occupation had already been chosen for him by a doting mother. Algernon was to be an actor, a star of the stage. No Barrymore would be better than he, no Gary Cooper would have more damsels on the chase. Even though he didn't know it, the poor infant didn't have a chance.

As soon as he was able to string two words together, mamma went into the business of teaching him recitations. At a very early age, therefore, he was a prize ham—and if all the painful hours that visitors spent listening to him could be placed end to end, they would then be placed end to end. And then, to make matters a little worse, gestures were added to the torture.

Algernon and his mother did breaking lines. Sorry. Nothing not reside in New York but they were close enough to keep in touch with the activities of Broadway. Once every month or so mamma and her boy took a train to the big town and visited two or three shows. Nine-tenths of the time the boy had no idea of what he was seeing. But mamma was satisfied that this was great training for her star-to-be.

Even though I write these a kidding yarn, you'd be surprised at the number of doting mothers who act along similar lines. They pick a child's career and then act accordingly. Parental influence may be a marvelous thing but not when it comes to the choice of a career. If a boy is worth his salt he will do exactly as he wishes to do in life. So why make him do things against his will? Many a starving actor might have been a fine shoe salesman. And by the same token many a columnist might have been a grand plumber.

With Algernon, however, the case was slightly different. I don't want to say he wasn't worth his salt, even though I might think so. Let's say that he never dreamed of disregarding his mother's wishes and let it go at that. It sounds nice anyhow.

In due time, after playing the leading roles in his college dramatic society, Algernon was sent to Broadway by his mother. She would have liked nothing better than to be with him in his attempt to overwhelm the theatrical world. Unfortunately, however, she was ill. And she was able to do nothing more than to wish him the best of luck.

As you might imagine, that wasn't enough. Algernon soon found out that there were a hundred million others like him. He received an odd job here and an odd day there, but between them were any number of those heart-breaking lines. It didn't take the boy long, maybe a year or so, to realize the hopelessness of a future in the theatrical game as far as he was concerned. But he kept remembering his mother and the sad fact that her heart was set on his theatrical career. So, aside from grabbing a day's labor at this or that in order to keep himself together, he stuck it out. He kept writing and telling her of the new picture that looked set for the following week.

Algernon finally gave up the struggle altogether and landed himself a job in Wall street. He wasn't earning any millions, but he was at least eating and sleeping regularly. He was even enabled to send a little money to his mother every now and then and to tell her he had earned it on the stage.

One morning the blow fell. A wire from his home town said that his mother was dying and that Algernon should come immediately. He caught a train immediately and rushed to her bedside. As he rode from the station he knew exactly what he was going to do.

He was going to tell his mother that her hopes had not been realized. He was going to let her know that all of his letters had been mainly lies, and that he had no chance of a career upon the stage. In other words, he was going to come clean and get it over with.

He didn't have a chance to tell her anything. Just before she died, she said she knew he hadn't been doing any too well because she hadn't received any clippings. But she wanted him to keep on and to play before the public. Some day he would get there. Would he promise?

He promised, of course. What else could he do under the circumstances? He came back to New York after the funeral, threw up his job in Wall street and did the next best thing. He has his public now, and you can take it from me that it's a vast one.

Algernon is a ballyhoo man in front of one of the Broadway movie houses. . . .

* * *

TWO OF my contributors have their pet musical aversions. Mr. Hugh Wedlock, Jr., for instance, has read in his favorite newspaper that Scotch bagpipes can be played under water.

"If that's the case," says Mr. Wedlock, "why aren't they?"

And Mr. David Murray has a little something to tell you about the harp.

"There's one thing I always like about the harp," he writes. "By the time the owner carries it a couple of blocks, he's too tired to play it!" . . .

* * *

A FEW days ago I ran a story and credited it to Jack Pearl. It concerned, as you will probably not remember, a little tailor who bet on a horse but wouldn't tell the bookmaker the pony's name because he had promised he wouldn't even tell his own mother. I said I feared the yarn was not new, and that some kindly folks would write and tell me so.

"Dear Hellinger," writes Antonio Rodriguez, 34 Franklin street, Westfield, Mass. "That story that Jack Pearl told you certainly was old. I can't think of the movie in which I heard it, but I do know that I heard it.

"And let me tell you something else. I didn't see that movie yesterday or the day before. I saw it almost six months ago."

And another:

"Dear Mark," writes William Josephs of Brooklyn. "I hate to complain about you, but I tell that I must. That horse-race story you gave us the other morning wasn't told to me by my grandfather but it goes back plenty far just the same.

"If I'm not mistaken, I heard Lou Holtz tell it in the first George White 'Scandals.' And you know how far back that was."

And still another—

"My dear Hellinger," writes James Rasmini, "I have in my library a book called 'Choice Scotch Anecdotes.' The story you ran the other morning about the tailor and the bookmaker is contained on page 35 of that book. The only difference in the tales is that, in my volume, the hero was a Scotchman.

"The title of that book says that it was printed in 1897. That makes Mr. Pearl's story about 34 years old. Have you anything to say for yourself?"

Yes, sir. And it's simply this. If nobody can go back more than 34 years on one of my jokes, I'm getting luckier.

CLARK CHARGES TO BE DROPPED

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Newspapers here, quoting what they termed as "authentic sources," said today murder charges against David H. Clark, former deputy district attorney and confessed killer of two political figures, are to be dropped by the District Attorney's office.

Clark was tried for murder in connection with the slaying of one of the men, Herbert F. Spencer, editor of a political magazine, who was shot down last May 20, with Charles H. Crawford, wealthy former political boss. The trial jury was dismissed last Sunday after it became deadlocked at 11-to-1 for acquittal.

The newspapers said they learned District Attorney Buron Fitts would ask for a dismissal of the murder charge in the Spencer case and that plans were under way for dropping the proposed charge of murder in connection with the killing of Crawford. Fitts would make no statement on the stories.

Clark confessed killing both Spencer and Crawford. He said he shot both in self-defense after an argument in which Clark had refused to "frame" Chief of Police Roy E. Steckel.

France Staging Mock Air Defense

NANCY, France, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Marshal Petain and other high army officers are reviewing a three-day demonstration of land and air forces on France's eastern frontier. It will last until Saturday.

The people are required to act as in time of war and all lights must be out by 9 p. m. The lights of the railroad trains must be veiled and signal lights must be extinguished in the event that "enemy" planes break through the defenses.

Growers Laud Ford Gardening Edict

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Henry Ford today had the blessing of the Vegetable Growers' Association of America on his project "No Garden—No Job" plan for employes of his Iron Mountain (Mich.) plant.

H. G. Marquart, Orange Bark, N. Y., president of the association, in twenty-third annual convention here, added that the city worker, however, would appreciate "more than ever our growers' vegetables" after a spell of his own gardening.

MINE VANDALS FLEE SHOTS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 27.—For the second time within a few weeks, attempts were made to cripple the Aurora mine of the Duquesne Coal and Coke Company, near Avella. Clarence Cain, night watchman at the mine, frustrated the attempts when he emptied his revolver at a man who fled as Cain investigated a noise in the motor shed. Tops of the motors had been removed with apparent intention of stripping the gears. Later another man fled after hacking with a knife at the belt connected with the coal shakers.

In a previous attempt to cripple the mine a blaze was started in one of the entries a few weeks ago. The mine has been operating for the past week and is now employing 110 men.

Mine Riot Death Probe Tomorrow

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 27.—Inquiry into the killing of Mike Philopovich, June 23 during a mine riot at Arnold City, will start tomorrow morning in the Courthouse, according to an announcement by Coroner S. A. Baltz. Eight officers are held pending the result of the inquest.

Wash Out Stomach First Thing Every Morning

When you wake up with a stomach that is sour and grumbles with gas, a head that is heavy and throbs with pain, and you cannot bear the thought of food, one look at that thick fuzz on your tongue tells you why you feel that way. Your stomach is just the same—coated with a lot of sour slimy matter. Just try this new way of washing out your stomach and see how quickly you feel chip and cheery and ready to devour a hearty breakfast.

To a glass of water, hot or cold, add a spoonful of Aridine. Just drink it—that's all you do. Your stomach does the rest. It swirls this around and gives itself a "bath." Sour acids are neutralized. The coating or fuzz is cleaned away, so the glands can start to pour out the 35 to 50 ounces of Gastric Juice your stomach needs daily to digest your food. When you get this juice flowing right you will almost never be bothered with acid indigestion, gas and heartburn. You won't have your meals bring in a lump, bloating you up and making you gasp for breath.

You folks troubled with a weak stomach, try this morning stomach-wash with Aridine. Use it daily. Watch your appetite improve. Watch that groggy feeling after meals disappear. Watch sleep become sounder, and see how you jump out of bed in the morning with a pep and a vigor that will amaze you.

Taken as directed, there is nothing in Aridine that can harm the most delicate stomach. It is pure and guaranteed safe. Over 3,000,000 packages used. Carried by all good druggists.

FATAL MALADY STILL BAFFLES PHYSICIANS

Double Funeral Arranged for Child Victims as Two Others Fight for Life

Physicians at St. John's Hospital are still baffled as to the nature of the strange malady which has stricken four children of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Stacklin, 1006 Salter way, North Side, resulting in the death of Leo, 3, on Monday, and Leona, 7, Wednesday.

Two other children, Alice, 18 months, and Anna Mae, 5, are isolated in the St. John's Hospital under observation of Dr. R. A. King and Dr. C. F. Berg. Doctors reported the children passed a good night.

DOUBLE FUNERAL

The grief-stricken family today had completed arrangements for the funerals of Leona and Leo. They will be buried side by side in Mt. Troy Cemetery tomorrow morning following requiem high mass at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's Catholic Church, Lockhart street.

While an autopsy performed disclosed that acute encephalitis or inflammation of the brain was the cause of Leona's death, physicians are not certain whether that or enteritis inflammation of the intestines was the primary cause.

TESTS CONTINUE

Tests are being conducted at the hospital to determine if possible the nature of the ailment. So far the parents have shown no signs of ailing afflicted.

Dr. Philip E. Marks, head of the City Bureau of Infectious Diseases whose department has been investigating the cases to protect public health in the event the disease was discovered to be contagious, said this morning:

"I have conferred with physicians at St. John's Hospital. No signs of infantile paralysis have developed in the Stacklin children. There is nothing to indicate that their malady is contagious. A diagnosis is now being made."

Blue Buildings Forecast to Ease Eyes

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(AP)—Blue and green sidewalks and buildings to absorb light and prevent glare were predicted by Dr. O. F. Mellin, of Omaha, Neb., speaker before the American Optometric Association here.

He believes some day architects will specify green brick for structures up to a height of about nine feet and from that point upward, sky blue.

BUHL PLUMBING CONTRACT LET

The Weldon & Kelly Company of Pittsburgh has been awarded the contract to install the plumbing in the first 125 houses in the Buhl Foundation's Mt. Washington development, it was announced today at the foundation. The baths with built-in tubs and showers in modern colors will be installed. The specifications call for high standards of construction throughout including copper piping and brass fittings.

It was expected that the general contractors, W. F. Trimble & Sons Company, were to start excavation work today. All the houses are to be ready for occupancy by March 15.

'Poor' County Takes Taxes in Silver

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Faced with a county tax deficit because of recent bank failures, County Treasurer Grant Northrup was so elated yesterday when Mollie Clark wanted to pay her taxes that he offered to take them in pennies.

Lillie Clark compromised and lugged in two sacks of silver dollars weighing over 32 pounds amounting to $500. Sympathetic Northrup counted out $135 change in currency.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, laxatives, waters or harsh physics ready for chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and cheerful and "full of sunshine."

But they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere bowel movement doesn't get at the reason. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. If enough bile—about two pounds of liquid bile—into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food don't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

FEAR FOR LIVES OF KIDNAPED 2

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(INS.)—With ransom demands for $102,500 unmet growing fear was expressed today for the safety of New York's two kidnap victims, Edgar F. Hazelton, 16-year-old son of the former Queens County district attorney, and Charles M. Rosenthal, 23, stock broker and heir.

When Hazelton's kidnapers attempted to get $2,500 for his release by the use of a carrier pigeon, the youth's father informed police. An airplane was chartered in hopes of following the pigeon to the alleged abductors, but the bird's speed proved too much for the machine.

Having received no response from the "pigeon gang," Hazelton was convinced that the cash demands had been made by Long Island extortionists.

While relatives and friends of Rosenthal are ready to give the $100,000 requested for his safe return, nothing has been heard from his assailants. This led to the belief today that he may have been killed and his body hidden.

2 'LEGS' AIDES IN N. Y. NET

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(INS.)—Fifty-two suspects, two of them former members of the Jack Diamond gang driven down from the Catskills, and one a 54-year-old habitual criminal sought since 1927 for a stabbing committed just after he had been paroled from Sing Sing, were gathered in by the police net overnight in the war on crime.

The two ex-Diamond mobsters were Joseph Burke, 27, of Brooklyn, who admitted having been "Legs'" chauffeur and bodyguard at Arra, and William Dunbar, 35, also of Brooklyn.

They, with Tony Scardino, 45, and Victor Sigismonde, 44, fled from an automobile into a Brooklyn hallway and were captured. They were locked up on charges of robbing the Model Brassiere Company, in Brooklyn, on July 17.

LINK MYSTERY TO RACKETEER

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(INS.)—An alleged racketeer, who posed as a Department of Justice agent, was sought today in an effort to solve the disappearance of Hishashi Fujimura, Japanese silk millionaire. The importer vanished from the liner Belgenland almost two weeks ago.

The racketeer, known to police as James Collins, was said to have been a friend of Fujimura. He was arrested at Norwalk, Conn., charged with stealing a $5,000 motorboat of Louis Cartier, New York broker, and released August 17 under a suspended sentence.

When arrested police said he had a number of blank federal warrants.

The authorities said an expensive speedboat of the millionaire had been missing since his disappearance.

Roche continued his search for Capone.

Capone was in a peculiar position. Responding to entreaties of Lynch's friends, he pledged his entire gangland power to obtain the turfman's release. Then Roche threw water on his "Good Samaritan" act and ordered the arrest of the gangster chief for questioning.

Authorities last night swooped down on Capone's South Side headquarters in the Lexington Hotel, only to find their quarry had stepped out. Search of other Capone "spots" were also unavailing.

SAFETY ASSURED

Capone was said to have telephoned Mrs. Lynch yesterday and assured her the sportsman would be returned safely during the night or today.

Lynch on his return home declared the abductors had treated him well. About midnight last night, he said, they took him out in a car, transferred him to his own car, warned him not to remove the blindfold for 10 minutes, and then allowed him to drive away. He said:

"I drove to the nearest intersection, where I found a sign post indicating I was just north of Kankakee, Ill. I turned around and headed for Chicago, but I got so drowsy I couldn't drive any longer. Finally, I went to the home of a friend and asked him to take me home."

He declined to give the friend's name.

WIFE WAITING

When Lynch drove up to his castle-like home, it was learned from a caretaker, his wife was outside waiting for him. Stringent measures were taken to keep intruders away from the grounds.

Not waiting for the car to stop, the haggard kidnap victim stumbled out of the front seat and rushed into her arms. He cried:

"Dear! I'm so glad it's over."

She embraced him and answered:

"It's been terrible. Please don't go away again. It's been too much."

Mrs. Lynch then supported her weakened husband into the mansion.

Later, reclining on a divan, Lynch told how "awfully glad" he was to be back home and safe from the murder threat the kidnapers constantly held over him in the event ransom was not forthcoming. He related:

"For five days I didn't know where I was. When they forced me to get out of my car and enter their machine last Thursday my glasses were knocked off. I was driven for many hours. Finally I was deposited in a room."

During his captivity, Lynch explained, he was constantly forced to wear a blindfold. He continued:

"Not a soul talked to me, with the exception of a man who informed me that my meals were waiting for me. I was never beaten or intimidated."

CLEARS GANGSTER

Lynch was asked if the Al Capone mob or any accomplices of the gang czar were implicated in the abduction.

"Positively not! I can assure you that Capone had nothing to do with this."

"Was it a Chicago gang?"

"Because I was blindfolded all the time, I couldn't be any surer of that than you are. The gang might have been from St. Louis, Toledo or California. I will say, however, that the men seemed intelligent."

"Have you any enemies?"

"None that I know of. I haven't been in the gambling game for several years and I haven't incurred the enmity of anyone, to the best of my knowledge."

"Will you try to prosecute the kidnapers?"

"I will do all in my power to apprehend the men responsible, but really (laughing) I wouldn't know where to start."

While Lynch and his kidnapers were the object of a widespread search, it was indicated the turfmen—who have been frequent victims of kidnapers—would launch a strong drive against those who had adopted abduction as a "profession." The Daily Racing Form, turf publication, had offered $25,000 for information leading to the arrest of the kidnapers. Lynch was said to have absolutely no connection with this publication.

Her Fatal Blunder

She loved him and lost him—yet didn't know why. Too late she learned summer heat had made her more guilty than ever of an unforgivable fault

DAINTY, exquisite, fresh as a flower. So she seemed—at first! Then one stifling hot day he noticed—faint but unmistakable—a hint of "B.O." (body odor). And romance fled. Not until long afterwards did she realize why she lost him.

"B. O." weather—beware

What folly it is to take chances with "B.O."—especially these broiling summer days when heat and humidity make us perspire more freely! How easy it is to be guilty now and not know it because we have become used to an ever-present odor. Yet others notice instantly—and they won't overlook it. "B.O." can be a fatal barrier to popularity . . . success . . . love.

A simple safeguard

Play safe. Adopt the pleasant safeguard millions of particular men and women use. Wash and bathe with Lifebuoy—the cooling, refreshing toilet soap that gives extra protection. More lather—creamy, searching, purifying. Lather that penetrates and deodorizes pores—ends all danger of offending. Lifebuoy's very smell is different—a pleasant, hygienic scent that vanishes as you rinse and tells you, "No fear of 'B.O.' now!"

Blind to the fault that was driving him away. Never once aware she was letting "B.O." offend. And no one would tell her!

End complexion worries

Bothered because your complexion is dull, cloudy, coarse-textured? Try Lifebuoy "facials". Massage the pure, bland, pore-purifying lather well into the face each night. Then rinse. Pores are gently freed of clogged impurities, toned down to normal fineness. Healthy, glowing radiance coaxed back to dull, sallow skins. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

5 YOUTHS HELD AS ROBBERS

Suspected of being implicated in holdups in Upper St. Clair Township, five young men from her Mollenauer are being held by county detectives. They were arrested late last night by Constables J. F. Kleidt and H. A. Schweinbaren, at a Bethel church-yard after John Blodgett, attendant at Walter's gasoline station, had summoned the officers. Blodgett said he believed the men planned to hold up the station.

The prisoners said they were George W. Moody, 22, Negro; John Mazera, 21; Louis Miller, 16; Joe Miller, 20, and Karl Lidy, 20. Police say the men admitted planning to rob the station.

Police say Moody answers the description of one of the gang that held up Margaret Hanson, James Porter and Elmer Batek of Mt. Lebanon, in Upper St. Clair Township, July 14. A boy committed to Juvenile Detention Home Monday is said by police to have confessed implicating the prisoners in thefts.

8 BARRELS RUM SEIZED IN RAID

Eight barrels of whisky were found by prohibition agents yesterday in a cave in the rear of the home of Julius Rosawitalski, R. D. No. 2, Bellevue, according to agents.

The agents also reported seizing a 25-gallon still and several kegs of moonshine. Rosawitalski was released on his own recognizance.

In a raid on a building at 1630-3 East Ohio street, 682 pints of home brew and a large quantity of moonshine were confiscated, agents said. Fred Sweeney was arrested.

Gin, home brew and moonshine were seized at 13 South Diamond street, the raiders reported. Peter Alberti was taken into custody.

HURLS ROBBER FROM AUTO

"Stick 'em up!"

This commanded a highwayman who leaped to the running board of an automobile occupied by Robert McMullen and his wife of 7201 Travella boulevard, while they rode in Highland Park late last night.

The robber thrust a small automatic pistol through the car window. Said McMullen:

"It looked like a toy, so I pushed him off."

The robber stood in the roadway a moment, then he ran to an automobile nearby and joined two companions. They fled with McMullen in pursuit. A traffic light near the park entrance halted McMullen and the robbers escaped.

'Golfing' Convict Swings on Rocks

JOLIET, Ill., Aug. 27.—(INS)—James Miller, convict who casually golfed his way out of prison last Fourth of July by borrowing the clothes and clubs of the warden's son, resumed his practice swinging on the limestone rocks today.

Jailed at Dixon, Ill., after an auto accident, Miller bragged to inmates that he had escaped better and bigger jails than that and mentioned his flight from the state penitentiary. One of the inmates took the story to the jailer.

Freckle-Faced Girl Gets $30 in Holdup

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(INS)—A well-dressed, freckled-faced girl today held up at pistol point Lyle Boucher when he was entering his apartment house and demanded his wallet.

Sternly but in a weak voice she commanded:

"Don't you dare to make an outcry."

Still holding the pistol, she walked to an automobile and drove off. The wallet contained $30.

WEST PENN BUS LINES LINKED WITH P. R. R.

Firms Operating 76 Coaches Combined in New Company To Use One Station Here

Motor coach companies controlled by the Pennsylvania Railroad and the West Penn Electric Company operating out of Pittsburgh, together with the West Penn Railways Company have pooled their interests, it was revealed yesterday in a hearing before Public Service Commissioner Samuel Walker.

The general plan was explained to the Commissioner by Attorney David I. McCahill, representing the new Penn Bus Lines, operating 76 passenger coaches, to Indiana on the East and Canton, O., on the West.

Combination of operation is made, it was explained, in the interest of economy. The amalgamated bus lines will use but one station and will co-ordinate rail and bus service, wherever opportunity affords.

Present restrictions of each company will prevail in operation of local service.

DOWNTOWN BUS LOOP SOUGHT

Application by the Brentwood Motor Coach Company for permission to extend its service further into the downtown district of Pittsburgh was heard yesterday before Examiner W. E. Best, of the Public Service Commission. From Grant and Diamond streets the company wishes to extend its operations to Diamond and Ferry streets and make a loop by way of the Boulevard of the Allies.

No objection was made to the company's request.

2 Firms Protest Ohio Bus Permit

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 27.—(AP.)—The Ohio Supreme Court was asked to reverse the ruling of the State Utilities Commission allowing the American Stages, Inc., to operate a motor bus line between Columbus and Huntington, W. Va. The petition was filed jointly by the Cannon Ball Transportation Company and the Interstate Motor Transit Company which operate over portions of the route assigned to American Stages by the commission.

200 Men Jobless While Mine Burns

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 27.—Workmen are trying to close all entries to the Chartiers Creek Coal Company mine at Canonsburg, to check a fire which has been blazing about four miles from the main entrance since Monday night. Coal was ignited, it is believed, by a roof fall which knocked down the trolley wire. About 200 men will be out of work until the fire is extinguished, which is expected to be within two or three days.

Special Program Marks End of Activities At Red Wing

Ever spend a day at Redwing, the Allegheny County Girl Scout camp near Ribold Station? It's an illuminating and most interesting experience, but if you want it you will have to wait until next year, for Redwing closes Saturday morning. That is, the summer season ends, but during the crisp fall months, and probably all winter, small week end parties will take possession of the 100-year-old mud-plastered cabin that is now headquarters for one of the camp units.

Today the 139 girls are having all-day festivities to mark the formal closing, a "trip around the world," each unit representing a country and demonstrating its customs and music. It is nothing less than remarkable what ingenuity these camp fire activities bring to light, for out of apparently nothing clever costumes are evolved and from active brains are devised most entertaining hosts.

The camp has averaged 160 girls for each of the two-week periods this summer. Observing them at their duties or in their recreations and seeing their day as a whole gives you a fair idea why Girl Scouts are a bit finer than average, whether they come from settlement house districts are are brought to camp by liveried chauffeurs and with European-marked luggage.

Redwing, as perhaps you know, covers 55 acres and its two halves, cut by Connoquenessing Creek, are joined by a picturesque swinging bridge. On both sides are the camp units, each one of which has been given a name from which the girls take their own camp cognomens. For instance each girl at "Shining Waters" has an Indian appellation and at "Pioneer" the campers are known by the names of historic figures. And way up the hill, high among the trees, "Greenwood's" girls answer to such names as Robin Hood, Little John and Maid Marion. Redwing itself got its name from the number of redwing blackbirds to be found there.

It's a full day that is provided by the councilors, rising, breakfast, singing, kamp kapers (during which the day's patrols discharge their assigned duties), milk line (the mid-morning meal of crackers and milk), swimming and club work, dinner, trading post (when the mail is handed out), rest hour, hobbies, free time, colors (when everybody appears in camp uniform while the big flag is taken down) supper and then camp fires with their individual and appropriate ceremonies.

And what richness these last create for memory's chambers! You can't hear Negro spirituals floating up from "Plantation" as those young voices send them out on the twilight air and ever again forget the beauty of it.

Nor can you see these youngsters learning to swim in Redwing's lovely pool, or busy at their avocations in "The Corall," or lying in sun during rest hour, or busy about their patrol duties or even healthily consuming their 40 gallons of milk a day without realizing very forcibly that here is being built something of mind and body that will endure beyond their generation.

Home Economics Class Completes Program

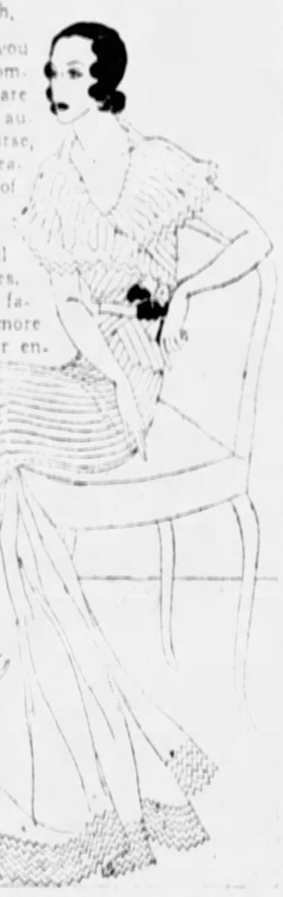
The new home economics class of the Pittsburgh section, National Council of Jewish Women, has completed its program for the season which will be begun October 14 with a talk on "The Hows and Whys of Cake Making" and discussion of the food market and tips on the care of food in the home. All the monthly meetings are to be held at Utility Hall in the Philadelphia Building.

November's topic is "A Dollar Dinner for Four" and the discussion will include household budgeting. "Luncheons, Buffet Suppers and Teas" is the topic for December with table appointments and flower arrangements for the discussion. In January the members will hear that "Economy Demands the Use of All Cuts" and they will talk about selecting gas and electric equipment. March will find "Filling the Cooky Jar" an interesting subject with "Budgeting Your Time" to be discussed. Discussing "Guide Posts to Balanced Meals" and hearing a talk on "Salads, Sandwiches and Something Good to Drink" will close the year in April.

More than 700 persons attended the bundle party given yesterday in the Hotel Schenley by the council. Several truck loads of "bundles," which were presented as the price of admission, were taken to the Service Shop and will be put on sale when the shop opens Monday.

SATIN TO BE FASHIONABLE FOR EARLY AUTUMN FROCKS

—Sketched in Paris—



Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—Say it in satin if you want to talk the language of the forthcoming mode. For the leading houses are all concentrating on satin for early autumn models. Later on, of course, velvet will be in full sway. This season has seen a tremendous revival of satin for evening wear, but next season it is to be the material paramount for afternoon and informal dinner frocks, suits and ensembles. Lustrous weaves of satin will be favored and featured. But of these more later on. Very new is the dinner ensemble cut on suit lines and still looking far too fine and luxurious to be mistaken for an afternoon costume. The dressmakers here are past masters in the art of the fine line of demarkation that marks the occasion and purpose of a costume. Black, of course, is the color most favored for a dinner ensemble, especially in satin or velvet, but there is often a bright colored blouse or bodice top to provide a charming note of lightness and rescue the costume from looking too heavy and formal.

* * *

WE SHOW TODAY the first sketch of a model that is likely to be much duplicated and worn when it is shown. It is an ensemble in the new manner by Worth. The material is black satin with a bodice joined to the skirt in green and white printed chiffon. The coat ends in triple tiers at the hips and there is a side-tiered effect on the wide sleeves. The collar is of silver fox. A group of folds, starting at the waistline, extends down the front of the skirt and there is a soft circular movement at each side as well.

* * *

APPLE-GREEN taffeta makes the charming Redfern frock. There are large chiffon and velvet flowers in nasturtium shades at the waistline. Narrow diagonal bands of the taffeta set edge to edge form the bodice and pass beneath the belt to make the top of the skirt, which is bordered with zig-zag bands similar to the edging on the collar, which is shaped to the neckline.

U. S. PHARMACY GROUP ELECTS DUQUESNE

Highest Scholastic Honor Awarded in Recognition Of College Attainments

The American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy has elected the Duquesne University school of pharmacy to full membership, it was announced today by Dr. Hugh C. Muldoon, dean. The movement was begun at the recent convention of the association in Miami, Fla.

Such membership is the highest scholastic recognition that can be given a school of pharmacy and means national recognition of the school, its faculty, curricula, teaching methods and scholastic requirements.

The American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy comprises all of the important schools of pharmacy in the United States, member schools being required to maintain definite high standards for entrance and graduation. Recognition was granted the Duquesne school after a visit of inspection by Dean Clair A. Dye, Ohio State University; Dean A. G. DuMez, University of Maryland, and Dean W. P. Rudd, Medical College of Virginia. The committee expressed itself pleased with the progress and growth of the school in the six years of its existence.

As a result of the new membership the Duquesne school of pharmacy will withdraw its three-year course in 1932. The course now leads to the graduate in pharmacy degree and will, with four years minimum, lead to the degree of bachelor of science in pharmacy.

In 1926 Duquesne University school of pharmacy had been granted associate membership in the national organization, since full membership could not be granted until the school had been in existence at least five years.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Wonder if Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tunney would mind very much if I were to put it this way:—That the Gene Tunneys (Polly Lauder) will be blessed with an heir some time in December . . . And if it is true that the so-called wise crowd is buying Warner's at 8 instead of wasting their coin throwing dice or playing bridge? . . . Among other things that make me ghoul a little is the shabby treatment accorded the Messrs. Boardman and Polando who flew 5,015 miles from here to Turkey . . . They returned the other day and the customs inspectors were pretty second-rate to them . . . When Lindbergh returned on a U. S. cruiser from the old country he brought back all the gifts and medals presented by the Europeans in recognition of his heroic achievement . . . But when Boardman and Polando returned wearing medals given by Turkey, which they wanted to wear in the parade in their honor, the customs officials told the fliers they would have to turn them over for inspection and appraisal for duty to be paid on them . . . Of course the boys protested . . . So the customs lads detailed a special man to accompany Boardman and Polando everywhere they went—to guard the medals and to collect them at the end of the day . . . To be appraised for duty due Uncle Sam, as he is hypocritically called . . . And they possessive!

That facade on Philip Plant's house at No. 1053 Vth Ave. is comical—it contains a plaque which shows an old gent thumbing his nose at the people next door . . . Some people have all the luck—that speakeasy owner (Frustanle, in Greenwich Village) who is immune from local interference because the daughter of one of the city's most powerful officers likes the dive . . . That 40-year-old brunette with the heavy Southern drawl is another who might be able to explain things about her Jap friend for whom she promoted good-lookers.

It fascinated me when I heard it . . . I mean the one about the bartender and the little old gent who came into the small-time speak every day at a certain hour and spent 50 cents for five whiskies . . . None of the other patrons could be bothered with the old fellow . . . The bartender, however, was a good listener . . . The old man liked to tell him about his flower bed which he nursed in the tenement yard where he dwelled . . . "I'm having some trouble again with my roses," the old timer would say . . . Or—"Well, the tulips are showing their noses, by golly!" . . . "Yeah," the barkeep always yeahed . . . Once the rumor got around the place that the old man was worth a million dollars, but this was dismissed on general principles . . . The only million dollars in the world anyhow was in the mint! . . . Last week the bartender had a caller . . . A lawyer who told him $10,000 was willed to him by the old fellow who suddenly died . . . I wondered why he didn't come in lately," said the bartender, "but thanks very much" . . . "I suppose you will retire now," said the lawyer . . . "No, I don't think I'd like having nothing to do," was the reply, "but I'd like to find out how you take care of flowers."

Funny quip at that . . . I mean the one in Judge that goes: "There is a broken heart for every light on Broadway—and 20 columnists writing about it" . . . The guy who penned that one must have flunked beautifully in arithmetic . . . Perhaps if they asked Sessue Hayakawa about his friend, the missing Jap importer, they'd trace him . . . They were such intimates . . . A pretty good tennis bum now can get about 40 weeks of tournament play a year—more time than is available for a pretty good vaudevillian . . . Those Hollywood lovers keep you dizzy . . . Last week Swanson chucked Mike Farmer, and now that her decree is final she will marry him Thursday, if possible, and then honeymoon in Honolulu.

There are over 70,000 speakeasies in the five boroughs! . . . And Bainbridge Colby says they all ought to be closed . . . It would be a shame to close all the speaks and leave the town with the shakes . . . I hope the "Vanities" troupers are not superstitious . . . For at the dedication of the new Earl Carrol temple, the procession, including the cast, had to enter the theater by walking under a ladder!

Well, the lad who thought up the readable ad for the Strand Theater made it a contagious thing, but apparently he hasn't been around much . . . The tiny ads asserted: "Warning to Walter Winchell—Carefully examine the origin of those ultra-smart wise-cracks you're hearing in night club, salon and speakeasy—they're probably from 'The Last Flight'" . . . Well, now . . . So I dashed over to see the flicker and breathlessly waited for those ultra-nifties . . . Those devastating bon-mots . . . Those Retorts Swelegant, etc., and what happened? . . . All I heard was the gag: "I'll take vanilla!" . . . And a re-write on: "I've gotta see a man about a dog," which in the movie is: "I've gotta take a Chinese singing lesson" . . . And "Take her away! She's breakin' my heart!" . . . And to top it off they offer the one: "Not only is your conduct unseemly and unethical—but lousy!" . . . Which was merely one of the funnier captions under a cartoon from the nimble crayon of Peter ("It Ain't Loaded!") Arno.

Ordered to Wear 20c Hosiery, Wife Gets Divorce

When she spent $1 for stockings, her husband told her 20-cent cotton stockings were good enough, Mrs. Mary Frederick, 24, of Glassmere, testified in her divorce suit against John Frederick, a coal and iron policeman, of Wilson. Judge Samuel H. Gardner granted her a decree in Common Pleas Court.

Sues to Enforce Beaver Zoning Law

BEAVER, Pa., Aug. 27.—In an effort to halt the erection of a gasoline station adjoining their home, Dr. and Mrs. M. M. Mackall, Beaver and Third streets, filed equity proceedings against John T. Taylor, alleging a public nuisance. A few days ago Taylor's appeal from the Board of Adjustment which refused him a permit for the station was upheld by Judge Frank E. Reader, who declared the Beaver Borough's zoning ordinance illegal.

Every LUCKY STRIKE is made of the finest tobacco leaves the world can offer—the finest from Turkey—the finest from Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas—the Cream of many Crops throughout the world. But all tobacco leaves, regardless of price and kind, as nature produces them, contain harsh irritants. LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—a process that mellows, that purifies, that includes the use of the modern Ultra Violet Ray—expels certain harsh irritants naturally present in every tobacco leaf. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds, who use them as a base in making sheep-dip*, as well as a powerful spraying solution for trees, flowers and shrubs—enough to permit the daily dipping of over 50,000 sheep or the daily spraying of many thousands of trees. Thus, you are sure these irritants, naturally present in all tobacco leaves, are not in your LUCKY STRIKE. "They're out—so they can't be in!"

No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

Is Your Life Being Ruined by Your Mother-in-Law?

He's just mamma's itty precious.

N every time he 'n' Verna have a werd or two (which youngsters will)

He must run and tell mamma all the details.

Which is why Verna is in this column.

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I think your advise is simply priceless to many people, and I am wondering if you can't give me some. Goodness knows I need it. I am at my wits' ends.

"I am 24, and for two years I have been married to a boy whom I love dearly. The whole trouble in my life is that he runs to mamma every time something happens . . . or doesn't happen. He tells her every personal thing I have told him, and he won't stop it.

HUSBAND DISAGREES

"I have called him on one occasion when I overheard him. His answer was, 'Well, what's wrong with that? If you're ashamed of things, don't do them or say them!' Can you beat that? So far as mamma is concerned, it doesn't seem ever to get through his head that there are things you don't care to have peddled, not because you're ashamed of them, but simply because you'd like a little privacy.

"I told him that I wasn't ashamed of anything, but that I believed some things in marriage were sacred and personal. But he disagrees with me and goes on to tell every happening or saying, small or large, to mamma.

"I want to be a real pal to him, to have him come and tell me if things go wrong, and not go whining to mamma.

"She has caused me so much agony and trouble in the past that I can hardly stand it. She tells him everything I say, too, only she adds her own little story to it. She is turning him against me fast. He doesn't think I know it, but I do know that she has told him. You'll have to give her up. 'You're breaking my heart!' And what else can a boy do, who runs to his mother with everything and lets her run him? What a wife!' I suppose is what she thinks.

"She has several other boys, and she seems to want all of them to herself. Do you think that is fair? I love Jack. I would turn the earth upside down to have things straightened out, and have him play fair. I have tried every way I know to keep peace, and have some life of our own. I never whine or nag. I try to be a good scout, but still she finds fault with me to him, and he runs to her with every little thing. What can I do?

"VERNA."

NOT A VIRTUE

Not a pretty picture, is it? Yet it's a true picture of thousands of mothers.

"Good Mothers," they call themselves, and boast that they 'haven't a thought outside their children.' And they think that's a virtue . . . they speak as though it were a sign of utter devotion and sacrifice. But it's nothing of the sort. It's a sign of selfishness and laziness and egotism.

The woman who hasn't a thought outside her children ought to be ashamed of herself.

She can't possibly be an intelligent guide to her children while they are little. And what is she going to do when those children grow old enough to lead lives of their own? She's going to do exactly as this mother is doing. She is going to expect those children to supply her with interest and amusement and excitement. She is going to resent anyone who deprives her of their sole attention. She is going to end by being a vicious parasite, draining the life from the new family to satisfy her selfishness.

And they call that Mother Love!

JUST A WEAKLING

And now, what's Verna to do about it? Can she do anything? Her husband is a weakling, doped by his mother's flattery. And mamma intends to keep him a weakling for her own convenience.

Can Verna could any girl fight a combination like that? Have you fought it and succeeded? If you have, will you tell Verna what to do about it?

We Must Pin Our Faith on Youth for Great Achievements, Says Fay King

IN THE YOUTH WHO ARE STUDYING AND PLANNING USEFUL CAREERS THE FAITH IN THE FUTURE IS FOUNDED
COUNTLESS PRETTY GIRLS ARE PREPARING FOR UNSELFISH NOBLE WORK SUCH AS NURSING OR TEACHING SCHOOL
THE ACHIEVEMENTS OF A LINDY OR A HAINES ARE NOT MORE IMPORTANT TO THE FUTURE THAN THE HONEST ENDEAVORS OF ANY EARNEST YOUNG MAN
FAY KING

By FAY KING.

Youth plays a great part in the news of the day. Some make the front pages with daring achievements in flying. Others contribute to the crime news through waywardness and dissipation.

But both of these are the extremes.

It is my pleasure to browse alone along the byways of life and here one finds youth at its average and its best.

Here one sees the young people earnestly preparing themselves to take those places in life which must ever mean the steady reliable progress of the world.

Youth alone is the future. On them we must pin all our faith. There is no need to worry. They are worthy of the trust. The youth that counts you will find among the plain people.

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

Lillian Presents a "Good Case" to Madge

I nodded an assent to Lillian's query as to the correctness of her account of the early romance between my little kinswoman, Katherine Bickett, and the eminent alienist, Dr. Henry Meredith, in the days when she was Katherine Sennot, student nurse, and he, Hal Meredith, interne.

"Take it from me, dearie," Lillian went on affecting the tone and manner of a shop girl accosting a companion, "that early affair got a strangle-hold on our Katrina that she'll never be able to shake off. Of course her pride enabled her to smother the thing in those early days, and then Time and Healer, and the Other Man, who happened to be Jack, got in their innings. But let me tell you the sequel of that old affair came along at just the psychological moment to rouse what the old novelists would call long dormant feelings. Think of it! While Katherine was smarting under the absence and the cavalier treatment of her husband, Hal Meredith comes back into her life, brilliant, handsome, successful, a very beau ideal of a man, but desperately unhappy with his wife who had developed a neurosis which later, as you know, became actual insanity. Then followed that third act of a melodrama when Lucia killed herself by poison and left things arranged so that Katherine would be blamed. You were able to thwart that end of it, and then in the horror of that time, Hal Meredith broke through the barriers of the years and his promise to that old man, Lucia's father, mercifully dead long before the tragedy, and told Katherine the whole story. Do you mean to tell me that she wasn't swayed by that story of suppressed love and longing then, enhanced by the delicacy of Hal's immediate departure for Europe, and that his unremitting devotion since then isn't wearing down her notions of duty to a husband who apparently doesn't care two pins about her?"

"We don't know that last," I said stubbornly.

"All right, suppose we don't," Lillian capitulated promptly. "We don't need to know it. I'm not raking up all that old story on Katrina's account anyway. I'm simply trying to prove to you that you won't have to count on her leaving you for a long time to come.

"Here are three 'supposes,'" she went on after a pause. "Give 'em an eye or an ear for a minute."

"First, Jack Bickett isn't due back for how long?"

"Another year, at least," I returned.

"Well, do you think Katherine is hankering to go into a hospital, or take on private patients instead of remaining here with you? I don't know what your financial arrangements are, but I imagine that counting her permanent home here, she's making about as much as she would at hospital work or private practice."

"That's what I planned," I said quietly.

"I thought so," Lillian nodded. "And you can bet Katherine so loves being with your children—that's the tragedy of her life, you know, her thwarted motherhood—to say nothing of her affection for you, that she won't consider going anywhere else as long as her husband is away.

"Suppose, secondly," she tapped the fingers of her right hand upon the knuckles of her left, "that Jack comes back unexpectedly, although that's a mighty far-fetched supposition, I don't believe Katherine will take up her life with him again upon the old terms of isolation from all society, and endurance of his moodiness and sternness. She'll be game for the fool killer if she does. Neither you nor I would do it, and I think she'll make your respected 'brother-cousin' put in a few months of proving he's the gentleman he was meant to be instead of the churl into which he's developed since his marriage. And she'll stay right here with you—where else?—during the proving process.

"Thirdly"—the fingers tapped again—"suppose Jack dies—don't wince—at my brutality—you're going to hear more personally I'm not sure that it wouldn't be the best solution for everybody, or suppose he ditches Katherine for that cobra in the camp—it's not beyond the bounds of possibility you known. Of course either of those possibilities eventually spells Hal Meredith, but you know both of those high-minded people would observe the conventions to the very last syllable. Where else would Katherine go while she was marking time, but right here with you?"

She stopped and looked at me with an air of triumph which I would have found ludicrous had I not known the genuine desire to liberate me from domestic thraldom which was behind her long exposition of the conditions which made it probable that Katherine would be at my right hand at least a year to come.

"You haven't a big toe, let alone a leg left to stand on," she said. "I consider that I've proved to you that you can turn over much of the care of your children to Katherine as well as the high lights of the household management. She can even keep peace between Katie and your mother-in-law, while you know that the redoubtable Katie can run the house according to the methods in which you trained her, with one arm in a sling and the other tied behind her back. Now have I or have I not made out a case?"

"You surely have," I told her, laughing, but with the mental reservation that she had not considered Dicky at all, except to label him as a spoiled boy, needing the salutary discipline of looking after his own comfort without depending upon me. But that question, I knew, was one that she would not press further, and with a consciousness of reprieve from something troubling, I put the whole subject away for future and more leisurely consideration as Jerry Tiger came up the driveway in his flivver and, stopping near the veranda, came over to us with his hands filled with letters.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Steady Weight Increases Health Gauge for Baby

Whenever possible the infant should be breast fed. But it is important to discontinue this plan of feeding if it does not serve its purpose. Sometimes babies do not thrive on mother's milk.

Dr. Copeland

It may be necessary to take the baby from the breast and give artificial feeding. Frequently there is lack of milk in the breast.

Increase in weight is the most accurate method of determining if baby is getting sufficient nourishment. If not, the infant will lose weight. Continued loss of weight is serious and requires immediate attention.

The infant should be weighed twice a week. This procedure should be continued until it reaches one year of age, and then it may be weighed once every month.

After the first week no child should ever lose weight or remain stationary. During the first year a healthy baby should double its weight in six months and nearly triple it in 12 months.

It is not important that the gain in weight be rapid, but it should be gradual and steady. During the first six months there should be a weekly gain of five to six ounces. If the gain is not steady there is something wrong. This may be due either to the food or to the method of feeding.

I believe too many mothers overlook the importance of having a scale at home. Infants should be weighed on definite days and an accurate record kept of the weight.

Where such records are kept children receive adequate attention. Since this is a simple method of determining the child's welfare, it should be practised by all. I believe the purchase of an infant's scale a wise and just investment.

If satisfactory progress is not observed, talk with the family doctor. There may be the need of a change in the bottle mixture.

Answers to Health Queries

J. J. M. Q.—What causes a pain on the left side not far from the center of the stomach?

A.—These symptoms are probably due to hyperacidity. Watch your diet and be sure to keep the bowels open and the system clear.

* * *

Mrs. W. W. Q.—What is the difference between leukocythemia and pernicious anemia? Is either condition curable? Is the spleen apt to be affected?

A.—The former is a condition where there is a permanent increase in the number of the white corpuscles and in pernicious anemia there is a diminution in the number of the red corpuscles. There is no specific cure, but proper diet and general care should bring about increased comfort and relief. Yes. The doctor attending the individual patient should be the one to prescribe the necessary treatment.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Garden Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. We, my husband and I, have received an invitation to a garden wedding to be held on the estate of a very wealthy family. As we are not invited to the reception, is it necessary to write a note of acceptance?

2. Will you kindly inform us as to the correct dress for my husband? MRS. H.

1. I am sure that your invitation carries with it the invitation not only to the marriage ceremony, but also the invitation to the reception following. An invitation to a garden wedding would take both for granted. I am sure, just as the invitation to a house wedding would.

Therefore you should write a note of acceptance, as soon as possible.

2. The very best form of attire for your husband would be formal day clothes, cutaway coat and dark striped trousers. Or a rather more informal attire, dark striped trousers worn with a cark coat, cut like a business suit coat, or, if the weather is very warm, undoubtedly some of the men guests will wear white flannel trousers with a dark blue or brown coat. Or you will undoubtedly find many men attired in dark blue business suits.

A Man's Visiting Card

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a man reader of your column, and I am anxious to have your advice about my visiting card. So anxious am I to have my cards exactly right that I am enclosing one for your inspection and suggestion. Will you please tell me if the card is right, and, if it isn't, tell me what kind I should have?

Is the size right? Is it correct to have the name printed as on this card? And is the texture of the card correct?

MAN, READER.

Thank you for sending your card . . . it needs serious attention, dear sir, for everything about it is—well, not as it should be.

In the first place, the size is not right. The correct size for a man's visiting card in this country is 2⅞ inches long and 1 7-16 inches wide.

The card should be of regulation bristol, kid finish. (Not the linen finish of your card).

Always on the card of an American man should be the title of Mr. The style of engraving should be a block letter, or, most popular lately, Shaded Antique Roman.

Household Hints

Shellac the insides of bureau and cupboard drawers and see how much easier they are to keep clean.

After washing hair brushes they should be held under the cold water faucet. The cold water will harden the bristles and make the brush last much longer than if rinsed in warm water.

Get in the habit of always buttering casseroles and baking dishes before putting in their contents. It not only makes the dish easier to serve but saves a lot of work in washing the utensils afterward.

New Kind of Salts Taking Country By Storm

They Revitalize the System—Induce Youthful Activity—Keep Body in Splendid Condition—Free from Fat.

It doesn't take long for Americans to wake up to a good thing—only 3 years ago Kruschen Salts were introduced into this country and the welcome news of their superior goodness and swift rejuvenating power traveled so fast that at one time the supply was many carloads behind the demand.

All of which goes to prove that Americans know good salts when they take them and want their friends to benefit also.

Unlike most salts Kruschen isn't simply a laxative, if that's all you want any old kind of salts with any kind of a label will do—but is that all you want?

When you take Kruschen Salts you not only stimulate your bowels, liver and kidneys to function naturally and perfectly, but you supply every internal organ, gland, nerve and fibre in the body with nature's own rejuvenating minerals.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but $2 at any drug store in America—take one half a teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—in just a few days indolence changes to activity and life grows brighter.

Before the bottle is empty you'll feel years younger—eyes will brighten—step grow sprightlier—nerves steadier—you'll sleep sound, enjoy your meals and after a hard day's work you'll be ready for wholesome recreation—and lose fat—one million Americans know all this—ask your druggist.

HOLDUP VICTIM SENDS BULLET INTO AUTO

Driver Believed Wounded in Flight Following Robbery Of South Side Grocery

Several shots were fired at a speeding bandit automobile by Merle Meader, A. & P. store manager, at 157 Monastery avenue, early today, as they fled after robbing him.

Meader told police one of the bullets passed through a rear window of the machine and is believed to have struck the driver. Meader said the driver sagged in his seat and appeared to drop over on the steering wheel. The car continued its flight, however, disappearing in Warrington avenue.

Alone in the store, Meader said the two men approached him and asked for a package of cigarets. As he turned to serve them, one of the bandits drew a revolver and commanded him to turn over the money, which amounted to $22.

They fled to the street, where the third man waited in a dilapidated coupe.

This was the second time Meader has been held up in three months. In the first, according to police, three bandits captured a short time after robbing him of $50 were convicted and sentenced to serve from 30 to 60 years in Western Penitentiary.

ASKS PINCHOT CALL MEET OF GOVERNORS

Solution Seen in Conference On Competition Battle In Tri-State District

Restriction of coal production or elimination of high-cost mines, or both, through a plan to be devised at a conference of governors of Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia and leading operators was urged in a telegram received today by Gov. Pinchot from J. T. M. Stoneroad, president of the Carnegie Coal Company.

When asked for a statement of his views on the request, Gov. Pinchot said:

"It will be given most careful and immediate attention."

There is not likely to be any comment by the Governor before tomorrow on Stoneroad's suggestion, it was learned.

HELP SEEN IN PLAN

In his telegram to Gov. Pinchot, Stoneroad said if Pinchot were to ask the Governors of Ohio and West Virginia to confer with him and discuss competition due to over-production, a solution might be found to bring order out of chaos. In his telegram Stoneroad says:

"Some operators agree this would be the remedy restricted production. I am not sure myself that it would be a cure-all, but I am absolutely convinced it would help.

"However, I am sure of one thing—that the leading operators of Pennsylvania will tell you that if it were not for West Virginia and Ohio, the situation in Pennsylvania would take care of itself. I feel equally positive that the Governor of West Virginia through his operators will tell you that if it were not for Kentucky, Ohio and Pennsylvania the trouble with the coal industry in West Virginia would be over."

URGES CONFERENCE

Stoneroad points out the Governor of Ohio no doubt would inform Gov. Pinchot, through his operators, that if it were not for Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky his state would be in better condition. Stoneroad concludes:

"I would definitely propose that you ask for a conference of the Governors of Ohio, West Virginia and possibly Kentucky, accompanied by a few leading operators from their respective states, and through a discussion of the highly competitive relationship as between the states named, a plan could be evolved, either through restriction of production or elimination of high cost mines or both and an agreement reached as to a fair return on invested capital, living wages for the miners and result in bringing about order out of disorder in a basic industry."

Urge to Write Started Man Walking Around World in 'Reverse'

Plinnie L. Wingo, of Abiline, Tex., has such a strong desire to write a book that he is walking backwards around the world to satisfy it. His masterpiece will be the record of his experiences on this unique tour, Wingo says.

As he approached Pittsburgh last night, Wingo, who has been on the road since April 15 when he started from Fort Worth, Tex., admitted the undertaking is proving harder than he expected. He is having the most trouble with his shoes, he said, having worn out 21 pairs of half-soles since he started. He expects to finish the jaunt in little less than three years.

The idea of the trip originated, Wingo said, when he wanted to write a book about strange lands. He said:

"I had a specially constructed pair of spectacles made with mirrors so I could see backwards. I've been averaging about 25 miles a day. In Akron, I tripped and broke my ankle so my time is a little slower than I expected. I'm keeping a careful diary so my book will contain all my experiences."

Europe Regains Confidence--But Now Look at It

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

They tell us that confidence has been restored in Europe. Everything is as merry as allmony bells, children are laughing and bank presidents have taken their hats off.

Now we must restore confidence in America. Confidence is the stuff that makes you buy goldbricks off a man with green whiskers. It causes you to take medicine from the wrong bottle in the dark.

With enough confidence you will buy a bear in his den or a moose on the hoof. It enables a grasshopper to leap across the Grand Canyon and is the reason why a life insurance agent grabs a handful of policies and starts out for the old folks home.

Confidence is a beautiful thing if handled correctly. But it seems that it was a soap bubble on a porcupine's back in the glorious year of 1929.

America is getting back its confidence. But we are going to be homeopathic about it this time and take it in teaspoonful doses.

It's a rich mixture. But we are taking a little every hour. We will be out of the woods by October. And the only problem then will be to get rid of the poison ivy.

Members of the family said Miss Duncan retired Sunday night and slept all day Monday. When they were unable to arouse her, a physician was summoned.

HEAVIEST VOTE EXPECTED HERE

The heaviest vote ever cast in an election in Allegheny County was forecast today by Charles A. Gibson, chief clerk of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes for the last 20 years.

For almost two weeks an average of 1,000 persons have been added to the extra assessment books, Gibson said, and almost four times that number have appeared daily at the office to determine whether they have been assessed or not.

Gibson said that the number who will be eligible to vote if they register, will be far in excess of the record set during the Hoover-Smith battle for the presidency in 1928. He did not venture a prediction of the number that will be on the books.

TOKIO, Aug. 27.—(INS)—While Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was being acclaimed by all Japan today, two other American aviators, Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, were still in the country's bad books because they came to Japan without a permit and in doing so flew over fortifications.

SUES TO BLOCK PATIENTS' VOTE

A bill in equity to restrain inmates and patients of the Leech farm tuberculosis hospital from registering and voting in the Twelfth District of the Twelfth Ward was filed in court today. Attorney Hymen Schlesinger filed the bill in behalf of Stanley M. Knapp, an elector of the district.

The bill asks an injunction against Mayor Charles H. Kline, Dr. C. B. Mails, director of health, and Dr. Joseph Shilen, superintendent of the hospital.

The bill claims that inmates of a public institution are not eligible to maintain a residence for voting purposes and that inmates of the Tuberculosis Hospital create a menace to the public health by using the voting booths.

Attorney Schlesinger charged that 168 persons have been assessed from the hospital and that there are not more than 35 employes there, the majority of the others being patients. Assistant City Solicitor Thomas Benner signed a stipulation for a hearing next Tuesday at 9:30 a. m., according to Attorney Schlesinger.

CUBA HOLDS 4 RUM RUNNERS

HAVANA, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—The American embassy was advised that four Americans who were arrested at Camaguey and brought here on suspicion of having been connected with the rebel expeditionary force which was defeated at Gibara last week have records as international rum runners.

It was reported they probably would be deported from Cuba.

The four gave their names as Isador Miller, New York; James Russo, Brooklyn; George Fraser, Boston, and Arthur Walters, no address. First they told authorities they were American aviators on vacation. The Army Air Corps at Washington was queried, but no record of the men could be found.

The State Department became interested and a further check was made.

BUSINESS MEN TO FIGHT REDS

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Application for charter from the State of Illinois was filed on behalf of the Federation of American Business, which proposes to inaugurate a nationwide campaign to "get government out of business and to fight Communism."

A temporary organization has been functioning some time but application for charter was withheld, officials announced, until 20 states were represented in the federation. Twenty-two major industries were represented at the conference this week which approved of permanent organization.

Charles A. Wilson, president of the Chicago Livestock Exchange, who presided, said the federation already includes also agricultural and labor leaders who see "destruction of American ideals and principles of government through the steady encroachment of government in business as a slow but certain victory for Socialism and Communism."

The federation, according to Bernard W. Snow, political leader and member of the board of directors, will seek dissolution of the Federal Farm Board and 79 other agencies which are "using taxpayers' money to compete with taxpayers' business."

Nebraska Legion Hears Former German Vet

E. A. Neischmidt, state forester, addressed the Legionnaires on preparedness. He also discussed conditions in Russia. ASK NAVY DATA ON DEATH LEAP

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Navy officials today faced a request by San Francisco police for information they obtained at a special inquiry into the death of Mrs. Daisy Price, wife of Lieut. Com. George D. Price, who plunged to her death from a hotel window here early Sunday.

Capt. Charles W. Dullea, of the Police Inspector's Bureau, announced he would ask the Navy to furnish him all details presented before the board of inquiry on the airplane carrier Lexington yesterday.

Navy officials held the inquiry behind closed doors, and questioned several witnesses separately, with the announced intention of determining whether court martial proceedings should result. They said the findings would be sent to Washington.

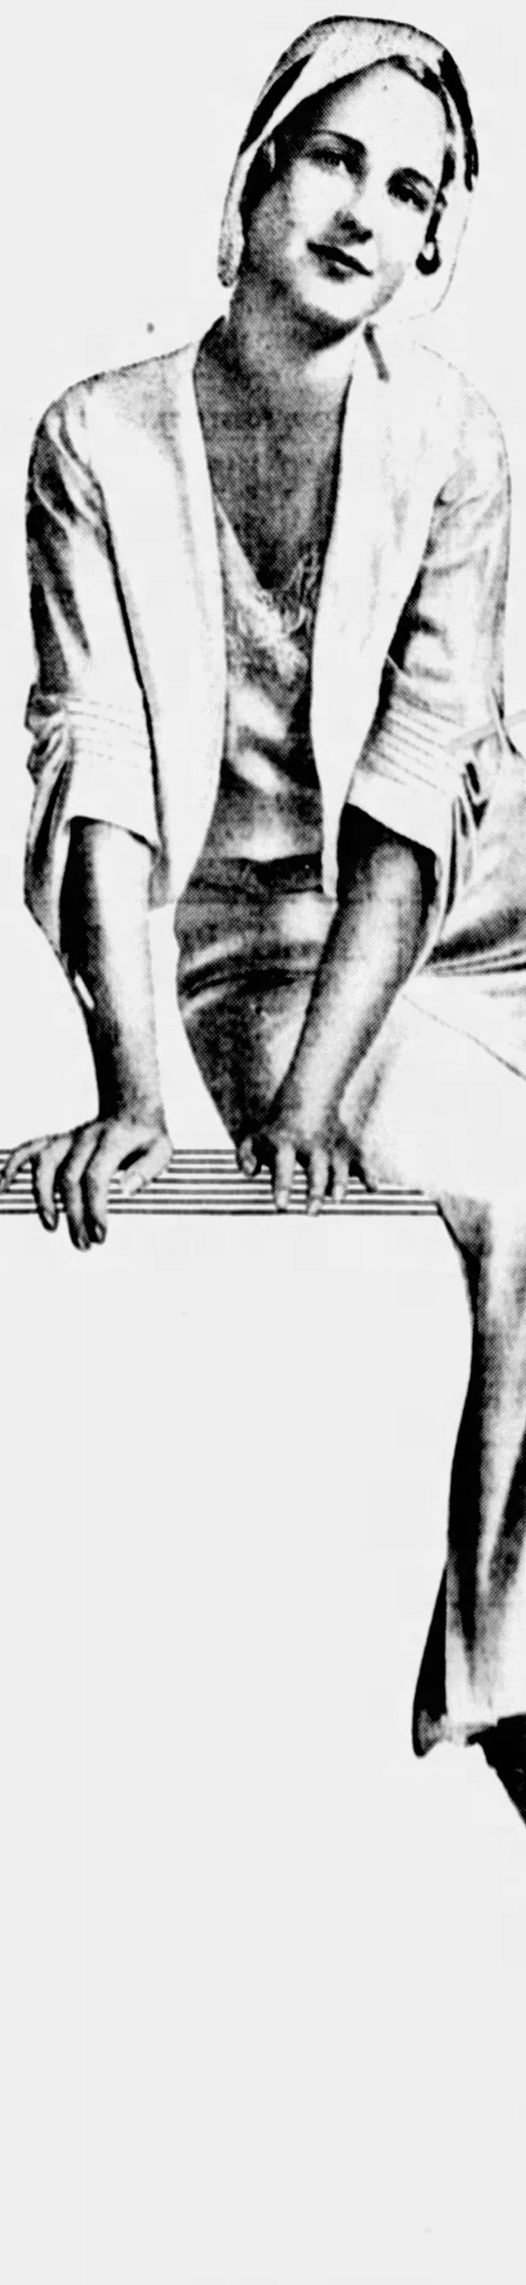
POLICE HONOR DEAD CHIEF

Sixty-seven members of Allegheny Valley Lodge No. 39, Fraternal Order of Police, will march in a body tomorrow afternoon to the home of Chief of Police John Polcsak, of Cheswick, who died from a fractured skull yesterday in the Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington.

Polcsak was injured when his motorcycle collided with an automobile in the Freeport road while he was pursuing robbery suspects.

Police of the district also will attend funeral services for Chief Polcsak, to be held Sunday in the Catholic Church of Springdale. Frank Bordonaro, of New Kensington, secretary of the lodge, announced.

"I'm older than you think I am . . .



"BUT I remember some of the things that I heard when I was younger.

"I was told to watch out for one of those so-called friends who is so mighty glad to see you today—almost going to hug you; and the next time you see her, is holding her head high up in the air and won't even speak to you.

"I was thinking about this while I was enjoying a CHESTERFIELD cigarette. You know, I have been smoking CHESTERFIELDS quite a long time, and they are not like some of our friends—one thing today and another thing tomorrow. They are always the same—always mild—always so pleasing in taste. They just satisfy all the time.

"By the way, that reminds me of something. I was playing bridge recently with a girl friend of mine and two men, and after we finished the game they began lambasting a whole lot of things and folks. Some of the talk was right funny, you couldn't help laughing; but, really, they pulled down a whole lot of things, and didn't build up anything.

"And that reminded me of a salesman who called to see me the other day to tell me something about CHESTERFIELD. The thing that pleased me more than anything else was that he didn't lambast and cuss out any other cigarette; but, of course, he thought that CHESTERFIELD was the best . . . And I rather agree with him. They do satisfy."

GOOD . . . they've got to be good!

The next time you have a serving or two of berries or peaches left over from a meal, just cook them for a few minutes with a half cup of sugar. Later you can serve it as a spread for bread or a topping for pudding.

Nothing takes the place of sugar in preserving fruit. And refined cane sugar is recognized everywhere as the standard. Sugar has never been so low in price as now.

Why pay toll to Oxygen the coffee Racketeer?

New
VITA-FRESH PROCESS
delivers full-flavor coffee every time!

It is a hijacker that attacks coffee as soon as it comes from the roaster stealing its strength, robbing it of flavor.

Just read these amazing facts established in the laboratories of a leading Eastern University:

(1) Loose or bag coffee loses 65% of its flavor in 9 days after roasting.

(2) Coffee in old-fashioned cans loses 45% of its flavor in 9 days after roasting.

All due to the attack of Oxygen!

Think of it! 45% to 65% of the flavor gone from 9-day-old coffee. Even vacuum packing, a definite improvement over old-fashioned methods, removes only part of the air from the can, leaving sealed in enough Oxygen to cause flavor loss and deterioration.

The new Vita-Fresh Process removes the air so completely that the most rigid chemical analysis reveals no trace of Oxygen in the Vita-Fresh can after packing.

Remember—Oxygen is the destroyer of coffee freshness and flavor. The Vita-Fresh Process alone gives full protection to coffee goodness. Maxwell House and Maxwell House only gives you this guarantee of full flavor, full value in every pound.

Thousands of coffee lovers everywhere are now enjoying really fresh coffee for the first time in their lives, thanks to the new Vita-Fresh Process. Order a pound of Vita-Fresh Maxwell House Coffee from your grocer today and give yourself a new taste treat. It's a flavor revelation.

Try it at our risk

After trying Vita-Fresh Maxwell House Coffee, if you and your family do not agree that it is the finest coffee you have ever tasted—simply return the can with unused portion to the grocer from whom you bought it and he will gladly return the full purchase price.

THE LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—War correspondents are bobbing up again on the air waves. Radio seems to have solved the editorial problem of what to do with them in peace time.

Frederick Palmer and D. Thomas Curtin are the latest to be heard. Curtin goes in for dramatizations of some of his World War observations. He saw plenty of action—he drew his pay from Northcliffe—from the Balkans to the Baltic . . . It may be the radio sahibs are getting ready for war and, like the baseball barons, are bringing war correspondents to their training camps . . . And they're going to have plenty of music ready, too, when the tocsin sounds . . . They have even musicalized the old school room thriller, "Sheridan's Last Ride." Well, there's plenty of material in the schoolrooms for them.

In the event of war the sahibs of the studios would be wise to make John Philip Sousa their musical adviser. He knows best how to tingle the spine.....Nothing seems to halt his march-composing brain. He now points to five new marches. But his old ones are the best. First three in our opinion are "Stars and Stripes", "Semper Fidelis" and "Washington Post".....Capt. Robert Dollar is being led to the microphones. But not in anecdotes of the sea.....And he could tell plenty. Strange, the reluctance of the broadcasters in finding regular places for real seafaring men.....Our curiosity as to how "Turkey in the Straw" would sound in symphonic form is finally to be satisfied by Erno Rapee. We hope we can recognize it.....Meanwhile piano teams continue to apply the technique of the masters to "Yankee Doodle".

* * *

Boxers are finding television a new means of publicity. Radio men can really say of television that it helps keep people in the public eye.....Broadcasters are actually heralding a forthcoming discussion of the proper treatment of a burglar after he has committed a crime. Sounds almost like a burlesque.

Screen Puts Chic Sale On Stand

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Here's a picture for you. It seeps with poignant human interest. It reeks with stern smoke from gangster guns. It leers with malice melodrama into triumphant entertainment.

It is the story of a modest American family caught innocents between ruthless gangdom and relentless justice. Gangland says: Keep your mouth closed. Justice says: Speak up, send the killers to the chair.

Gangland seeks to close mouths by threats, attacks and kidnapings. Justice seeks to open mouths by the plea of making the streets safe for democracy.

A NEW SPECIALTY

This time Mr. Chic Sale specializes in good old American traditions. And he rises to grand, humorous and human heights. He portrays an aged and imbibing Civil War veteran. He believes the ties of blood are stronger than the soup in the Soldiers' Home. And he believes the ties of country are stronger than both. He is the "star witness." He is the star of the show.

But it's a glorious cast all the way. Walter Huston forceful district attorney. Grant Mitchell Babbit-type father. Frances Starr befuddled mother. Eddie Nugent surly son. Sally Blane unimportant daughter. Ralph Ince bad man; all are sharp but warm portraits. And childhood in the persons of George Ernest and Dickie Leeds puts in some well-placed heart punches.

There are episodes as homely as the song of meat frying on a kitchen stove; episodes as calculating and cold as the quick slice of a surgeon's knife; episodes of swift reality that dig inside of you like a grave-digger's spade going through soft earth.

LET THE REBELS SNEER!

Hats off to William Wellman, the director! The film's an achievement for him. Though he veers movieque in spots, he knows the slim trick of giving drama and character a sincere ring. He upsets some of Hollywood's favorite formulas, too. He turns character players into principals. He makes the romantic clinches conspicuous by their absence.

And the film's real all right. Look around your dinner table tonight at the faces about you! Look at your newspaper headlines! Both are in this drama.

What if it does get George M. Cohanish and wave Old Glory around a bit. Maybe the movies and the rest of us should go in for more of that. Who cares if the sophisticates and the rebels sneer!

BRAVING SHADOWS

Doors open and doors close, shutting out shadows and allowing new ones to creep in, as Phillips Holmes and Sylvia Sidney wander down Youth's Highway in "An American Tragedy," filmization of the Dresier novel, opening tomorrow in the Penn.

Gang Battle In Metro News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

New York City's latest bandit outrage in which six persons were killed and 11 others shot, is vividly pictured in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. Metrotone cameramen were on the scene of the eight-mile fight through the crowded streets of the city as the last chapter of the grim tragedy was being enacted. A graphic description of the amazing battle between the police and the racketeers is provided by the Globe Trotter.

To relieve the sadness of this tragic subject is one in which Harry Hershfield, famous cartoonist of the Hearst newspapers, maintains his reputation as one of Broadway's leading humorists by telling his latest favorite story. It has to do with the King of England and is twice as funny as told by Hershfield as it would be in cold type, it is said.

GIANT AIRLINER

After many delays the giant German airliner, DO-X, largest airplane in the world, is shown arriving at Miami, Fla., after crossing the Atlantic by way of South America.

Helen Wills Moody retains her championship tennis crown by again winning at Forest Hills, N. Y. With utmost ease "Little Poker Face," who apparently will be able to wear her crown as long as she sees fit, won over her English rival, Mrs. Whittingstall.

MOTOR RACE SMASHUP

HAY FEVER SUFFERERS!

Prevent irritation from damp handkerchiefs—

USE KLEENEX

Inexpensive . . . use and destroy —no laundering

HAY FEVER victims join the thousands of fellow sufferers who have rejoiced in the discovery of Kleenex!

You know how marvelously soft Kleenex is—those super-absorbent tissues so widely used for removing face creams.

Used in place of handkerchiefs, they relieve much of the wretchedness due to hay fever.

You know only too well how miserable a damp handkerchief becomes. Embarrassing to carry, disgusting to look at, irritating to use, unpleasant to wash.

Inexpensive—use and destroy

Kleenex costs so little that you may destroy each tissue immediately after use. Thus each tissue that touches your face is dry—so essential to comfort during hay fever. Kleenex absorbs twice as fast as the softest old linen handkerchief.

Why should you suffer? Why should you wash countless handkerchiefs all through the season? Don't do it. Try Kleenex at once and you'll find it utterly impossible to return to the old irritating way.

You'll find Kleenex at your nearest drug, dry goods or department store. It comes in convenient packages. Insist on genuine Kleenex, the tissue that can be removed from the box with one hand.

So useful in many ways

Use Kleenex for dusting and polishing, in place of unsanitary cloths. Mothers find these absorbent tissues invaluable in caring for young babies. Use for wiping razor blades, to avoid cutting towels. Buy an extra package to keep in the automobile. It's handy in a score of ways when motoring.

Layden's Fifth Season. Brings Dukes Forward. Quinn Shining at 46.

BLUFFITES PREPARE TO OPEN SEASON

WITH ELMER LAYDEN back from Hollywood and the Dukes preparing to start preliminary gridiron work on the Bluff campus next Thursday, attention is drawn to the close approach of the local football season. Three weeks from tomorrow night Duquesne will usher in the Pittsburgh pigskin campaign with a game against Geneva under the floodlights at Forbes Field, this being the fourth year in succession in which the Dukes have staged this city's curtain raiser.

Elmer Layden

The Duquesne-Geneva game is a traditional affair, the first meeting dating back 31 years, and the rivalry between the teams is always keen. This has been particularly true since the Dukes advanced to a point that has enabled them to break a reign of mastery which Geneva enjoyed for many years. The 27-to-7 victory which the Layden forces scored over their Beaver Falls foemen in 1929 marked the first time the Bluffites ever defeated Geneva in all their long series of encounters.

SINCE LAYDEN TOOK over the coaching reins on the Bluff Duquesne's football stock, as is well known, has risen steadily. This is Elmer's fifth season here, in which, incidentally he faces the most ambitious schedule ever attempted by a Duke team. In four games with Geneva his teams have won one and lost three. Against the Dukes' 27-to-7 victory in 1929, Geneva won in 1927, 20 to 0, and in 1928 and 1930, 7 to 0. Last year's result was an upset.

Layden has coached the Dukes to a total of 487 points scored in four years, as against a total of 219 for their opponents. This has involved 28 victories, two ties and eight defeats. The records show 82 points for Duquesne against opponents' 78 in 1927, 118 against 32 in 1928, 156 against 53 in 1929, the year in which Duquesne was not defeated, and 131 against 56 last season.

THE FIRST OF the two ties under Layden, who likes to win or lose, but never to leave the issue undecided, was played with Bethany in 1927, each side scoring seven points. The second came in 1929, the famous deadlock with West Virginia University at Morgantown, the count on this occasion also being 7 to 7.

Four defeats were suffered in 1927, one in 1928, none in 1929, and three in 1930. Geneva administered three of these. Waynesburg, Ashland, Geneva and St. Bonaventure downed the Dukes the first year, Geneva did it in 1928, and West Virginia, North Dakota and Geneva turned the trick last season.

ALL OF WHICH is surely evidence that the Dukes have made a vast amount of progress since the fullback of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen in 1924 came to the Bluff. Some of the credit for this, by the way, was earned by the late Dr. Johnny Weibel, first line coach at Duquesne; by Pat Regan, now at Villanova, and by Joe Bach, who has built forward walls for the Night Riders for the last two years. Leading off with Geneva in the night opener with only two weeks of preparation is likely to prove a tough job for the Dukes, even though Layden has given them a class which they never knew before his coming. This particularly because 14 men, all practically of first-string caliber, were graduated last June, making it necessary to build an entirely new team. The entire first-string outfit got diplomas, and that's a lot for any coach to bear.

Gabby Street

THE STRONGEST POINT about the St. Louis Cardinals, in the opinion of Manager Gabby Street, and the weightiest item in their favor both for the National League and the world championship, is that they are playing and pulling together like one man.

"We're a 25-man ball club and that's the very best thing I could say about the Cards," Street declared. "They all are pulling together and hustling. The so-called wear and tear of the pennant race doesn't mean a thing to us. We're playing every game as it comes along. We win or we don't. We make no game, no series of games, our particular steamed-up objective. It's a helpful practice. It tends to keep the players from getting nervous. And when players get nervous they are likely to become stale."

WHEN JACK QUINN a few weeks ago developed the first sore arm of his career it was reported that he had at last reached the end of the road. However, he's not only back on the job but pitching in a fashion that promises he will be just as good during the closing weeks as he was at any other time.

It may sound like an exaggeration to say that Quinn at the age of 46 is more effective than ever before, but the records prove just that. In 45 innings pitched in 35 games to date, he has allowed a total of only 13 earned runs, or but 2.71 per nine innings, the lowest average of his major league life.

IN WINNING 16 games for the Boston Braves to date, Ed Brandt must be credited with one of the most impressive pitching records of the year, yet he has hurled even better ball than those figures indicate. The Hub southpaw should have an even more imposing record than he has, because some of his defeats have been suffered by slim margins through the failure of his mates to hit behind him. In the last two games, for instance, Brandt has allowed only two runs in 21 innings pitched, yet he has only broken even, winning by one run and losing by the same margin.

WITH THE BOUT between Ernie Schaaf and Victorio Campolo put back until next Monday, interest becomes stronger than ever in the Charley Retzlaff-Joe Sekyra 10-round argument, scheduled for tonight in New York.

This, like the Schaaf-Campolo affair, will be a sort of elimination tilt in the heavyweight championship. If beaten tonight, Retzlaff will have to start his uphill fight all over again and for the time being will have to be counted out of the running.

HOWEVER, THE AVERAGE fight follower who has been watching Retzlaff's advance will not count Retzlaff as beaten until it has actually happened. Charley has never met so good a boxer as he will encounter in Sekyra, but none of his previous bouts has forced him to extend himself to his limit, and possibly he will be able to deliver the extra something required for victory tonight.

An unusual business deal is at stake on the outcome. Several well-to-do New Yorkers have pooled interests in a proposition in which they offer to pay $50,000 for a half interest in Retzlaff provided his work tonight meets with their approval.

Mrs. Whittingstall

SINCE THE WOMEN'S tennis championship of the United States was regained by Mrs. Helen Wills Moody last Sunday there has been almost as much talk about the loser as about the winner. Though Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall bowed to Mrs. Moody after fighting her way into the final round, she impressed the experts as a player who will have to be reckoned with in future by Mrs. Moody and all other aspirants to the highest honors in women's tennis. In her match with Helen Jacobs, before meeting Mrs. Moody, Mrs. Whittingstall showed ability that has never been surpassed by any woman player in this country.

ERIE SCRAPPER PUTS RECORD IN DANGER

By JAMES MILLER

Undefeated over a stretch of 41 bouts, Frankie Bojarski, Erie southpaw puncher, will attempt to keep his record unsullied as he squares off against Charley Baxter, clever North Side scrapper, formerly of Columbus, O., in the 10-round main bout at Hickey Park, Millvale, tonight.

Charley Baxter

So with Bojarski's string of victories at the well known pillar, and Baxter's eagerness to break into these parts with a decisive win, this tussle should be worth the price of admission and then some.

Manager John Hernon and Matchmaker Bill Dummer also are giving the fans a strong supporting card, with Wynn (Red) Lyday, of Columbus, O., mixing with Henry Attel, a reputed stiff puncher, of Girard, O., in the eight-round semi-final. "Wynn" is what he is going to do, according to his manager, Prof. Bunny Buntach.

Lee Sala, of Donora, a tough hombre, is matched with Baby Face Barry, Kittanning welterweight, in the six-round second bout and Bobby Vogel, of Erie, a stablemate of Bojarski, will tangle with Jimmy Scott, a Negro lightweight of the Hill. The show is scheduled to get under way at 8:45 daylight saving time.

Between Rounds

Charley Retzlaff, the sensational heavyweight, of Duluth, Minn., and Joe Sekyra, of Dayton, O., will top the boxing card at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, tonight. The bout originally was scheduled for Tuesday night, but was postponed when rain fell in torrents before ring time.

A benefit show for the Police Pension Fund is on for tonight at Johnstown. Joey Dragon and Ross Fields bantamweights, top the main 10-rounder with Johnny Chiodo a hometown lad, in it with Steve Nugent in the other 10-round bout. Two other bouts make up the card.

Indian Tiger West, of Brookline, is training daily at the Salvation Army gym keeping in good shape, hoping that his recent wins around here will get him a main bout. In his last three starts, he stopped Jack Tracy, won from Buddy McArthurs, and scored a technical knockout over Harry Harris. Three victories should bring something his way.

Hickey Park, Millvale, will be the scene of a benefit amateur boxing show under the auspices of the Bairdstown Volunteer Fire Department Monday night. Twelve fights are on the program.

The American League is now fining players for talking to fans in the stands. There are a couple of spots on the American League circuit this season where President Harridge should be tickled to death there were any customers in the stands for them to talk to.

Speaking of attendance, I hear the Pittsburgh Pirates are attracting the same size crowds at Forbes Field when they are on the road as when they are playing at home.

Havrilla to Assist Westminster Coach

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Aug. 27.—Coach John D. Lawther, of the Westminster College football team, announced yesterday that Stephen (Jiggs) Havrilla, North Braddock, former Titan star, will assist in the Westminster football camp which opens September 1.

Havrilla, star fullback on Westminster teams in 1924, 1925, 1927 and 1928, was backfield coach and scout for the Titans in 1929. He is to be assistant football coach to Johnny Reed at Scott High, North Braddock, this year and will be able to spend only one week at the Titan camp.

PRIMO, GODFREY UNDER BAN

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 27.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania State Boxing Commission yesterday indefinitely suspended Primo Carnera and George Godfrey. The suspensions were a reversal of a decision rendered August 5, when the two boxers were conditionally reinstated and their managers restored to good standing.

Under the ruling of August 5, the Commission restored the boxers and their managers to good standing under the condition they meet in some Pennsylvania boxing club within 60 days of the date the ruling was handed down.

It was generally believed the Commission's ruling was the result of testimony given by Francis Conney, Conshohocken, a deputy inspector, who charges he was assaulted by Carnera's handlers at a fight between Carnera and Godfrey at Philadelphia last year.

Youngstown Boy Second in Shoot

CAMP PERRY, O., Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Twice halted by rain, young marksmen firing in the prone match of the national junior rifle matches here, took the range again today after two days of international firing.

Milton Miller, 18, Columbus, O., one of a few of the 73 contestants in the Class A group to complete the 30-round event, scored 298 out of a possible 300 points. The match, for boys and girls between 15 and 18 years of age, is fired in 10-round stages.

Behind Miller, with 296 points, were Abbott Byfield, 16, Highland Park, Ill., and Robert Hughes, 17, Youngstown, O.

FRANKLIN STARTS

PA. STAR WINS GUN TITLE

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Steve M. Crothers, Chestnut Hills, Pa., who seems to have taken a long term lease on the Pennsylvania State trapshooting title, yesterday was crowned champion of champions in the feature shoot of the third day's program of the Grand American handicap tournament.

Crothers won the title of perfect marksmanship by shattering 200 consecutive targets, duplicating his recent feat in winning the Pennsylvania crown. He replaces E. F. Woodward, of Houston, Tex., as champion of champions. Titleholders from 41 states, the Canal Zone and Alberta, Canada, participated.

Earl Donahue, Minneapolis professional, led a classy field of paid-to-play shooters home in the North American professional clay target championship when he won shootoff with Rush Razee, Denver. The two tied with 199 and in the extra session both kept clicking off targets until the twenty-third, when Razee missed from a difficult angle. This was the fourth target he had missed out of 632 shots in the last three days.

By breaking 976 targets out of a possible 1,000, the No. 1 team from Texas walked away with the state squad championship, nosing out the Ohio team by a margin of six targets.

Two Pittsburgh shots finished among the high scorers of the day. In the women's ranks, Mrs. A. S. Harrold turned in a score of 181.

J. Painter, Jr., the 81-year-old Pittsburgh marksman, finished third in the veterans' competition with a mark of 169. H. M. Rigg, of Washington, Pa., scored a 184 in the class shooting.

GRIDDER INJURED

SPENCER, ERV BRAME READY TO HURL

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Rogers Hornsby's Cubs were groggy from doubleheaders when they landed in Pittsburgh this morning. The Bruins were compelled to participate in three dual bills on successive afternoons at the Polo Grounds and they realized as they reeled out of their Pullmans this morning there was to be no letup or surcease during their short stay at the home of the Pirates.

The Bruins and Buccos are slated to mix in bargain attraction this afternoon, the hostilities to begin at 2 o'clock. The big date is just a stopover affair for both teams, the home players to rush away to St. Louis tonight.

STAFF WELL RESTED

The Freebooters also rolled into town this morning, the main body of the club spending yesterday at Wilkes-Barre. Manager Ens, however, sent his regular pitchers from New York Tuesday night and the staff should be well rested for the ordeals that are to follow. The Bucs won their exhibition game yesterday, 7 to 5.

Ens said he expected to use Glenn Spencer and Ervin Brame on the slab this afternoon against the Bears. The two clever right-handers have had an abundance of rest despite the seven dual bills participated in by the Pirates on their Eastern invasion.

Manager Hornsby of the Bruins has a set of southpaws ready for the Pirates today. Lester Sweetland and Jackie May are scheduled to work on the mound for the visitors.

Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler, former Pirate star, who is one of Hornsby's real aces this season, will be honored this afternoon by his friends holding membership in the Joint Association of Postal Employes. These local fans and boosters will send a delegation to the plate to present the ball hawk with a gift of some sort. The nature of the token was not disclosed. Cuyler is now in centerfield and in this roving spot he is able to display his talents in a more emphatic way.

Eight full games below the fourth-place Robins, the Buccos realize they have but scant chance to land in a money berth this year. They still have a good opportunity to finish ahead of the fifth-place Braves, but there will be little comfort for the fans or players if this eventuality should come to pass.

PIET TO PLAY

Those in attendance at the dual scrap of today will see second-baseman Tony Piet in action. The fleet Polish boy has made a fine start since his hurried return to the club on top of the injury to Howdie Groskloss. The Sheraden

GRAYS' ANNEX NO-HIT WIN

Rain and wet diamonds played havoc with last evening's sandlot baseball schedule, only two league contests being reported. The Homestead Grays, however, managed to grab the major portion of the limelight, figuring in a no-hit, no-run game.

In the City League, Dormont and the Books were kept idle, but J. L. Thomas got around to mowing out Homewood, 14 to 13, in a slugfest. In the North-South League, the J. A. Lineys and the Union Printers battled to a 0-0 deadlock.

At Washington, Pa., the Grays defeated the Washington semi-pros, nine, 3-0. Radcliffe, hurling for the Grays, did not allow a hit or a run during the six innings the game lasted. It finally was called on account of rain. Josh Gibson's homer in the first inning provided the Grays' tallies. The lineup of the Grays' game:

S. A. R. GOLFERS CLASH TODAY

BY VERN SWARTSFAGER

An inter-chapter Patriotic and Service Sons of the American Revolution team match between Pittsburgh, Nova Castle and Butler is being played this afternoon at the beautiful Butler Country Club.

Walter Johnstone, Butler professional, reports that the Butler links are in better shape than most courses in the district, in spite of the fact nine holes are comparatively new.

A mixed foursome tourney was under way today at the South Hills Country Club.

The Wildwood Country Club tomorrow will be the scene of a women's invitation tourney, and a large entry was expected. The Wildwood course also is in perfect shape.

Al McBride, professional, will be host tomorrow to all of the South Park County links canines in his first annual caddie tourney. Clothing and other useful articles are to be given as prizes for 18 holes medal play.

Yesterday, Chartiers Heights Country Club was the scene of two tourneys, Guest Day for women and a men's medal play event in conjunction with a big stag party which marked the burning down of the club's old caddie house. A Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania one-day tourney also was held at the Greensburg Country Club.

The junior and caddie championships were staged at Highland yesterday. Bert Parker won the junior title by defeating G. N. Garner, 1 up. Arthur Tucker won the caddie title by defeating John Martin in 27 holes, 1 up.

W. PA. LEAGUE RIVALS SET FOR DUELS

SANDLOT GAMES TODAY

CITY LEAGUE
North Side Giants at Books.
WEST PENN LEAGUE
Marty Griffin at Reliance.
Linwood at Homestead Aces.
C. & I. LEAGUE
Coalers at Rieck's.
STEEL CITY LEAGUE
Mifflin at Pasquale.
Lawrenceville Pirates at O'Malleys.
MINOR LEAGUE
Jednota at Bellevue.

By TOM BIRKS

More games were added to the long list of sandlot postponements last evening, a dark and dreary evening putting practically all scheduled battles on the shelf for future disposal.

The Coalers seriously will threaten the Rieck's leadership of the C. & I. League this evening at Magee Field.

The Rieck nine, with two wins over Reliance tucked away in the bag, is away out front in the second half race, and unless someone of the other teams stop the Stuhlfire aggregation, Reick and Reliance, as first and second half champs, will tangle in the post-season playoffs.

BOOKS SEEK REPEAT

Books will try and duplicate that win over the North Side Cavs this evening at Olympia Park. Book shut out the North Siders Tuesday, and with Dormont pressing the Olympia Park outfit, the Welsh aggregation will have to shoot the works.

This second-half race in the City League, featuring Books and Dormont, has certainly been a money maker for both clubs. Packed stands have watched the battles between the teams, and despite the depression, both teams should be on the right side of the ledger when the season ends.

The West Penn League is featuring two games this evening, with the three leading teams swinging into action. The Marty Griffin club goes to Homewood to meet Reliance, and Linwood faces the crucial test when the Homestead Aces are met on the latter's field.

SEEK EIGHTH WIN

The Aces have won seven in a row, and Linwood has been swamping everything along the way. Only the St. Joachim nine has been able to stop the Paulson avenue team this season.

Two games will be played in the Steel City League. The Mifflin club crosses the bridge and meets the Pasquale club, while a local battle will be fought at Lawrenceville when the Lawrenceville Pirates and the O'Malleys clash at Marshall Field.

It had been expected that 15 thoroughbreds would go to the post, but the decision to start the stout-hearted son of Sun Briar-Beautiful Lady may reduce the field to 10 or less.

Look at these VALUES then ask yourself:

Wouldn't it be a thrill to start out on that Labor Day drive with a new set of handsome, safe, trouble-free Goodyears on your wheels?

Wouldn't it be a comfort to know you are going into the fall and winter motoring season with the best tire equipment on your car that money can buy?

Of course it would! Why don't you do it? You can afford it—with prices as low as these listed here, mileage is selling cheaper now than ever before.

If you have any doubt about this, just remember that for 16 years it has been a fact that "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!"

Again, a great and unbiased public institution recently completed a nation-wide survey, asking American car owners "What tire is best?"

The vote, uninfluenced in any way, shows a preference for Goodyears nearly 2¼ times that for the second tire, and five times the average preference for all other makes.

It takes a great tire—an outstanding tire—to win public approval in this decisive fashion; it takes the kind of tire you would like to own.

You can have that tire, at no extra price, if you'll guide your buying with the simple question: "Why buy a second-choice tire, when first-choice costs no more?"

CRACK HORSES TO CAMPAIGN FOR HONORS

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 27.—They're off!

After an absence of a year the horse is back at the Wheeling Island race course, and today the fall race meeting gets under way to last rain or shine for 16 days.

Some fine runners will race over the local track during this meeting and all of them are coming here with impressive records made during the past spring and summer. Eight hundred runners—none of which are stake horses but all of them campaigners that have raced throughout Kentucky, New York, Maryland and in the Canadian campaign—just brought to a close—are stabled at the Island [illegible].

HANDICAP FEATURE

Today's feature race, the Wheeling Handicap, for 3-year-olds and upward, will see a crack field going to the post to battle over the six and one-half furlong route for the purse of $500.

Faylin and Dry Nation, the latter always a favorite on the Island oval, will carry top weight in this event, but there are 13 entries for this event.

Wild Cover, Flying Express, Participate, Thessalia, Riley, Flying Phantom, Noon Play, Bless Her Heart, Star Bright, Autumn Bloom and Gentle will be others likely to start in this event.

STAR JOCKEYS PRESENT

Star riders of the east will be here to accept mounts. Among the outstanding jockeys who will pilot the thoroughbreds over this great half-mile track include such stars as Frankie Horn, who has been a consistent winner on Canadian tracks, winning many races at Dorval; Billy Bonnets and Mount Royal; Joe Wilson, Jimmy Conners and several other star riders from Thistledown. J. Wilson, R. Duncan, A. Parker, Martin Laurin and H. Peake, all from Connaught Park, Canada.

FILLY TROTTER SETS RECORD

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 27.—(AP.)—The Marchioness, a bay filly owned by Ralph R. Keeler, of Auburn, N. Y., yesterday outlasted a select field to win the $4,000 Horse Review Futurity for 2-year-old trotters, going an extra heat to defeat The Lad and Calumet Chuck, in a race that produced two season records. The race was the feature of yesterday's Grand Circuit card.

In the first heat, the filly trotted the mile in 2:04¾, and went the last half in 59½ seconds, the fastest half of the season by a 2-year-old. Calumet Chuck duplicated the time in the second heat and The Lad took the third in 2:05½. The Marchioness came back to win the extra one in 2:07½, to round out the four fastest heats of the season among 2-year-olds.

FLYING PHANTOM, POPULAR CHOICE IN THE FEATURE EVENT TODAY

Wheeling's annual 16-day race meeting gets under way at the Wheeling Island track today. The Wheeling Handicap, a sprint of six and one-half furlongs for 3-year-olds and upward, is the feature event of the opening-day program, and Flying Phantom has been established the favorite to annex the $500 purse which is to go to the winner.

COAST TENNIS PAIR WINS

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill, Californian favorites to capture the Golden Jubilee National doubles championship yesterday, put on one of the bravest stands in the history of lawn tennis, to overhaul the two-set lead of the unseeded Rhode Islanders, Arnold Jones and Jimmy Van Allen, and smash their uphill way into the quarter-final round.

The West Coast youngsters, who have lost only one doubles engagement this season, started off in frightful fashion and the crafty lobs of their cool-thinking opponents speedily reduced them to the tyro stage.

Just when the battle appeared lost in the tenth game of the third set, when Jones and Van Allen reached match point twice, Vines rushed to the rescue and upheld his wobbling partner's service by smashing three terrific forehand drives between the opposition to pull up to 5 all.

The 10 minute rest was a godsend to the Californians, for it gave them time to recover from their rude shock and map out a campaign that swept them on to victories in the fourth and deciding sets for a 0-6, 2-6, 8-6, 6-3, 6-4 decision.

Seven other seeded teams, including Johnny Doeg and George Lott, the defending champions, survived the other second round matches and all but one set of favored players had to overcome the sternest sort of competition.

Frederick J. Perry and George Patrick Hughes, the British Davis Cup pair, seemed headed for elimination several times during their two-hour struggle with rangy Lester Stoeffen and Jack Tidball, of Los Angeles. The Britons survived with a 3-6, 8-6, 6-8, 6-4, 8-6.

Split Heat Wins Mark Oval Races

Victories were turned in by May King Allen Jr. and Mildred M. Guy. The summary:

HORSE SHOW TODAY

GARDEN OFFERS DEMPSEY BOUT

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(INS.)—Jack Dempsey's exhibitions in the West are for the purpose of fitting him for a comeback, it was revealed today.

Dempsey said so in a telephone conversation with Tom McArdle, matchmaker of the Garden. The ex-heavyweight champion figures he'll be in shape by December 1 and will be ready to show in the Garden against any opponent McArdle selects.

The Garden wanted Dempsey for an outdoor show late next month. But Jack is booked solidly until the latter part of November. In addition to being engaged, Dempsey says he needs the time to condition himself.

McArdle and President William F. Carey, excited by the mere suspicion that Dempsey's barnstorming tour had a serious idea behind it, forced him into a showdown by proposing an outdoor match here late in September. They offered him his choice of Paulino Uzcudun, Johnny Risko, Jose Santa or James J. Braddock. Dempsey answered:

"I'm not ready yet, but I will be. I promise you I'll go for Madison Square Garden indoors some time about December 1, and I won't ask to pick an opponent. You can do that."

JACK OUTBOXED

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 27.—(INS.)—Before an audience of 10,000 fight fans, Jack Dempsey hurled himself upon three heavyweights here last night, and put one to sleep on his feet, pummeled another into a trance, and took a lot of punishment from the third.

Dempsey looked like the champion of old as he weaved and bobbed about Red Tingley, unleashing a furious attack that bowled the Seattle boxer off his feet.

He devoted two rounds to plastering a slashing body attack into the ribs of Denny Lenhard, Portland 187-pounder.

Apparently unhandicapped by any dread of the Mauler, Bob Frazier, third opponent, not only carried the fight to Dempsey, but made the former champion look like an earnest but awkward amateur.

Dempsey seemed unable to put his gloves on the Seattleite. Frazier repeatedly stepped inside Dempsey's punches and disrespectfully pummeled the Mauler about the body, leaving the ring at the bell, unruffled and unscathed.

$15,000 OFFER

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—(INS.)—Tom Gallery, Los Angeles fight promoter, today announced that he had telegraphed Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, now in the Pacific Northwest, essaying a comeback, an offer of $15,000 for an eight-round bout against four opponents at Wrigley Field here, either October 5 or 12.

Two Leagues Draw Many Soccer Teams

Indications are that the Panhandle and Keystone soccer leagues will have no trouble organizing their rosters this season, judging from the number of teams that applied for franchises at a meeting held in Bridgeville last night.

Sixteen clubs applied for berths in the Keystone League, while 12 are ready to enroll in the Panhandle circuit.

SOCCERITES MEET

The M. and Y. Soccer League will hold a meeting tomorrow night at Bob's Place in Galatin.

LEYDA, BALD ANNEX CENTER NET TITLES

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Bud Leyda, Bellevue ace, and Ralph Bald, Steel City dark horse, monopolized honors of the Western Pennsylvania Junior and Boys' championship net revival terminated yesterday after three days of action on the clay courts of Carnegie Tech.

Leyda, flashing bits of the prettiest tennis of his career, trimmed Henry Ackerman, Rockwood star and holder of the Harvard Inter-Scholastic Cup, 6-1, 6-4, 6-2, in the junior finale, while Bald overwhelmed Harold Mathieson, Koppel contender and Pittsburgh Center Boys' premier of 1930 and 1931, 6-0, 6-2, in the 15-year-old titular tussle.

LEYDA VICTOR

Both trophy verdicts were in the nature of striking upsets, Ackerman having survived Leyda in the 1930 milling for the Harvard flagon and Mathieson having nosed out Bald after stiff struggle in the first round of the Center event here last month. Yesterday, however, there was no question as to the superiority of the victors. Leyda hit hard and accurately to disorganize the unorthodox game of the Mt. Lebanon lad.

Ackerman's chop proved of little avail before the torrid stroking of the North Boroughs youth, who, except for brief period in the second heat, held absolute sway over the situation.

MATHIESON WEAKENS

Bald, who had employed a slice throughout most of his previous contest with Mathieson, yesterday switched to driving style. He found a vulnerable spot in the Center champion's backhand and pounded it continually as preliminary step to advancing to the net for markers that wrecked the Koppel lad's morale and spelled downfall of an odds-on favorite.

Leyda, prior to spilling Ackerman, had outhit Paul Elliott, Wilkinsburg youngster and former Center Boys' crown-wearer, 6-2, 3-6, 8-6, in the semi-finals. Ackerman, having disposed of Nick Mackov, Munhall High School satellite, 6-3, 6-0, in the same frame. The summary:

JUNIOR SINGLES

Semi-final round: Henry Ackerman defeated Nicholas Mackov, 6-3, 6-0; Crosby Leyda defeated Paul Elliott, 6-2, 3-6, 8-6.

BOYS' SINGLES

lad, by the way, has almost recovered, but he is likely to remain out of action for the present.

The Buccos are slated for four games in three days in St. Louis. Single contests are on the docket for tomorrow and Saturday, a double bill to climax the series on Sunday.

A two-run rally in the ninth inning at Wilkes-Barre yesterday enabled the Buccos to down the Barons, 7 to 5. Adam Comorosky, Pirate outfielder, was honored by his home town fans. He failed to get a hit, but turned in a sparkling catch.

Suhr's triple, and doubles by Wood and Piet provided the winning margin. The score:

Firpo Is Eager For Return Go With Dempsey

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Jack Dempsey's resumption of pugilistic activity has aroused the fighting fever anew in Luis Angel Firpo, who figured in the sensational heavyweight championship with Dempsey in 1923 in New York.

Firpo, now weighing 260, reports he has done some road-work and adds:

"I will be in condition if Dempsey wants a return match."

The Argentine giant is uninterested in meeting any other opponents. He estimates he could reach fighting trim in six months.

EARLY LOSSES CANCELLED IN TRADING

Merchandising Shares Are Helped by Dividend Basis; Bonds Show More Strength

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP.) Bears again seemed to have squeezed the last drop of selling out of the stock market today, but with seasonal recovery in business still obscure, bulls showed little eagerness to try for a turn. Merchandising issues and a few industrials however, were pushed up moderately after mid-day.

The most encouraging aspect of the financial markets was a lightening of pressure against bonds although in this market as in stocks, enough elements of uncertainty remained to hold constructive efforts in check.

The share market was somewhat heavy during the earlier hours of trading with rails again under some pressure but several prominent issues stiffened by midday, and losses were reduced or canceled. Morning losses of a point or two in American Can, American Telephone, Case and Allied Chemical were soon cancelled. United States Steel sagged only a fraction, then recovered. Kreuger & Toll again registered a new low.

Merchandising shares were helped by announcement of a dividend basis for Federal Department Stores, which gained about a point, as did Woolworth Best and Macy. Du Pont, National Cash Register and Radio preferred B also pushed up moderately.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 27.—The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company is converting a number of sheet mills at its Campbell works into continuous units, to speed up production in accordance with modern practice. The company operated its sheet mills at Campbell with regularity until this week.

While the changes are being made at Campbell, the company is operating its Brier Hill sheet mills in part.

Spang, Chalfant Earnings Slump

Spang, Chalfant & Co., Inc., and subsidiaries report for the six months ended June 30, 1931, net profit of $1,268 after depreciation, interest and all other charges. This compares with net profit of $1,881,980, or $1.97 a share on the common stock in the corresponding period of 1930.

Depreciation charges of $509,484 for the half year were in excess of those of last year.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—National City Bank announces that effective September 1, interest at the rate of 2 per cent per annum compounded monthly, will be paid on deposits in the compound interest department. The bank has been paying 3 per cent.

Illinois Utility Makes Rate Cut

Magnolia Raises Gasoline in Texas

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 27.—Magnolia Petroleum Company has advanced gasoline prices in Texas one cent a gallon to 15 cents at service stations.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (AP.)—Raw sugar was quiet early today. No sales were reported with holders generally asking 3.12c for spots duty paid.

Futures opened unchanged to 2 points higher and later showed net gains of 3 to 4 points on increased covering and some buying of distant positions by houses with Cuban connections. There were only 75 September contracts open, amounting to 1,250 tons, but they were promptly stopped.

Refined was unchanged to 4.80c for fine granulated. The demand was light and limited to nearby requirements only.

Readers Tell How to Solve U. S. Troubles

By B. C. FORBES

B. C. Forbes

READERS HAVE been inundating this column with letters. I fee like apologizing to them for not having published any of the communications.

Let's allow readers of this page their say today. Obviously not one letter in a hundred can be published here, because the total would fill this newspaper.

Naturally an overwhelming number of the writers express bitter dissatisfaction with conditions. An ominously large number blame financial and corporation leaders for their woes and for the country's woes. Radicalism manifestly is rampant. Not a few communications reveal Bolshevistic spirit. Some are utterly unfit to print because of their bitter bitterness and their grotesque charges. Extracts:

"I really believe today that this country is run by the biggest lot of yellow financial gangsters that were ever gathered together. I believe that this racket goes to the leaders of our government as well because for one year and a half we have not heard one constructive thing that would help us to get on our feet. Is it a deliberate attempt to ruin everyone and make us all glad to be alive and eat out of the big boys' hands?" I don't believe that the American public will stand for this."

"CITIZEN" writes:

"Couldn't a law be passed compelling all manufacturing industries to run only eight hours a day, five days a week — no Saturday or Sunday work to be permitted except stores and the like; no overtime to be permitted? After six months, if the law works favorably, enforce it six months more until the depression is over."

Franz Hoeg, Upstate New York, suggests:

"Discharge every married woman whose husband is regularly employed and give the job to someone who needs it.

THIS ONE has a touch of humor:

"Noting your remarks re improved conditions in the shoe industry, the consensus of opinion of my unemployed friends and myself is that this is due to the fact that countless millions are wearing out shoe leather 'pounding the pavements' looking for work. The next question before the house is: 'What will happen to the shoe industry when we have to go barefoot?'"

Lars Ericson writes, in part:

"The principle of competition in social economy is contrary to nature's constructive principle in social life. It is of such a nature that when fully developed, it is bound to kill itself. The killing had begun. Big business has seen it for years and combined. But they combined to protect themselves against killing competition. The whole universe is built on the principle of co-operation.

"If our lawmakers cannot see the handwriting on the wall, destructive revolutions are bound to come. The powers-that-be are not in the suffering class, and is it not true that great power and wealth blind human vision?"

FROM ROBERT DOLLAR, veteran steamship owner, comes a communication in a different vein. He writes:

"I was much interested in reading your column about soliciting business. More effort should be applied along those lines. During my trip out to the Far East last fall I called on 735 different merchants, shippers and so on, in an effort to develop our foreign trade.

"While in Manila I made a determined effort to land some big business. As my time was too short, I asked our manager to take off his coat and go after this business. He replied, 'You have failed to land it.' I told him that if I could only remain another week or two I would be able to go into details and emerge victorious. A short time after I got a wireless message saying he had managed to land this business:

"Another illustration: We wanted to get business from a certain factory in the Philippines. By conscientious solicitation we landed that also. All that has come about through persistent hard work and application.

"I mention the above only to back up what you say regarding energetic men going out with determination to win."

THERE IS ROOM today only to add that demands for a shorter work week or a shorter work day are becoming more insistent. Also that opposition to the idea of wage readjustment is not universal.

Louisiana Crude Price Is Advanced

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 27.—Lockport, Lake Charles, La., crude oil has been advanced 15 cents a barrel by Vacuum Oil Company. New prices are: Below 25 gravity 65 cents, with an upward differential of one cent for each degree of gravity up to and including 35 gravity and above, making top price 66 cents a barrel.

Radio Looking to Big Television Market.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The radio industry is rapidly working toward a big television market and it is estimated that between 25,000 and 30,000 television sets are in use today in the United States. While several companies are selling television equipment, the largest companies like the Radio Corporation are secretly completing their experiments with an idea toward putting out the best set possible at the time of quantity sales.

It is likely that 1932 will see several leading radio companies as well as the Radio Corporation in television production. Those television manufacturing companies which are already in the field are being ably supported by broadcasting companies and television programs are on the air daily.

WHEAT PRICES AGAIN SAG

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Easiness of wheat prices at Liverpool led to scattered selling on the Board of Trade today and prices sagged. Liverpool was easier because of pressure of Russian exports with better weather reported from Russian harvest districts.

Corn eased because of selling by Chicago professionals. Wheat started ⅛-¼ cent lower and later showed little change. Corn opened ¼-⅜ off and then steadied.

Corn traders paid little heed to bullish news from Iowa and other Northwestern states where the drought has damaged the crop. Corn swung downward because of scattered selling. Oats were steady. Provisions firmed with hogs.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Cotton opened steady today, 3 to 5 points higher on overnight buying orders evidently brought in by the firmer action of the market here late yesterday.

Liverpool, however, failed to fully meet the New York closing prices of the previous day, and offerings here increased after the initial demand had been supplied, with prices selling off from 7.40c to 7.22c for December and from 7.70c to 7.53c for March or 16 to 15 points net lower. A little southern selling was reported, but it was not much in evidence and the declines seemed to reflect realizing or reselling by some of yesterday's buyers, while there was also some selling here for New Orleans and Liverpool account.

Progress Held Up on Rail Consolidation Plan

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

RAILROAD OFFICIALS DENY that their plans for a four-system consolidation program in the eastern trunk line territory have been abandoned, but there seems to be little doubt that the merger scheme is making slow progress.

Several months ago the carriers announced that they had reached an agreement except for minor details after pressure had been brought to bear by the administration to force the carriers to settle their differences.

But as far as can be learned, the "minor details" are still holding up the plan. The leading systems disagree so violently on some of these points that there have been rumors that separate consolidation proposals may be filed instead of a single plan harmonizing the views of all the lines.

Pennsylvania's Attitude

THE ATTITUDES OF THE Pennsylvania and the New York Central have come into the sharpest conflict and offer the most difficult problems. The Pennsylvania is today the strongest system in eastern territory. The other carriers will be greatly strengthened by the acquisition of new lines of strategic importance if the merger is ever completed. Pennsylvania, on the other hand, has a fairly complete system and has little to gain from the merger program. There is some chance of it losing in power through objections on the part of the Interstate Commerce Commission to some of its holdings of stock in other important lines.

In dickering with the carriers, the Pennsylvania is trying to secure concessions which will make the consolidation plan of some advantage to it. It is understood that the Pennsylvania wants trackage rights over the Nickel Plate along the south shore of Lake Erie between Brockton, N. Y., and Ashtabula, O. These tracks parallel the New York Central.

Would Join Lines

AT PRESENT THE Pennsylvania has several lines running up to Lake Erie but has no line along the lake at this point. The trackage rights would tie the various lines of the Pennsylvania together in the lake district and would give it a system of equal strength to the New York Central in that section.

The New York Central naturally objects to this and declares that the Pennsylvania is not entitled to strengthen its lines to equality at every point. The Central points to districts, such as Pittsburgh, where the Pennsylvania is dominant.

Mergers Far Away

IN SPITE OF THE frequent discussion of rail merger possibilities, actual consolidations are still far away. The railroads in the eastern territory must first come to an agreement. Then they must convince the Interstate Commerce Commission that a four-system plan is better than the commission's own five-system plan. Only after all this has been done, can the lines actually undertake consolidations.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Fanchon Learns About Evelyn From Collin Carstairs

CHAPTER XIII.

The color drained from Fanchon's face. It isn't possible! she told herself wildly. For the last week or so, with returning strength there had come to her a feeling of peace and of safety. And day by day she had grown fonder of, and more grateful to, Jennie Carstairs. She realized now with a wrenching pang that the great price of discovery and the relinquishing of her masquerade would not be the danger threatening her from exposure, the danger from Tony himself, but the disillusionment and righteous anger which she must face from Jennie Carstairs.

This was Collin then.

She stared at him. He pulled up a low rustic bench, sat down, pulled a flat gold cigaret case from his pocket, opened it and meticulously offered it to Fanchon. Mechanically she shook her head, fighting for composure for words. And waiting for him to go on, to tell her now he knew what he knew.

"Now," said Collin Carstairs, lighting a cigaret and expelling the first blue smoke, "now we may as well have it out. I know, of course, that coming to New York under my mother's protection was infinitely better than indefinite school teaching. I don't blame you for jumping at the opportunity. I merely wanted to explain to you if my mother has not—and I don't suppose she has, why I am unalterably opposed to this arrangement . . . Collin Evelyn," he added satirically.

COLLIN SMILES

Fanchon's breath came easier. So his quarrel was not with her, not with Fanchon Meredith, not with "Tony's broad," not with her masquerading and her deception, but with Evelyn! Well, as Evelyn she could deal with him. In her relief excitement and a sort of fighting spirit flooded her very veins. She sat up erect in the swing and regarded him. The wind ruffled her blue-black curls, the warm golden skin was flushed with rose, and the strange turquoise eyes were dark with anger and emotion.

"I marvel," Collin remarked, regarding her with frank if unwilling admiration, "that you were permitted to teach school so long! Four years was it not? And I know that Hawaiian moons are very lovely and young men very susceptible. I've been in Hawaii," he said.

It was her first word to him. He flicked the ashes from his cigaret and smiled. Her voice was as lovely as she he admitted ungrudgingly. And there was a flash of steel through all the loveliness and softness of voice and person. Here was he admitted to himself further, no simpering, silly, gushing little creature as he had allowed himself to imagine she would be from her letters to his mother and his general impression of her, but a very beautiful and probably intelligent girl. An enemy worthy of his mettle.

"I'm not complimentary," he replied and smiled. "I'm merely truthful. You are far better to look upon than I dreamed. Very easy on the eyes. But that doesn't alter the case."

DESPISES MAN

"I take it," Fanchon said demurely, "that you are not beside yourself with rapture at my appearance here. Why? What have I done to you? Are you afraid," she mocked him, knowing better, "that I will rob you of any of your rightful inheritance?"

His face darkened. He was really, she thought, an astonishingly handsome man. She hated him and despised him, but his good looks could not be denied. They looked at one another with hostility, she with hot resentment, he with cool rancour. The very air of the rose garden, fragrant, soft, sea-wooed, sun steeped, seemed suddenly electric with this curious and out of proportion antagonism between two young people.

"Hardly," replied Collin Carstairs, with forced indifference, "I happen to have far more money than I need. It is not my business nor concern what my mother chooses to do with her own. I would have been perfectly willing if she had accepted half a dozen girls . . . strangers—waifs, if need be, out of the gutter. I would have been more than willing. I would have helped. But—you!" he said scornfully.

"What about me?" demanded Fanchon angrily, "what exactly is the matter with me . . .?"

"Far be it from me to elucidate," answered Collin, casually, "I think you know, perfectly well. Yet my hostility dates back further than your—escapades."

BITTER AGAINST FAMILY

"In the first place," Collin went on slowly, "your mother's quarrel with her family is none of my concern. But when, whether she had right on her side or not, at the time of the break, when my mother wrote her, making most generous and, I would say, abject offers of peace, your father took it upon himself to write my mother in terms that were little short of insulting. And your mother not only permitted this, but encouraged it.

COLLIN UNDERSTANDS

"Why, knowing what heartbreak this action afforded my mother, should I welcome you into the family simply because you found it expedient to change your mind? When, at your father's death my mother wrote you, and you alone, the letter you wrote to her in return was far from friendly. I can, as I have said, understand that you changed your mind because of the material advantages held out to you by my mother. I can understand that perhaps you were anxious to leave San Francisco before the heads of the school in which you taught learned of certain of your Hawaiian adventures.

"It was clear to me why you gave my mother's name as reference to the San Franciscan school and why your professional references did not date from the Hawaiian period. Naturally, a school which had dispensed with your services because of your conduct was not going to supply you with references! I suppose you told the people in San Francisco that your stay in the islands had been in the nature of a visit. If you told them anything."

DAILY SHORT STORY

Thad's Thesis

Student Falls in Love While Seeking Data for Essay

"If I gave Thaddeus Arnold 'Equilibrium' as the subject of a thesis I really believe he would stretch a tight rope from the chapel tower to the library dome across the campus and learn to walk it like a professional before he started to write."

Prof. Martin smiled as he spoke.

"He is thorough—decidedly thorough." Prof. Grey agreed. Prof. Grey occupied the chair of applied sciences at Interstate, a noted co-educational institution.

"If I explain," he continued, "that two elements, when mixed, will ignite or explode, he always has to try it out for himself although the information I gave out was merely in the form of a warning. Thaddeus has narrowly escaped some serious consequences as a result."

"I would like to give him some subject," Miss Potter said, "of such nature that he would have to be satisfied with what he could glean from books—some subject that he could not experiment with."

Several members of the Interstate faculty were having Sunday dinner with Prof. and Mrs. Martin. They talked "shop." It was difficult for them not to do so, since their lives were centered in their educational work.

When Prof. Martin mentioned Thaddeus Arnold they smiled, for while Thaddeus was one of the highest ranking students in the place, his methods were so painstaking and his attitude so much that of a great savant uttering pearls of wisdom that he often got on the nerves of such of the faculty as he came in student contact with.

"Undoubtedly," Prof. Martin said, "Thaddeus Arnold will take up teaching."

TO BE CLOSE RACE

"Heaven help his classes," Miss Potter murmured. She taught three languages. "There are times when I feel that he is going to correct me right in class."

"It is going to be a close race between Arnold and Alicia Babbitt for top honors," Prof. Grey observed.

"Yet they work together beautifully—they are continually helping each other, although they know well enough that they are rivals for the Ward scholarship."

"Wouldn't it be amusing if a romance grew there," observed Miss Potter, who, being 40 and single, had a weakness for romances.

"Better known as Interstate and its environs as 'Goldie,'" Mrs. Martin said.

Miss Potter nodded.

"Yes. No one ever calls her Miss Lawton or even Gwen—it is always 'Goldie.' And I can do nothing with her. Her marks are all below the safety line. All she can do in French, and this is her third year, is to conjugate the verb 'To love' and to recite some hideously questionable verses."

DECIDEDLY FRANK

"We must be patient," Prof. Martin said, "and we must not lose sight of the fact that her father is going to build the new stadium for us."

"Evidently Goldie will manage to emerge with a diploma," Miss Potter said, a trifle sourly.

Goldie Lawton, pretty as a blonde doll; gay, mischievous and scornful of attaining even passable marks in her so-called studies, was, it could be seen, to be graduated.

"I can imagine," Prof. Grey said, "what our diligent Thaddeus Arnold will think when Goldie receives her sheepskin," Miss Potter observed.

"I don't care what he thinks, but I do dread what he is more than likely to say. Thaddeus is decidedly frank. He may denounce the whole of us when he learns about it, for he knows well enough that Goldie could scarcely pass an eighth grade examination this very minute. If there is one student here whom Thaddeus holds to be utterly hopeless and worthless and a sort of mental blot on our college, it is our gay little Goldie. However," and Prof. Martin became serious, "Goldie will be graduated in June. I trust I am understood. I was about to bring up this matter when her name was mentioned. Her father did not even hint that he hoped she would be graduated—"

"I consider the giving of a half million dollar stadium to our college to be about the loudest hint I ever heard," Miss Potter said.

And then they discussed other matters, but during this portion of their conversation anyone would have easily received an excellent mental picture of Thaddeus Arnold, Alicia Babbitt and little Goldie Lawton.

It was two weeks later that Prof. Martin had to be away on an important errand for the college. Miss Potter substituted as usual, in English for him, and there came to Miss Potter's mind at this time an idea that caused her to smile all through the day. She confided her idea to Miss Hatton, who taught the domestic economy course.

"This is the week for a thesis," she said and almost giggled, "and I intend to give to Thaddeus Arnold the subject of 'love.'"

"Good heavens!" exclaimed Miss Hatton.

"Can't you see him going to Alicia Babbitt and asking her to help him on that subject?"

Miss Hatton laughed without restraint for several minutes. "Poor Alicia," she managed to say. "She doesn't know any more about love than Thaddeus—"

"I am well aware of it. This time Thaddeus Arnold will have to write a thesis on some subject that he cannot first experiment in."

Thaddeus Arnold's eyes gleamed with the lust for knowledge and experiment and research when Miss Potter handed him the slip informing him that his thesis was to be on the subject of love.

Finally he went to Alicia Babbitt about it.

"That was such a silly subject, Thaddeus," she said, "and an easy one. Love is a degree of affection. It often leads to matrimony — poets and other writers agree to that."

THADDEUS PUZZLED

The time was short — three more days. Thaddeus was becoming desperate. He haunted the college gardens. He sat by the pool and the statue of Eros, in the shade of the botanical building, and tried to think.

Something disturbed him. He came back to earth finally and realized that it was music of a sort. Someone was strumming some stringed instrument and humming—he could just get the words—silly rot! Something about letting the world go on its way, but only give me love. He went around back of the yucca palms and confronted the cause—little Goldie Lawton.

"What—"

"Awful pain in the neck. What are you studying now, Big Boy?"

"Love."

"Gosh!"

"Yes; it is tough, isn't it?"

Thaddeus regarded her solemnly. Her eyes were certainly as blue as the larkspur beside the pool, and her hair prettier than the glow of the California poppies. She was a handsome child, he had to admit.

"I wish you would help me. I have to write a thesis on 'love,' and Alicia Babbitt can't seem to help me at all."

"I'll bet she couldn't. Are you serious, Big Boy?"

"Certainly."

"Want me to help you?"

"I would appreciate it fully." He sat down beside her. "Proceed, please," he said.

Goldie eyed him. He was certainly a tall and handsome young man, and she had thought so from the first time she saw him, nearly four years before, only he had been such a stiff-necked wet smack, to use Goldie's own words, that she had never wasted a moment on him.

"Not now, Thad; I'm practicing for our club's final party. But if you will be here at 10 o'clock tonight, right here, I'll teach you what love is, and you can be sure you'll have plenty to put in your thesis."

"I retire at 10, Goldie—"

Thaddeus promised. He kept his promise. At 10:10 he was sitting beside her gazing at the moon's reflection in the pool. At 10:30 he had Goldie in his lap, her arms about his neck and between kisses he was telling her that she was the cutest, sweetest, dearest girl in the world.

"Oh, Thad, I'm in earnest now—I'm not teaching you about love, you've taught me—isn't it wonderful!"

* * *

Miss Potter rapped at Thad's study door and was bidden to enter. He arose hastily.

"Are you ill, Mr. Arnold?" she asked.

"Why, no, Miss Potter—I—er—"

GETS HIGH MARK

"I was trying to write it. I—er—uh—I—"

Love Goldie I love Goldie loves me we love—love—Goldie—love—we love—Goldie loves—I love Goldie.

"Goldie—Goldie Lawton?" Miss Potter asked.

"I—well, yes, we're engaged, we're to be married right after graduation, Miss Potter. I'm sorry I flunked on the thesis—but—"

"Flunked? Why Mr. Arnold, I shall mark this paper 'A,'" said Miss Potter, and she did.

A LETTER FOR YOU, MR CINDERS--FROM YOUR DAUGHTER, ELLA, I BELIEVE!

Los Angeles California August 19
Dearest Buddy:
Things have been happening around this place since you left. A man named Smythe-Van-Smythe has been calling on Priscilla, and she has fallen for him like a fool. Falls for a banana sale. Lotta is jealous, and has come to me to help her steal the boy friend away from Priscilla. In order to do this, I told her she must try to make herself attractive, which she could do in a little extra—as-extra-dress wrestling with a few household duties. She believed me, and now I don't do a thing but take up space.
Of course, Mr Cinders isn't wise to my scheme of course. I'd make me go my own merry way. I just sit around and eat candy. Incidentally, Lotta lost SEVEN POUNDS IN A WEEK.
Smythe-Van-Smythe is a strange fellow. What can he see in Priscilla? Last week someone broke into his room and ransacked it, and just last night he was fired upon from ambush. Priscilla is trying to make him believe it was one of her jealous lovers.
Smythe-Van-Smythe seems worried, which hasn't reported the incident to the police. He is a very peculiar chap. Hoping you are the same,
Your loving daughter Ella

The Frightful Cost

From two of the most recent reports of the Wickersham Commission the following information was gleaned.

Crime is BETTER ORGANIZED and BETTER FINANCED today than at any time in the pre-Volstead era.

Crime costs the country today the staggering sum of ONE THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS ANNUALLY, or more than THREE MILLION DOLLARS DAILY.

The foolish attempt to enforce UN-ENFORCEABLE Prohibition costs the Federal Treasury aproximately THIRTY-FIVE MILLION DOLLARS YEARLY, or more than two-thirds of the sum expended by the nation for "criminal justice."

After tabulating this tremendous toll of criminality and admitting that Prohibition was a HEAVY CONTRIBUTOR, the Commission, rather naively, reports that all 11 members were agreed that—

Prohibition, "heavy contributor" to this tremendous crime toll, HAS fostered crime of every kind and nature; in it most of our present day evils have their root; under it every form of corruption and debauchery has flourished; crime syndicates, specializing in organized bootlegging, rum running, dope peddling, hi jacking, and every variety of racketeering have grown rich and powerful on the profits made possible by evasion and violation of the abominable dry laws.

These crime syndicates have stopped short of nothing to insure the steady flow of gold to their coffers . . . NOT EVEN THE MURDER OF BABES AND THE MAIMING OF INNOCENT BYSTANDERS.

Judges have been bought,
Police have been bribed,
Courts have been debauched,
Enforcement agencies have been corrupted,
Witnesses have been spirited away or their lips silenced through fear of reprisals.
Honest officials have been intimidated,
Whole communities have been cowed under the brazen reign of the racketeers.

And for this costly (THIRTY-FIVE MILLION DOLLARS A YEAR) noble experiment that was to curb crime, close our jails for lack of "customers," bring about prosperity and the millenium, what has Mr. American taxpayer obtained?

A steadily growing national intemperance, a 30-year setback for the cause of REAL TEMPERANCE, steadily increasing the use of hard liquors, poisonous bootleg and other deleterious potables, steadily decreasing use of wholesome light wines and beers, more drinking of liquor by the youth of the land than ever before, official hypocrisy, official corruption, congested jails, a well-organized, well-financed, protected criminal class and a steadily growing contempt for all laws.

IT IS ABOUT TIME TO CALL A HALT.

A Successful Campaign

The announcement that the workers for the Home for the Aged of the Little Sisters of the Poor have more than attained their goal is good news.

They sought $300,000 to rebuild the institution recently destroyed by fire, and at this writing $322,000 has been collected, and many workers for the cause have not yet turned in their reports.

The Sun-Telegraph congratulates the Little Sisters, the donors to this splendid philanthropy and the people of Pittsburgh on the fine showing.

It proves that, notwithstanding industrial depression, there is plenty of money available for the relief of distress and that people will give generously if they can be impressed with the need.

The success of this drive for a single institution augurs well for the great Welfare Fund campaign soon to be inaugurated.

Nip It in the Bud!

A Determined Effort Should Be Made to Destroy the "Labor Racket" Suspected in Vandalism.

A series of outrages have come to light in Allegheny County which look very much like the operations of labor racketeers.

Contractors report that the electrical wiring has been torn out by vandals in 61 unfinished houses. A significant feature of the business is that all these houses are being built by contractors who sometimes employ nonunion workmen.

Pittsburgh has as yet not suffered from the terrorism of labor racketeers to the extent that New York and Chicago have been afflicted.

If we are to escape the experience of those cities the labor racket must be nipped in the bud. The vandals should be searched for as determinedly as if they had committed a capital crime. To let them "get away" with this offense is dangerous.

An Interesting Relic

Local Club Women Are Entitled to Thanks for Their Plan to Restore Old South Park Home.

Until comparatively recently the people of Pittsburgh were too intent on business affairs to give much thought to the demands of beauty and sentiment.

That is one reason why so little has been done to preserve buildings of historic interest.

It is gratifying to note a pronounced change in the attitude towards these matters. An illustration of the change may be found in the decision of Pittsburgh club women to restore and refurnish the old Miller farmhouse in the South Park, built in 1808.

The ancient building has historic interest, and can be made not only to entertain sight-seers but to serve an educational purpose.

Do not get excited over Prospy's prospects.

In the end all will be well.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

"The White Man's Burden"

Men like their drinks and their women cold! Oh, yes they DO!

* * *

The White Man's Burden is woman's starving soul! Woman's insatiable demand for sentimental exhibitions! Woman's hungry heart! Woman's unquench vanity!

* * *

Woman's everlasting, eternal, devouring, suffocating sentimentalism!

* * *

That is why a man, four times out of five, falls in love with a woman who doesn't take him seriously.

* * *

As long as a woman loves a man, even a little bit, she slops over with sentiment, like a soda fountain with sweet things.

As long as a woman loves a man, she demands, imagines, gushes, suspects, accuses, hopes, fears, pouts, poses—and SUFFERS!

* * *

* * *

He simply CANNOT see why she expects him to write her six-page letters, when he can compress his whole passion into a ten-word telegram, or say it with postcards.

* * *

He can't understand why she expects him to remember anniversaries and other things—like the color of her eyes, or the first time he kissed her.

* * *

Nor why she expects him to send her flowers—when orchids cost as much as radium, and the price of a dozen roses would pay for a ton of coal.

* * *

* * *

Nor why she requires him to think up pretty things to say, and new ways of telling her that he loves her, when he's proved it by asking her to marry him—and "why say anything more about it?"

But the woman who doesn't take him seriously is an angel of consideration and a paragon of common sense.

* * *

She accepts his apology with perfect good nature, and doesn't even notice that he hasn't been around for a week. She is always cheery and pleased to see him, and doesn't remember that he forgot to telephone her.

* * *

She never flatters him by being jealous of him—and never bores him by being "hurt." She always "understands" when he explains that he has to break a date with her—and never wonders "where he was last night."

* * *

She is SO comforting!

* * *

And so, in the end, he marries "the woman who doesn't care"—and wonders why marriage is so dull and prosaic and deadly monotonous.

* * *

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The elder J. P. Morgan was once credited as saying any man who could offer fairly convincing proof that he was worth a million dollars to a reputable firm would have no trouble collecting. From reliable sources I learn of an incident illustrating the point.

The story concerns an advertising agency that made an extremely tempting offer to the alert advertising manager of a big New York department store. He was out of college only a few years but had shown surprising results. The store's president, hearing of the offer, sent for the young man.

He inquired: "What is your financial goal?" The reply was: "One million dollars." Scarcely batting an eye, the president said: "We will give it to you." In view of the unusual circumstances the advertising agency, although the contract was signed, released him.

Older and wiser heads in big business are declaring that at the moment, more than in any other period of industrial history, young men face golden opportunities. Charles M. Schwab jumped from $50,000 to $250,000 salary in one year. It was indeed a conspicuous achievement.

Yet even in the depression there were rousing reports of the doer. A chain store organization was slumping frightfully in receipts. An obscure employe in the counting department wrote a letter to the chairman of the board which interested him and fellow directors.

The young man asked no salary to put through his idea. He sought instead one-half of 1 per cent of the net profits the first year and after that a salary of $100,000 annually. He made $67,000 the first year and was voluntarily given $100,000.

Those who know say business in stagnation is turning eagerly to fresh, young blood. Where gray heads sat at executive desks two years ago, there are today alert youths with hair en brosse. A great banker recently said: "When we ride out of this present chaos, youth will be in the saddle."

* * *

The movies have been far "out in front" in shouldering youth with responsibility. Two of the biggest executives, Ben P. Schulberg and Irving Thalberg, are former New York office boys and still in early thirties.

* * *

I worked on a middle west newspaper where the managing editor at 29 was the oldest executive. Reporters wore college caps and peg top trousers and the sporting editor had to place a box on his chair to reach the typewriter. The copy boy was Paul Dunbar, who later gained fame as a Negro poet. It would be pleasant to report amazing success but the truth is our journalistic efforts were pretty much a mess. The climax came when the opposition paper scooped us on the mysterious murder of the janitor in our own building.

Incidentally, a spin of life's wheel pocketed one of that old staff in the entrance of a Coney Island concession where with a megaphone and a pair of leather lungs he barked to passersby of wonders within. Spotting me among the throngs along Surf avenue one afternoon he boomed: "How's this for local boy making good in the big city?"

* * *

Driving through the Bowery these late evenings offers a depressing spectacle. Waiting for the rescue missions to open for the cup of coffee and back room flop, the derelicts huddle together like sheep in a storm. What heightens the melancholy is the utter silence. One may watch them for a half hour—as I did—and not a lip moved. They seem completely stunned.

* * *

The Bowery sidewalk seems the last stand of the organ grinder and "da monk." The grinder I saw had reached a seediness seldom achieved and his wheezy organ struck only an occasional, meaningless note. Even the moth-eaten monkey turned lazy somersaults with despairing hopelessness.

* * *

George Jessel, Lou Holz and Frisco smoke especially made Graf-Zeppelin sized cigars — at least I have always believed they were cigars until I sat to the windward of one of the trio in a cafe last evening. Even today, walking along, I find myself standing suddenly still and swaying.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Here's one that should be good for an office fight on even the dullest day.

My friend, Evelyn Adair, is a successful real estate woman. Thirty-eight years old, single, tall, slender, handsome in a lark, vivid way. A fine person, Evelyn—friendly, generous, good natured. Men like her. She likes men. Could have married a dozen times if she had wished. But—there's a queer, secret, prejudice that holds her back.

Evelyn was born in Maryland. Long enough ago so that the tradition of southern chivalry was still in full swing. In spite of her business career, she's still a romantic at heart . . . still yearning for that sort of deference from men which her grandmother received. She'd deny it, of course. She might even grow a bit indignant and protest that she only wants "common politeness." But judge for yourself—

Evelyn has no use for a man who doesn't take off his hat in an elevator when there is a woman passenger. Or for a man who doesn't ask her permission to smoke (even though Evelyn herself smokes!) Or for a man who doesn't rise and open the door when she is leaving a room. Or for a man who would borrow money from a woman or allow her to go "dutch treat" on a luncheon check.

Of course she meets such men daily—scores of them. Does business with them constantly and is generally considered "a good fellow." Even when men outsmart her in a deal . . . or openly clash with her and criticize her . . . she keeps her temper, is cool and courteous. But, secretly, she is contemptuous and resentful. She doesn't believe that a woman "should be treated like that."

Strange? Yet if you could search the hearts of other successful business women you would find that most of them agree with her. Smart women—capable as any man. Yet nine times out of ten there's that "feminine streak" in them. They all believe that "a woman is entitled to certain consideration."

IS SHE? IF A WOMAN HAS EQUALITY SHOULD SHE EXPECT CHIVALRY?

Why is chivalry? Was it started because women were really "better than men," purer, gentler, or finer clay? Was that why men decided to raise their hats to woman, rise when she entered a room, protect her from unpleasant conflict and criticism?

If so, what becomes of all these pretty theories when woman leaps down from her pedestal and barges in on the masculine game? Should she still be treated as a Plaster Saint if she's acting like a Regular Egg?

Personally, I've always had a hunch that chivalry was just a lot of polite palaver, and pedestals merely parking stations whereby meddlesome femmes could be kept out of the way while the boys get by with murder. And, as a modern business woman, I'd rather have one ounce of decent, human give-and-take than a ton of chivalry. But well I know my sex will not agree with me. So YOU tell 'em—

KARL STEINMETZ

By Archibald Henderson

During his lifetime Steinmetz was generally regarded as the greatest living wizard in all matters electrical. His achievements were of that amazing character which seem to have about them some quality of magic, some faculty transcending human powers. When finally Steinmetz invented an apparatus by which lightning was artificially created, the amazement of the public knew no bounds. All doubts were removed at last: Steinmetz surely was a wizard!

Karl August Rudolph Steinmetz was born on April 9, 1865, in Breslau, in Silesia. At the age of 17 he entered the University of Breslau and immediately attracted attention by his assiduous attendance upon lectures in mathematics and astronomy. He studied a great variety of different subjects and was so versatile in his tastes that when he joined the undergraduate mathematical society his fellow students dubbed him "Proteus."

By his activity in Socialist movements, he attracted the attention of the police; and had to leave hurriedly just before he was to receive his university degree. After a short time spent in Vienna, he went to Zurich, Switzerland, where he studied mechanical engineering for a year in the university there. At the suggestion of one of his fellow students, an American, he came to the United States, landing in New York in June, 1889. He narrowly escaped deportation because of his physical disability (curvature of the spine) and his poverty.

In a short time he secured a position as draftsman at a salary of $12 a week in the firm of Rudolf Eickemeyer, in Yonkers. By his ability, his skill, and his ingenuity, he soon made himself indispensable to his employer. When, in 1892, Eickemeyer sold his business to the General Electric Company, Steinmetz, by special agreement went with it as a part of its "good will" to the works of that organization at Lynn.

During his brief stay of only three years with Eickemeyer, he worked out with his chief the true solution of hysteresis losses in alternating current apparatus. His paper, of 200 pages, delivered before the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, on September 27, 1892, made him famous.

In 1894 he was transferred from Lynn to Schenectady, where in time he became the company's chief consulting engineer. This position was won by sheer merit—the combination of great inventive ability and mathematical genius. At first, the universal tendency was to use direct current in electrical engineering. After a time, many electric installations made use of alternating currents. Steinmetz, by reason of great mathematical skill, succeeded in simplifying the law for alternating current. This he regarded as his greatest achievement.

Steinmetz was an inventor of great skill, and took out more than 200 patents. In his latter years he made important contributions to hydroelectrical engineering. He died at Schenectady on October 26, 1923.

On Disciplining The Insurgents

By Claude G. Bowers

With reasons for expecting some delay in the organization of the coming Congress, it is increasingly clear that Congress should be called in session at least a month before the regular session opens in December if no time is to be lost in getting action on the moratorium. With the two parties so evenly divided, and with little prospect that the elections to fill vacancies will change the situation materially, there is certain to be a battle on the organization. Senator Moses' recent notice to the insurgent Westerners of his own party that if they carry out their threat to defeat him for re-election as president pro tem, he, and his friends, will retaliate on those he has so picturesquely described as "the sons of wild jackasses" by displacing them from the committee chairmanships they hold. This would not contribute greatly to Republican conciliation, but it would add greatly to the festivity of nations.

* * *

Not Much in the Job Worth Fighting For

Should the insurgents carry out their threat, it would not be the first time the Republicans have split on the election of a president pro tem, though many will not find anything in the job worth fighting over. When the Democrats made enormous gains in the House and Senate in 1910, because of the popular reaction against the Payne-Aldrich bill, they were able to organize the House with a clear majority. In the Senate they were in the minority still, but—there were insurgents. And these insurgents were no more enamored of Senator Gallinger, the Republican choice for president pro tem, than the present insurgents are of the man who called them "the sons of wild jackasses."

The result was that they brought out a candidate of their own. They did not vote for the Democratic choice, as Senator Moses thinks the insurgents of today may do. The result was "no election." Day after day, for many days, a vote was taken and without a choice. Finally the honor was divided, and there were two president pro tem—Bacon, the Democrat, and Gallinger. No Republican at the time was particularly jubilant over that situation.

* * *

Made Little Hay Trying To Punish Insurgents

Nor have the Republicans ever made much hay by attempting to punish the progressive or insurgent element in the matter of committee assignments. For years these were denied places on the important committee that deal with legislation that may touch on privilege. And for years the party bowed politely to the domination of the little oligarchy headed by the late Senator Aldrich.

Finally this oligarchy lost all sense of proportion, and, through its arrogance, invited its own destruction. Senator Dolliver, one of the most brilliant members of the Senate, one of the party's greatest orators, who, though restive under what was going on, remained a regular, was entitled to a place on the Finance Committee. He wanted it. And bluntly he was denied it by Aldrich, and a man of quite ordinary ability, without capacity to serve the party before the people, was given the place. The reason was too apparent—and there was the audacity, the arrogance of power that sometimes defeats itself. Dolliver was known to have an independent mind. It was bad enough because he had a mind. To have an independent mind was intolerable. And besides he had his doubts about framing legislation against the public interest. That made him quite impossible.

He was "framed."

* * *

The Quarrel Between Hale and Beveridge

Just before that episode, Senator Beveridge was entitled, by the usual rules, to a place on the Finance Committee and expected it. It was assumed for a while that he would get it. Then he went before the people on the platform and in magazine articles to urge the creation of a real tariff commission.

He managed to stir up business circles in its favor.

But he did not merely urge a commission, he took great pains to prove the point that log rolling and not scientific methods determined the fixing of tariff rates. That was treason.

When he returned to Washington he was summoned to the home of the late Senator Hale, one of the oligarchy, and rebuked for daring promise, in behalf of the party, a tariff commission. No one could be more lofty and arrogant when he wished, than Hale, an able man of great dignity. A quarrel followed. In the end notice was served on Beveridge that if he held such heretical views he could not have a place on the Finance Committee. Hale was told that the views were held, and would be held, though Beveridge were deprived of places on all committees.

* * *

How Senate Slipped From Aldrich's Grasp

This committee quarrel was all that was needed by men of the great ability and popularity on the platform of Dolliver and Beveridge. They had had notice served that the Senate was the property of the oligarchy and of privilege. Thus they were soon aligned aggressively against the oligarchy; the fight of 1909 came on; and these two men caused Aldrich more mental anguish than he had ever known before. None of his men could overthrow either in rough and tumble debate, nor catch them up on their facts in argument. And so insurgency came to be a most serious thing, and Aldrich only retained the semblance of his power when he decided in 1910 to leave the Senate, which had slipped from under his grasp.

* * *

No One Is Afraid Of Moses or Smoot

Now the reactionary group in the Senate has no one like Aldrich. He was a consummate master in the art of autocracy. No one has his ability for leadership or his outside connections that were most persuasive on the wavering. Able and normally courageous men were a bit afraid of Aldrich. Not one of the insurgents is afraid of Moses or Smoot.

So, perhaps the less said by Moses about wrecking the aspirations and positions of the present day insurgents as to committees, the better.

At any rate the Democrats can sit back and smile. They are not asking the insurgents to vote for their candidate for president pro tem; but Moses may force the apple into their lap. The spirit of insurgency among the Republicans of the agricultural states is much too deep and strong today to be intimidated by the threats of the reactionaries.

The other day a big ranchman from the Far West, and a Republican, told me that Mr. Hoover cannot carry a county in his section. This must be an exaggeration, but it measures the feeling of the insurgents. And Senator Moses' felicity in speech and facility in threats are not making the prospects any more alluring for the President in the western country.

Patriotic organizations in two East Boroughs are sponsoring ordinances which would ban sale and use of fireworks. Wilkinsburg Council has given approval at first and second readings of an anti fireworks ordinance, presented by Councilman Mechling and supported by the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The ordinance, if passed, would provide that merchants may sell their present stock of fireworks to persons living outside the borough and that public displays of fireworks under supervision of the borough or responsible organizations are permissable.

Trafford Boy Scouts are circulating petitions to ask Council to enact an ordinance similar to that being considered in Wilkinsburg. Scoutmasters A. I. Bearer and J. L. Brown are supervising the movement, with the aid of 45 scouts.

KELLY ASSAILS HIGHER POSTAL RATE PLEA

Braddock Congresman Holds Increase 'Undemocratic,' Disastrous to Industry

Congressman Clyde Kelly, Braddock publisher, assails the plea of Postmaster General Brown for higher postal rates to offset the 1931 deficit, in his recently published book, "United States Postal Policy." Mr. Kelly is chairman of the House subcommittee on postage rates.

The Braddock representative, at times referred to as "the father of the airmail service," argues that the increase would be undemocratic and might possibly have "disastrous" results in industry.

DEFENDS DEPARTMENT

He defends the Postoffice Department as being "the most efficient organization in the world" and lays the blame for any deficit on the shoulders of the business depression, which, he writes, "cut the volume of mail to a degree without precedent in postal history." He continues:

"There is not a business in America whose income is not due to a considerable measure to the postal service. Let the boastful ones who contend that their fortunes were made solely by their own efforts consider their position if they should be barred from all use of the mails. The postoffice has been a partner in their business and no injustice is done when a small part of their income taxes are used to extend postal facilities to every American.

PUBLIC INSTITUTION

"No responsible American has agonized over the postal deficit. That has always been a monopoly of postal officials, who get no pleasure in contemplating the service given for the two-cent stamp, the greatest value for the money in the world."

Mr. Kelly considers the Postoffice Department a public service institution and declares htat it must be operated as such at the present rates regardless of any deficit.

RESIDENTS SEEK N. BRADDOCK BRIDGE

Campaign Launched for New Span Across Monongahela As Duquesne Highway Link

Interested residents of the lower Monongahela and Turtle Creek valleys are preparing a campaign to secure the erection of a bridge over the Monongahela River from Bell avenue, North Bradock, connecting at a level with the Duquesne-Kennywood boulevard a quarter of a mile below Kennywood Park.

Propaganda for the project is now being distributed in this district, but as yet the plan has not been presented to the County Commissioners.

Arguments for the bridge have been made that it would be a direct route from the north side of the river to the south side, furnishing a short, direct route to the new municipal airport, and that the West Braddock Bridge has outlived its usefulness.

The proposed bridge would be much higher above the surface of the river than the proposed Homestead bridge, according to tentative plans.

NEW PUMP ENDS LOW PRESSURE

Relief came to those in the Squirrel Hill section who were complaining of low water pressure when the new 6,000,000 gallon pump at the Herron Hill Pumping Station was put into operation last Friday. Persons in this section have been complaining of low water pressure for years, residents on Dennistion avenue saying that water could not be drawn on the second floor when water was being drawn in the basement.

Braddock Ring Star Prefers Police Force

CHUCK HOLLERAN

Motorcycle Officer Quits as Boxer To Look On

Mention Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney or any one-time champion of the boxing arena in the Braddock district, and you're sure to hear the name of Chuck Holleran, motorcycle officer of the Braddock police force.

Chuck went in for football, baseball and basketball when he attended Braddock High School, but it was in boxing that he excelled. At 20, he won the national amateur tournament for the welterweight championship at Boston. Seeking new worlds to conquer, he went to Buenos Aires the same year, where he met Hector Mendez, Olympic champion. Mendez won a decision over Chuck in the third round.

The encounter with Mendez ended the Braddock champ's career. Expostulations, protests on the part of friends that he go into the ring in a professional way had no weight.

IMPROVEMENTS AND ADDITIONS RUSHED

Repairs Made by City Total $50,000, With Five New Buildings Incompleted

Workmen are rushing to completion the renovations, alterations and construction of schools in the East districts in the few days remaining before the opening of the fall term September 1. One of the largest enrollments in history is expected.

In the city, repairs costing $50,000 were made during the summer. The Taylor Allderdice was painted at a cost of $5,000, while other improvements were made to the Westinghouse, Peabody and Schenley High schools. The Brushton, Penn, Fort Pitt, Baxter, Madison, McKelvy, Osceola, Park Place and Spring schools were also painted, and new flooring was placed in the Friendship, Shakespeare, Osceola and Peabody schools.

Five other schools are under construction in the city, but will not be completed in time for the fall opening. The Davis and Mifflin schools and the addition to the Arsenal High School are to be completed by next year, while the Lincoln school will not be finished until the second semester.

In the East boroughs, several schools are undergoing alterations or improvements. The new nine-room addition to the Munhall High School is having furniture installed, while the Atlantic School addition, in Forest Hills, and the Trafford High School annex are receiving finishing touches.

Most schools are opening early this year due to the late date of Labor Day. With the exception of a few they will open on September 1.

Munhall's school board will open new bids tomorrow for the proposed 18-room high school to be built at Woodlawn avenue. Previous bids were refused as being excessive.

Swissvale's school year will open September 8, with the completion of several minor improvements on buildings and equipment. New bleachers have been placed on the athletic field and football training is expected to start immediately.

LOWER SCHOOL TAX SOUGHT

With a view to possible reduction in school taxes, the Wilkinsburg School Board has ordered a study to be made of the borough's school system. The action was taken upon a resolution sponsored by M. H. Henning and J. Don Ferguson, calling for the appointment of a committee from the board to investigate the school layout with an eye toward a reduction in the 1932 taxes.

The finance committee, including Mr. Henning, Al B. McMurray and Mrs. May S. Dean, was appointed by President Robert W. Allison to carry on the study in co-operation with Superintendent of Schools W. C. Graham and Floyd Carson, principal of the high school.

It is the hope of the committee to make possible a tax cut by reducing costs in various parts of the schools' administration.

Holding Auto With Hands, Man Saves Three Lives

John Pendro, of 334 Bell avenue, North Braddock, former life guard at the Monongahela River at Sixth street, Braddock, and secretary of the newly-formed Slovak Social Club of North Braddock, doesn't consider himself a hero. It was all part of the day's work, he figured, when his presence of mind recently saved from death or serious injury a mother, her small daughter and a baby in its carriage at the corner of Library street and Braddock avenue.

An automobile coupe, containing three women and a girl, halted at the corner, started up Library street when the light changed. A truck coming behind quickly filled up the gap. With the green light ahead, the mother and her daughter wheeling the carriage in which the baby slept, started to cross. At that instant the car which had turned up Library street slid back and was about to smash against the truck.

Pendro grabbed the coupe and by sheer strength held it back until the danger was past.

CAREERS OF 2 INTERLOCKED

Like Damon and Pythias of old, there are two hotel managers in Oakland whose business careers have comingled and interlocked during the past 10 years. In fact, last Friday marked the tenth anniversary of their venture into hotel work. They are Green B. Gibson, manager, and Dennis Conway, business promotion manager, of the Fairfax Hotel.

They came together in business and they have remained together in business. Gibson was born in the back hills of Kentucky, did not learn to read and write until he was 14, and had never seen a railroad train until he set out barefooted for Pittsburgh when he was 15. His first job here was peeling potatoes in a hotel kitchen. Advancement came and Green Gibson was a bellhop at the Fort Pitt Hotel, later becoming room clerk.

Dennis Conway eliminated the potato peeling training. He left his home in County Clare, Ireland, in 1910 and became a room clerk in a Chicago hotel. After the war he came to the Fort Pitt Hotel as room clerk and joined forces with Gibson. They decided to climb together.

Two years ago Gibson was offered the management of the Fairfax. There was no doubt in his mind as to who would be his promotion manager.

Every veteran is invited to attend. More than 25 veterans' organizations have been extended invitations to participate in the day's outing. BURGESS HOLDS ANNEXATION BILL FATE

Patton Township Addition To Wilmerding in Doubt Pending Action by Bishop

The fate of the ordinance passed by Wilmerding Borough favoring the annexation of 40 acres of Patton Township remains in doubt, pending the return from vacation of Burgess William Bishop, who has the power to veto the measure. The ordinance was passed by a vote of 4 to 3. Burgess Bishop is expected back August 31.

If the borough head should return the ordinance to council unsigned, a vote of one over a majority would be necessary to pass it over his objection, which is predicted by some members of the body.

ACTION SEPTEMBER 1

According to present schedule the ordinance is to be returned to council September 1 and at that time the Burgess will be required to give his reasons in writing if he should decide to veto the ordinance.

The vote of council on the third and last reading of the ordinance was Volpe, Dempster, Ray and Kukerin favoring, and Carthew, Pugsley and Boyle opposed.

HUMPHREY OPPOSED

A. L. Humphrey, president of Westinghouse Air Brake Company, is reported to be opposed to the measure at this time, believing that this is not the time to improve Patton street, for which reason the ordinance was presented.

Councilman Volpe has declared that he is determined to do all in his power to see the improvement of Patton street carried through.

7 Children Help Mother Mark 100th Birthday

Mrs. Eliza K. Wilson, 150 North Craig street, celebrated her one hundredth birthday at her home yesterday, with a reception and tea attended by members of her family from far and near.

Mrs. Wilson's philosophy of longevity has been serenity of mind, according to her niece, Mrs. George L. West, 925 Wellesley road. She reared 11 of her 12 children to maturity. Seven are living and attended her birthday celebration. She has three daughters living at home, Emma, Agnes and Clara, and four sons, James, Jr., Charles, Oscar and Harry.

Mrs. Wilson, born Eliza Mitchell in County Down, Ireland, came to this country as a young girl and married here. She has lived at her present home for 69 years. The old Wilson home was on the former site of the County Morgue, on Diamond street, near Ross.

Mrs. Wilson is active despite her years and has a keen mind, friends say. Her niece, Mrs. George West, presented her with a photographic copy of the old Pittsburgh Gazette, dated Friday, August 23, 1833. The picture was secured through the courtesy of Robert M. Ewing, at the Historical Society of Western Pennsylvania.

When Kisses are Perfect!

The Perfect Kiss, as Conceived in the Movies

Worst and Best Ways to Kiss Are Discussed by Famous English Doctor After Years of Research

TO find two people who agree on the definition of a kiss is probably a hopeless task! There have, however, been many attempts to define a kiss. The latest has been made by Dr. Josiah Oldfield, one of the most distinguished of English physicians.

Dr. Oldfield has not only defined the kiss from the scientific viewpoint but has analyzed the perfect kiss into three ingredients which must be properly mixed to be fully effective.

If you want to find out what these ingredients are—and how they should be mixed to produce the perfect kiss—be sure to read the unusual article reporting the results of Dr. Oldfield's extensive research in next Sunday's American Weekly.

Drought Proves Corn Test Help

JACKSON, Tenn.—(AP.)—Although the 1930 drought delayed corn breeding experiments at Tennessee agricultural stations by two or three years, the dry weather did assist in checking up on the drought-resistant properties of strains under examination. LINWOOD HOLDS FIRST PLACE IN LEAGUE

Homestead Aces, Victors In Initial Round, Hope To Avoid Playoff Series

East End sandlot fans are still watching a hectic race in the West Penn League. The greatest race in history of city sandlot baseball, with seven well balanced outfits battling to meet the Homestead Aces in the post season playoffs, naming a winner is something that even the critics are passing up.

At the present time the Linwood Clubs is leading the parade with Reliance Life and the Homestead Aces tied for second place.

The Aces got away to a bad start dropping the first two games, but since that time the Steel Workers have won seven in a row and now offer stern opposition to the Linwood leadership.

It is common knowledge that Jack Fertig, popular manager of the Aces is not keen for a short post-season series of games. Fertig has been in the managerial ranks long enough to know that anything can happen in a short series and the Aces are bent on upholding the Homestead supremacy of the sandlots.

Fertig will be hard hit shortly when his players leave for college. Al Haley, his capable shortstop already has left for East Brady but young Forquher returned from Yatesboro and plugged that gap. In a couple of weeks Leech, the classy first baseman, will go to St. Bonaventure and filling that position is another problem at this late stage.

It seems that with only two weeks to go Reliance Life, the Aces and Linwood will battle it out. Swissvale, the Martin club of Garfield, the Marty Griffin club of the Hill and Turtle Creek threatened for a while but they were not able to stand the pace.

Reliance with a great pair of pitchers in Capt. Spencer and Bill Gormley would be more than dangerous if the hitting would come up to its usual standard. The Reliance batters have been in a slump for a long while only Soapy Hey and Murphy coming through.

Osmonga has been twirling great ball for the Aces and he turned in his sixth straight victory against the Martin club on Sunday. In that game the Martin pitcher was young Red Gannon, son of the famous Red Gannan, battery mate of Eddie Artman at Wilmerding when the Airbrake was a power in independent baseball.

Red now is one of the most popular officials on the sandlots, working baseball, football and basketball games. Young Gannon looked very good. He had a world of stuff and lost a tough 2-to-1 game.

SEMI-PRO GRID ELEVENS SET FOR SEASON

East End Section to Be Well Represented This Fall In Sandlot Football

By TOM BIRKS

With the independent football season just a month away, followers of the kicking and carrying sport on the sandlots are beginning to wonder just what the makeup of the East End teams is going to be.

While it is a little early to get a good slant on the ideas of many of the managers, it becomes very apparent that plenty of changes will be in effect when the whistle blows on the opening day.

Last season the East End was in the throes of the great race in the Western Pennsylvania Independent Gridiron Conference. East Pittsburgh, McKeesport Olympics and McChesneytown for a time being very much in the fight.

This season there is a strong report that Linwood, one of the most famous clubs of other years in the East End, is seriously considering staging a comeback, and with lots of backing, is going to take its place as one of the leading clubs in the district. Karcis and Dutch Eyth, Carnegie Tech's backfield stars of last year, will be with the club.

Fans are keenly interested in the doings of the big clubs in McKeesport. Freddie Iverson, for many years manager of the famous Olympics, has passed from the picture and will not be connected with the famous Tube City club. Iverson was a power for many years in independent football and his passing from the game will be regretted. Bull Boyer and Sox Reed are handling the new Olympics and they have forsaken Rainbow Gardens for Olympia Park. Whether that is a good move remains to be seen.

East Pittsburgh fans probably will be pleased to know that Abbie Brown and Tommy Connelly again are taking over the reins of the East Pittsburgh Club. Under the wing of this combination two years ago the Firemen got some place in independent football.

However, it is rather early to say what independent managers are going to do. They change their minds with the changing of conditions but since sandlot baseball had a good year in spite of the depression, it also is felt that sandlot football will have another good year.

The conference was a great success last season, the clubs made more money than ever before but they also had greater payrolls and there is a chance that the payrolls will be cut down this fall.

50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARIES MINE OFFERED TO AID NEEDY

Two East Borough couples observed their golden wedding anniversaries Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. John Mayer, who have lived their entire lives in Thompson Run road, began their celebration last Saturday morning in St. Agnes' Catholic Church, Mifflin Township. The husband is 75 and his wife is 70.

The Rev. George Leichns, pastor, conducted the services, which were a repetition of their wedding service of 50 years ago. The golden wedding party included Mrs. Susan Zeebe, Duquesne, and Mrs. Elizabeth Lutz, Bridgeville, who were bridesmaids at the nuptial mass 50 years before; John Steiner, Thompson Run, and Jacob Mayer, Duquesne.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bain, of 1314 Lafayette street, Swissvale, observed the occasion of their fiftieth anniversary at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Frank Lee, Monroeville road, Turtle Creek. They have two other children, Mrs. Earl Buff, Brandock, and W. J. Bain, Swissvale, and nine grandchildren.

Swissvale's needy families need not be without fuel during the coming winter if the borough Council takes advantage of an offer by Joseph Milligan to turn over his coal mine, Milligan avenue, to the borough. Milligan's proposal was made with the understanding that work of mining the coal and operating trucks is to be provided by the community.

A committee to investigate the proposal was appointed at a special Council meeting last Friday. They are M. W. Culbertson, John S. Soles and C. L. Carther.

Free Haircuts For Children Discontinued

Homestead barbers will do no more free haircutting. Last week they voted to discontinue the practice of cutting poor children's hair as an act of charity, because they believe many children took advantage of the charity who had money to pay for haircuts.

The barbers decided to give 10-cent haircuts to children on the first Thursday of each month.

'Mystery' Plant Puzzles Munhall Gardener

William Moser, Washington street, Munhall, garden enthusiast for the last 37 years, is now puzzled by a strange plant recently discovered in his strawberry patch. He transplanted it in his lettuce bed and now the plant threatens to crowd out the lettuce, according to Moser.

He is unable to account for the plant's presence unless its seed was in a load of straw with which he covered his garden early in the spring.

The plant is 5 feet across and 2 feet high. It has small orchid-like flowers.
